On Command From U.S.

Mariner Devices To Scan Surface Of Planet Venus

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mariner 2, closing in for a look at the planet Venus, turned on its scanning instruments at 8:35 a.m. Eastern Standard Time today on command from a tracking station at Goldstone, Calif., 36 million miles away.

The National Aeronautics and Space administration said at 9 a.m. that the gold- and silver-plated spacecraft acknowledged receipt of the command in six and one half minutes.

The order turned on two devices called radiometers which will scan the surface and the atmosphere of Venus for 42 minutes, staritng 66 minutes before the craft's closest approach to Venus.

Response to the command represented the greatest distance ever spanned by an ordering radio signal, and produced sighs of relief from U.S. scientists. Two built-in command signals designed to turn on the instruments had failed to do the job.

After signals from the spacecraft assured the Goldstone station that Mariner had received the order, there was a delay of about 10 minutes while officials studied further signals to make sure the angle of direction of the radiometers was such that they would scan the planet.

Coded signals will be relayed by telephone from the Jet Propulsion Laboratory's Goldstone, Calif., tracking station and amplified over a public address system at a National Aeronautics and Space Administration news conference here.

The U.S. Information Agency, plans to send reports on Mariner's progress to 107 posts around the globe in 38 languages. Later there will be a documentary film of Mariner's progress for world-wide theatrical showings.

Mariner's journey got off to a bumpy start. Due to a somewhat faulty performance of the 10-story high Atlas-Agena B complex that launched her, she began her trip on a greatly off-target course.

That error was soon substantially corrected. Since then, though, Mariner has been beset by various other temporary troubles—some of them still a mystery.

While scientists expect to get a check on the condition of the spacecraft itself, they say it will be "at least weeks and possibly months" before they'll be able to say what Mariner actually found out about Venus.

2 To 4 More Inches Due Ohio Areas

Storm Appears To Be Tapering Off, Forecasters Report

By The Associated Press

"When will it stop?"

That was the question being asked today by many northeastern Ohio residents plagued by heavy snow for a week.

The answer from cautious weather forecasters was that the storm which has dropped up to 54 inches of snow appears to be tapering off. The forecast for today calls for more snow squalls, locally heavy, in an area stretching from Cleveland's eastern suburbs to the Ohio-Pennsylvania line.

The forecaster at the U.S. Weather Bureau said some areas might get from two to four inches of new snow.

Snow fell all during the night in the northeast sector, with fresh accumulations ranging from 1-3 inches in Cuyahoga County, about 1 inch in Lake County and 6 - 8 inches in Geauga and Ashtabula counties.

At least 28 storm - connected deaths have been reported in Ohio during the long siege of snow and cold.

Squalls Thursday added from two to six inches of snow to accumulations that have snarled traffic and kept highway crews working steadily.

The State Highway Department reported all state highways open in the area late Thursday night, but the highways were slippery and snow - covered, with some drifting.

In Geauga County, road crews reported at some points wind and snow closed the roads as fast as they were plowed.

A 7-mile stretch of the Lakeland Freeway, linking downtown Cleveland with Painesville, was closed late Thursday night west of Wickliffe because of drifting snow.

Drifts as tall as an automobile were reported around Painesville, where three feet of snow fell.

"The roads are really rough," said Edward Minor, a deputy sergeant in Lake County. "You can't go any faster than 15 miles an hour . . . and it feels like you're riding over a washboard the way the ice has formed."

"I've been around here 20 years, and these are about the most rugged driving conditions I can recall," said a veteran patrolman in Ashtabula, where a 6 - inch layer of snow was piled atop the 48 inches already on the ground.

The patrolman said the latest snow froze and coated the highways with a treacherous glaze.

In Cleveland, a fleet of nine police tow trucks manned by 35 policemen toiled through the night removing stalled cars threatening to plug some streets. Abandoned cars and those parked blocking the work of snowplows also were being moved.

Severe Pre-Winter Snap Fatal To 150; Huge Property Loss

By The Associated Press

A prolonged siege of unseasonably cold and snowy weather in the eastern half of the nation appeared moderating in most areas today.

Abnormally cold weather persisted in Florida, which has been hit by the coldest weather in more than 70 years, causing millions of dollars damage to fruit and vegetable crops.

Temperatures this morning again dropped below freezing in northern Florida and into the 30s as far south as Miami. However, the readings were higher than Thursday when the mercury dropped into the teens, marking the state's worst freeze since 1889.

The severe pre-winter weather also has taken a heavy toll in lives—estimates were up to 150. Damage to property was expected to run into the millions of dollars.

Snow squalls swept areas in the Northeast, already weary from more than a week of battling the wintry elements. The snow belt covered areas in Ohio, Indiana, Lower Michigan and western sections of New York State and Pennsylvania. Snow also fell in Western Maryland and in some parts of New England.

In Florida, harvest hands left the winter-killed vegetable farms and moved into the citrus groves in an attempt to salvage something from the heavy freeze. Fruit growers planned a quick harvest of some of the citrus to convert to juice before rising temperatures deteriorated the frozen fruit.

The Florida Citrus Commission reported damage was heavier than in the winter of 1957-58 when 30 million boxes of fruit froze on the branches and 30,000 trees were killed.

The Weather Bureau said there was a general moderation of temperatures in most of the eastern haif of the country.

U.S. Attacks Soviet Plans On Disarming

Claims Deliberate Efforts To Break Up Atlantic Unit

GENEVA (AP) — The United States attacked all current Soviet disarmament proposals today as deliberate efforts to break up the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and undermine the security of the free world.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur H. Dean told the 17-nation disarmament conference that the United States and its allies will never allow themselves to be lured into such a trap.

American nuclear delivery capacity and U.S. military bases around the fringes of the Soviet bloc are key elements of Western defense strategy which the West will not give up until the final stages of disarmament, Dean said.

The Soviet Union, he said, is wasting its time and blocking any start to general disarmament if it persists in its effort to "subvert the military and political position of the free world" with slanted proposals.

Dean said the Soviet demand for elimination of Western bases and nuclear striking power would "radically alter the world balance of military power in favor of the Soviet bloc during the very course and, indeed, rather close to the outset of disarmament."

"It should by now be clear to one and all that no amount of debate and casuistry—specious reasoning—will be able to convince the United States to abandon its allies in Europe and elsewhere to the mercies of the Soviet military machine," Dean said.

"We will not allow NATO to be fragmented, as would be the case under Soviet proposals, into 15 isolated military compartments forbidden from joint activity and cooperation and separated into split North American and European districts.

"We will not permit this situation to arise while the mighty Soviet military machine remains essentially intact in its own part of Eastern Europe under a single unified command.

"This is especially true when the superiority of the Soviet Union alone in tanks and artillery over combined NATO forces is quite substantial."

New Satellite Blasted Into Orbit By U.S.

Communications Device May Link Three Continents

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —A new communications satellite named Relay soared through space today awaiting a call that would put it to work as a versatile link among nations of the Western world.

A Thor-Delta rocket, living up to its reputation for reliability, lifted the 172-pound communications satellite into the heavens Thursday night, just one second behind its scheduled 6:30 p.m. departure. It was the 14th straight successful mission for Thor-Delta.

Three hours after liftoff, as Relay completed its first circle of the globe, a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced: "The orbit looks extremely close to nominal."

The exact path of Relay will be known after a careful study of telemetry data, sometime today, he said. A nominal—or planned—orbit called for a speed of 17,000 miles an hour, an orbital path ranging from 800 miles to 4,500 miles high, and one complete trip around the world every 3 hours and 4 minutes.

NASA's Robert Mackey said the first contact with Relay would be attempted by a NASA test station at Nutley, N.J. If its systems checked out favorably, the first communications experiments will be attempted by ground stations at Andover, Maine, and Goonhilly Downs, Great Britain.

Robert Gray, a NASA official, said the only interruption in the day-long countdown came in the early morning when workers at the launch pad had to pause to knock ice off the gantry. Relay rose into the heavens in the midst of Florida's worst cold spell in this century. The temperature at launch time was a windy 39 with the mercury falling.

Relay was launched at night so that it could speed over the horizon into the sunlight for maximum exposure during its first four orbits. This was necessary to allow the 8,215 solar cells lining its outer surface to soak up energy from the sun and convert it into

Before leaving here for the 11 a.m. meeting, DiSalle told newsmen he did not contemplate an offer of a federal job from the President. The governor said, "A federal job doesn't fit into my plans at the moment."

DiSalle declined to disclose the nature of the meeting but said it was arranged by telephone a few days after the Nov. 6 election.

U.S. Keeping Air Defense In Southeast

At Virtually Same Peak Strength Set Up In Cuban Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is maintaining the air defense system in the southeastern states at virtually the peak strength mustered in the first days of the Cuban crisis.

While the guard against air or missile strike is being kept up, Army ground forces which were moved to forward positions in Florida, Georgia and other neighboring areas to be ready for a defensive or invasion operation generally have been sent back to home bases. And the Navy's huge quarantine fleet has been cut to a small force.

At a news conference Wednesday, President Kennedy said it was "our best judgment" that the Russian ballistic missiles and bomber planes have been removed from Cuba. But he also said "these things are never 100 per cent" certain. For that reason, the President said, the United States will continue to use its own methods of inspection. The major means has been aerial reconnaissance.

It obviously is for the same reason, the inability to be 100 per

All 50 Survive Crash Of Brazilian Airliner

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Jornal do Brasil radio reported that all 50 persons aboard a Brazilian air liner which went down in the wilds of Amazonas state early today survived. The broadcast said some were injured but that there were no deaths.

Earlier, the newspaper Jornal do Brasil quoted military sources in Manaus, capital of Amazonas, as saying no signs of life could be detected when the wreckage of the Panair do Brasil Constellation was spotted in a jungle clearing 18 miles from Manaus.

The Constellations had last been heard from at 3 a.m., six minutes before it was to have landed at Manaus, on a flight from Belem.

Gets Urgings For Cut

Kennedy To Tell Of Tax Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amid powerful new urgings for a big tax cut next year, President Kennedy travels to New York to deliver a major speech tonight which he promised would give some details of the tax program he will propose to Congress.

The President will address the Economic Club of New York at 8:30 p.m. EST and then for 30 minutes will field questions fired from the floor.

Both the speech and the question-and-answer period will be taped for broadcast later on radio and television.

The President got some strong support Thursday for a 1963 tax reduction—a plan that has run into opposition from some key congressional leaders.

The business-financed Committee for Economic Development called for a $6-billion income tax cut with the greatest benefits going to high-income bracket individuals and corporations.

In a formal policy statement the committee also urged a second and later reduction of $5 billion—if Congress and the administration can hold federal spending at present levels.

This tax package, the CED said, would lead to "higher rates of production, employment, investment and growth."

It declared that although the immediate result of the tax changes might be larger budget deficits, the long-term result would be budget surpluses because the government would bring in greater revenue from a speeded-up economy.

Here is how the first stages of the CED's proposed tax program, which it said should be retroactive to Jan. 1, 1963, would work:

All individual income tax rates would be reduced at least 8 per cent and the maximum rate would be reduced from 91 per cent to 70 per cent.

The present 52 per cent corporate income tax rate would be cut to 47 per cent.

Individuals in the lowest bracket would receive $2 billion of the $6 billion of tax benefits, the CED's economists estimated. Tax payments by corporations and higher-bracket individuals would be reduced by $2 billion each.

Ladd Plumley, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, said reduction of tax rates and restraint in federal spending are next year's two top economic priorities.

In a Hartford, Conn., speech, Plumley renewed the chamber's call for reductions of $8 billion to $9 billion a year.

U.S. Defense Chief Speaks

NATO Told To Build Up Its Conventional Forces

PARIS (AP)—U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara told the North Atlantic Treaty Organization today it must build up its conventional forces to give the West a variety of responses to any Communist aggression.

In a 45-minute speech to NATO ministers and military chiefs, McNamara also underlined the willingness of the United States to help in the organization of a multinational European nuclear deterrent.

Some American experts believe the most effective arrangement of this type would be carried at sea. Ships armed with powerful nuclear rockets would provide this striking power.

Gen. Lauris Norstad, the retiring NATO commander, also underscored the need to build up the conventional strength of the alliance. In a farewell address, Norstad reviewed the progress the alliance has made and outlined the problems it might face in the future.

Private comment before the session showed the depth of emotion and resentment aroused by the unconcealed wish of the United States that Britain and France quit the nuclear league.

President Kennedy's administration regards the scattering of nuclear weapon power among national forces as a world danger and is advocating a combined NATO nuclear force as a war deterrent.

West Germany was backing the United States since postwar treaties and the memories of Germany's adversaries in two world wars bar her from having nuclear weapons.

British sensitivities have been rubbed raw by U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's proposal to junk the Skybolt, the air-launched American missile on which Britain pinned plans to keep

Cold Lessens, Snow Light— How Pleasant

Weekend Will See Further Moderation As Mercury Mounts

The East Liverpool area got two "reprieves" today in the apparently waning cold wave—there were no zero readings in the entire district and the new snow predicted for Thursday night was hardly more than half an inch.

Emerging slowly from the "Deep Freeze," the mercury was 10 to 15 degrees higher this morning than on yesterday morning. It was the equivalent of a "heat wave" by contrast.

Edwin Copeland, U.S. weather observer at Millport, had 11 below yesterday and 7 above this morning; the downtown had zero yesterday and 15 at 7 this morning, the Leetonia garage of the the State Highway Department had 11 above this morning contrasted to 5 below yesterday, and the Stratton Dam had 19 this morning with 3 above yesterday.

Today's high range will be 18 to 22 degrees — if the latter figure materializes it will be the highest reading since Sunday when the sub-zero cold moved into the Ohio Valley.

The Arctic - like cold will continue tonight, however, with 2 to 10 above forecast for Northeast Ohio, but it will not be quite so cold Saturday.

Oddities of the frigid spell the past 24 hours were the "yo-yo" temperature at the dam this morning and the average temperature yesterday at Copeland's station.

Copeland said the mercury did not go higher than 7 degrees yesterday, thus averaging out 2 below zero for the day. The average for a similar date in the last December cold wave in 1960 was 2½ degrees below zero. Similar averages have occured only on 20 days in the 70-year-old records of the station.

The dam said the temperature rose steadily after the 14-degree reading at 1 a.m., going to 19 at 7 a.m. then dropping 2 degrees

AACHEN, Germany (AP) — At least six miners died and seven were injured, one critically, in a blast 1,800 feet down in the Adolf coal mine today at nearby Merkstein, mining authorities reported.

Officials said it appeared the blast, cause undetermined, ignited oil feeding a generator. Fire broke out, sending choking fumes through the network of galleries below the surface.

Refuse Crew Speeds Work

Overtime Schedules Forced By Weather

Incinerator department crews will work a 10-hour schedule again today as they seek to overcome trash and garbage schedule delays caused by the snow and sub-zero cold, Supt. John Melvin said.

The crews started the 10 - hour schedule yesterday, catching up with delayed refuse pickups, Melvin said. By the end of the work day Saturday, both trash and garbage collections probably will be back on schedule, he said.

Melvin said the delays resulted particularly in the North Side and Sunnyside areas. In many cases, the crews were unable to move their trucks close to snow-bound homes, so they were forced to carry garbage or trash for some distance, he said.

In other instances, the crews found refuse frozen inside containers, requiring considerable time and effort to free it, Melvin added.

"We ask the public to continue to be patient," the superintendent said. "The men have worked long hours in severe cold to keep up with the schedules. I think we will be caught up by the end of the work day Saturday."

Severe Pre-Winter Snap Fatal To 150; Huge Property Loss

By The Associated Press

A prolonged siege of unseasonably cold and snowy weather in the eastern half of the nation appeared moderating in most areas today.

Abnormally cold weather persisted in Florida, which has been hit by the coldest weather in more than 70 years, causing millions of dollars damage to fruit and vegetable crops.

Temperatures this morning again dropped below freezing in northern Florida and into the 30s as far south as Miami. However, the readings were higher than Thursday when the mercury dropped into the teens, marking the state's worst freeze since 1889.

Snow squalls swept areas in the Northeast, already weary from more than a week of battling the wintry elements. The snow belt covered areas in Ohio, Indiana, Lower Michigan and western sections of New York State and Pennsylvania. Snow also fell in Western Maryland and in some parts of New England.

In Florida, harvest hands left the winter-killed vegetable farms and moved into the citrus groves in an attempt to salvage something from the heavy freeze. Fruit growers planned a quick harvest of some of the citrus to convert to juice before rising temperatures deteriorated the frozen fruit.

The Florida Citrus Commission reported damage was heavier than in the winter of 1957-58 when 30 million boxes of fruit froze on the branches and 30,000 trees were killed.

The Weather Bureau said there was a general moderation of temperatures in most of the eastern half of the country.

All 50 Survive Crash Of Brazilian Airliner

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Jornal do Brasil radio reported that all 50 persons aboard a Brazilian air liner which went down in the wilds of Amazonas state early today survived. The broadcast said some were injured but that there were no deaths.

Earlier, the newspaper Jornal do Brasil quoted military sources in Manaus, capital of Amazonas, as saying no signs of life could be detected when the wreckage of the Panair do Brasil Constellation was spotted in a jungle clearing 18 miles from Manaus.

The Constellations had last been heard from at 3 a.m., six minutes before it was to have landed at Manaus, on a flight from Belem.

Gets Urgings For Cut

Kennedy To Tell Of Tax Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amid powerful new urgings for a big tax cut next year, President Kennedy travels to New York to deliver a major speech tonight which he promised would give some details of the tax program he will propose to Congress.

The President will address the Economic Club of New York at 8:30 p.m. EST and then for 30 minutes will field questions fired from the floor.

Both the speech and the question-and-answer period will be taped for broadcast later on radio and television.

The President got some strong support Thursday for a 1963 tax reduction—a plan that has run into opposition from some key congressional leaders.

The business-financed Committee for Economic Development called for a $6-billion income tax cut with the greatest benefits going to high-income bracket individuals and corporations.

In a formal policy statement the committee also urged a second and later reduction of $5 billion—if Congress and the administration can hold federal spending at present levels.

This tax package, the CED said, would lead to "higher rates of production, employment, investment and growth."

It declared that although the immediate result of the tax changes might be larger budget deficits, the long-term result would be budget surpluses because the government would bring in greater revenue from a speeded-up economy.

Here is how the first stages of the CED's proposed tax program, which it said should be retroactive to Jan. 1, 1963, would work:

All individual income tax rates would be reduced at least 8 per cent and the maximum rate would be reduced from 91 per cent to 70 per cent.

The present 52 per cent corporate income tax rate would be cut to 47 per cent.

Individuals in the lowest bracket would receive $2 billion of the $6 billion of tax benefits, the CED's economists estimated. Tax payments by corporations and higher-bracket individuals would be reduced by $2 billion each.

Ladd Plumley, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, said reduction of tax rates and restraint in federal spending are next year's two top economic priorities.

In a Hartford, Conn., speech, Plumley renewed the chamber's call for reductions of $8 billion to $9 billion a year.

U.S. Defense Chief Speaks

NATO Told To Build Up Its Conventional Forces

PARIS (AP)—U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara told the North Atlantic Treaty Organization today it must build up its conventional forces to give the West a variety of responses to any Communist aggression.

In a 45-minute speech to NATO ministers and military chiefs, McNamara also underlined the willingness of the United States to help in the organization of a multinational European nuclear deterrent.

Some American experts believe the most effective arrangement of this type would be carried at sea. Ships armed with powerful nuclear rockets would provide this striking power.

Gen. Lauris Norstad, the retiring NATO commander, also underscored the need to build up the conventional strength of the alliance. In a farewell address, Norstad reviewed the progress the alliance has made and outlined the problems it might face in the future.

Private comment before the session showed the depth of emotion and resentment aroused by the unconcealed wish of the United States that Britain and France quit the nuclear league.

President Kennedy's administration regards the scattering of nuclear weapon power among national forces as a world danger and is advocating a combined NATO nuclear force as a war deterrent.

West Germany was backing the United States since postwar treaties and the memories of Germany's adversaries in two world wars bar her from having nuclear weapons.

British sensitivities have been rubbed raw by U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's proposal to junk the Skybolt, the air-launched American missile on which Britain pinned plans to keep

Cold Lessens, Snow Light—How Pleasant

Weekend Will See Further Moderation As Mercury Mounts

The East Liverpool area got two "reprieves" today in the apparently waning cold wave—there were no zero readings in the entire district and the new snow predicted for Thursday night was hardly more than half an inch.

Emerging slowly from the "Deep Freeze," the mercury was 10 to 15 degrees higher this morning than on yesterday morning. It was the equivalent of a "heat wave" by contrast.

Edwin Copeland, U.S. weather observer at Millport, had 11 below yesterday and 7 above this morning; the downtown had zero yesterday and 15 at 7 this morning, the Leetonia garage of the the State Highway Department had 11 above this morning contrasted to 5 below yesterday, and the Stratton Dam had 19 this morning with 3 above yesterday.

Today's high range will be 18 to 22 degrees — if the latter figure materializes it will be the highest reading since Sunday when the sub-zero cold moved into the Ohio Valley.

The Arctic - like cold will continue tonight, however, with 2 to 10 above forecast for Northeast Ohio, but it will not be quite so cold Saturday.

Oddities of the frigid spell the past 24 hours were the "yo-yo" temperature at the dam this morning and the average temperature yesterday at Copeland's station.

Copeland said the mercury did not go higher than 7 degrees yesterday, thus averaging out 2 below zero for the day. The average for a similar date in the last December cold wave in 1960 was 2½ degrees below zero. Similar averages have occured only on 20 days in the 70-year-old records of the station.

The dam said the temperature rose steadily after the 14-degree reading at 1 a.m., going to 19 at 7 a.m. then dropping 2 degrees

6 Killed, 7 Injured In German Mine Blast

AACHEN, Germany (AP) — At least six miners died and seven were injured, one critically, in a blast 1,800 feet down in the Adolf coal mine today at nearby Merkstein, mining authorities reported.

Forty miners were working in the affected gallery.

Refuse Crew Speeds Work

Overtime Schedules Forced By Weather

Incinerator department crews will work a 10-hour schedule again today as they seek to overcome trash and garbage schedule delays caused by the snow and sub-zero cold, Supt. John Melvin said.

The crews started the 10 - hour schedule yesterday, catching up with delayed refuse pickups, Melvin said. By the end of the work day Saturday, both trash and garbage collections probably will be back on schedule, he said.

Melvin said the delays resulted particularly in the North Side and Sunnyside areas. In many cases, the crews were unable to move their trucks close to snow-bound homes, so they were forced to carry garbage or trash for some distance, he said.

In other instances, the crews found refuse frozen inside containers, requiring considerable time and effort to free it, Melvin added.

"We ask the public to continue to be patient," the superintendent said. "The men have worked long hours in severe cold to keep up with the schedules. I think we will be caught up by the end of the work day Saturday."

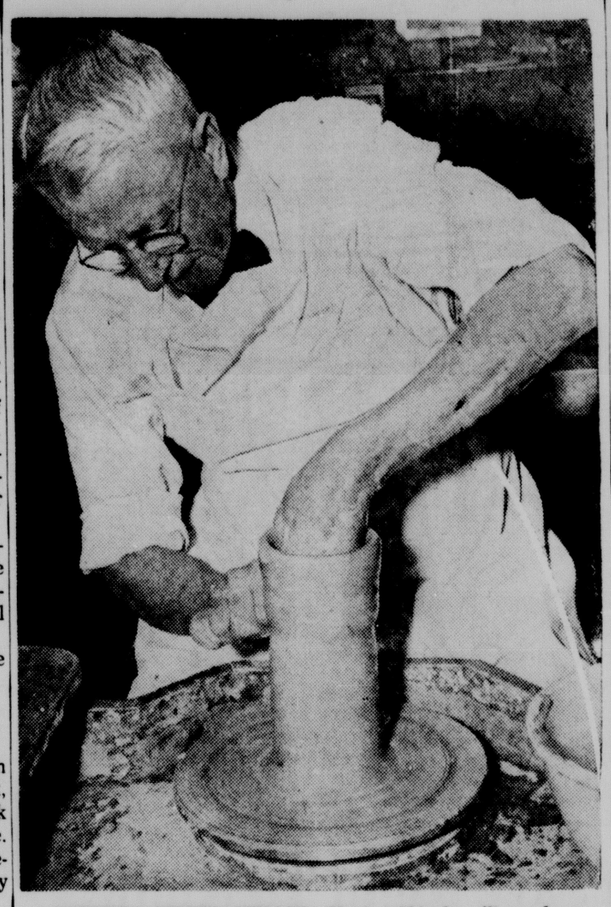
Marion Shiveley Dies; Last Of 'Clay Throwers'



POTTER'S WHEEL STILLED. Marion Shively will not be returning to his old wheel to demonstrate hand throwing of ceramic articles. The veteran potter who turned his retirement years into a career of showing how ware was made in the olden days, died at 84 Thursday. He frequently demonstrated the now almost forgotten trade skill at pottery shows and ceramic programs and this picture was taken of him in an appearance of a few years ago.

Marion Shiveley, 926 McKinnon Ave., a retired clayshop foreman at the Homer Laughlin China Co., died Thursday at 6:25 p.m. at City Hospital following a two-week illness. He was 84.

Mr. Shiveley was born Feb. 13, 1878, in West Bridgewater, and resided here for 62 years. He was employed at Homer Laughlin for 53 years and retired in 1953.

Following his retirement he settled down to his little "backyard pottery", a hobby he followed until 1957.

He attended various trade shows to demonstrate the old art of a clay thrower for the company, which he had learned as a boy of 12. He also gave lessons at one time. He traveled the country, participating in shows for the IBOP and USPA and also in union labor events. He was the only known hand thrower in the country.

He was a member of the Orchard Grove Community Methodist Church.

He leaves a son, Lawrence Shiveley of East Liverpool; three daughters, Mrs. Gladys Kinney and Mrs. Lucille Singer, both of East Liverpool, and Mrs. Stella Evans of Beaver; a brother, Oliver Shiveley, also of Beaver, five grandchildren, 13 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild. His wife, Mrs. Clara E. Shiveley, died Dec. 17, 1956.

Services will be held Monday at 2 p.m. at the Martin Funeral Home by the Rev. John F. Stilts. Burial will be in Riverview Cemetery.

Friends may call Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon and evening at the funeral home.

Case Continued Again For Salineville Driver

Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff today granted another continuance in the case of Frank J. Moore, 37 E. Lincoln Ave., Salineville, accused of bumping a woman pedestrian with his auto while backing Nov. 6 on Pennsylvania Ave.

The case was before the judge last on Nov. 13, when he granted a continuance until today after it was indicated a settlement was pending between the defendant and the prosecuting witness. Both parties joined in requesting another continuance today. No new date was set.

The charge was filed by Mrs. Doris Taylor of Boyd St., alleging that Moore backed his auto without giving "ample warning" or "exercising proper vigilance." Moore is represented by Atty. J. Warren Bettis of Salineville.

The American League had four 20-game winners last season, led by Yankee Ralph Terry's 23. Dick Donovan of Cleveland, Ray Herbert of the White Sox and Camilo Pascual of the Twins won 20 games each.

U.S. Strives To Head Off Dock Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government called in union and management negotiators today in an effort to avert an East and Gulf Coast shipping strike on Christmas Eve.

Dock workers who struck four days in early October are threatening a new walkout after a current 80-day emergency strike court injunction expires on Dec. 23. Negotiators are in complete deadlock with the deadline only nine days away.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, calling an afternoon meeting, advised both sides "the national interest must be considered more important than the bargaining position in which each of you seems so firmly frozen."

The dispute is over a new contract between the AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) and shipping and stevedoring firms handling pier cargo at ports from Maine to Texas. About 60,000 longshoremen are involved.

The ILA has rejected an employer offer to raise longshoremen's wages by 27 cents an hour over a three-year contract period.

Board To Buy School Buses

MIDDLETON — Advertising for bids for two new school buses for the Fairfield-Waterford District and a new public address system for the Fairfield School were authorized by the Board of Education Thursday night.

The board set the annual reorganization meeting for Jan. 10, and authorized advertising for bids for two new 66-passenger buses to be received at that meeting.

The board also approved a contract with the School Sound System of Dunkirk, N. Y., for a public address system for the Fairfield School which does not have one.

The equipment will be provided at a cost of $182 annually, to be presented to the district at the end of 10 years.

In other action, the board approved the tax rates and amounts set by the County Budget Commission.

The new rates, totaling 22 mills, down from the previous 23 mills, include 5.2 mills inside the 10-mill limitation, 12.8 mills outside and 4 mills for bond retirement.

Valuation of the district under the recent reappraisal was set at $13,186,857, up from the previous $11,987,000.

The board approved paying for power to operate two new blinker lights to be erected by the Ohio Highway Department near the New Waterford School. cent certain, that the strong radar warning, fighter interceptor and anti - aircraft missile system is being maintained.

In the swift deployment at the outset of the Cuban crisis, both the interceptor plane and radar warning system was at least doubled.

Although the Defense Department has not announced specific figures, it is understood that about 1,000 Air Force fighters were sent into airfields in Florida and adjoining areas.

There has been no announcenouncement concerning return to bases of tactical aircraft which had been dispersed to various bases near the southeastern states and of the calling off of the high degree of alert for the Strategic Air Force fleet of bombers.

So far as is known, the augmented antiaircraft defenses, including Hawk missile batteries, is being kept intact.

Even though the Army has pulled out most of the ground forces moved temporarily into forward staging positions, the normal deployment of troops provides a substantial force in the southeastern area. This includes a division each at Ft. Benning, Ga., and Ft. Bragg, N.C. The Marine Corps has a division at Camp Lejeune, N.C., less elements which are rotated aboard ships in the Caribbean area.

Case Continued Again For Salineville Driver

Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff today granted another continuance in the case of Frank J. Moore, 37 E. Lincoln Ave., Salineville, accused of bumping a woman pedestrian with his auto while backing Nov. 6 on Pennsylvania Ave.

The case was before the judge last on Nov. 13, when he granted a continuance until today after it was indicated a settlement was pending between the defendant and the prosecuting witness. Both parties joined in requesting another continuance today. No new date was set.

The charge was filed by Mrs. Doris Taylor of Boyd St., alleging that Moore backed his auto without giving "ample warning" or "exercising proper vigilance." Moore is represented by Atty. J. Warren Bettis of Salineville.

The American League had four 20-game winners last season, led by Yankee Ralph Terry's 23. Dick Donovan of Cleveland, Ray Herbert of the White Sox and Camilo Pascual of the Twins won 20 games each.

U.S. Strives To Head Off Dock Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government called in union and management negotiators today in an effort to avert an East and Gulf Coast shipping strike on Christmas Eve.

Dock workers who struck four days in early October are threatening a new walkout after a current 80-day emergency strike court injunction expires on Dec. 23. Negotiators are in complete deadlock with the deadline only nine days away.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, calling an afternoon meeting, advised both sides "the national interest must be considered more important than the bargaining position in which each of you seems so firmly frozen."

The dispute is over a new contract between the AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) and shipping and stevedoring firms handling pier cargo at ports from Maine to Texas. About 60,000 longshoremen are involved.

The ILA has rejected an employer offer to raise longshoremen's wages by 27 cents an hour over a three-year contract period.

Mrs. June Johnson, 25, of R.D. 2 was treated at 11:30 p.m. for first and second degree burns of the body and face suffered when accumulated gas ignited.

Helen King of Industry, clerk at a local store, suffered injuries of the elbow, forearm and shoulder in a fall on a sidewalk in the downtown area.

Board To Buy School Buses

MIDDLETON -- Advertising for bids for two new school buses for the Fairfield-Waterford District and a new public address system for the Fairfield School were authorized by the Board of Education Thursday night.

The board set the annual reorganization meeting for Jan. 10, and authorized advertising for bids for two new 66-passenger buses to be received at that meeting.

The board also approved a contract with the School Sound System of Dunkirk, N. Y., for a public address system for the Fairfield School which does not have one.

The equipment will be provided at a cost of $182 annually, to be presented to the district at the end of 10 years.

In other action, the board approved the tax rates and amounts set by the County Budget Commission.

The new rates, totaling 22 mills, down from the previous 23 mills, include 5.2 mills inside the 10-mill limitation, 12.8 mills outside and 4 mills for bond retirement.

Valuation of the district under the recent reappraisal was set at $13,186,857, up from the previous $11,987,000.

The board approved paying for power to operate two new blinker lights to be erected by the Ohio Highway Department near the New Waterford School. Purchase of drapes for the south windows at Crestview High School and Title Three projects — $271 for mathematics and $177 for an overhead projector—were authorized.

cent certain, that the strong radar warning, fighter interceptor and anti - aircraft missile system is being maintained.

In the swift deployment at the outset of the Cuban crisis, both the interceptor plane and radar warning system was at least doubled.

Although the Defense Department has not announced specific figures, it is understood that about 1,000 Air Force fighters were sent into airfields in Florida and adjoining areas.

There has been no announcenouncement concerning return to bases of tactical aircraft which had been dispersed to various bases near the southeastern states and of the calling off of the high degree of alert for the Strategic Air Force fleet of bombers.

So far as is known, the augmented antiaircraft defenses, including Hawk missile batteries, is being kept intact.

Even though the Army has pulled out most of the ground forces moved temporarily into forward staging positions, the normal deployment of troops provides a substantial force in the southeastern area. This includes a division each at Ft. Benning, Ga., and Ft. Bragg, N.C. The Marine Corps has a division at Camp Lejeune, N.C., less elements which are rotated aboard ships in the Caribbean area.

Circumstantial Evidence Of Dumping

United States Steel Corp., probably reflecting the feelings of other producers here, has aimed a poke at steel producers in West Germany, Great Britain and Belgium-Luxembourg.

It accuses them in a complaint to the commissioner of customs in Washington of "dumping" steel pipe in the United States, to the detriment of pipe made by the National Tube Division of U.S. Steel.

The bill of complaint makes interesting reading.

It points out, among other things, that welded standard steel pipe made abroad takes about 20 per cent of the total market in this country and that this began during the steel strike of 1959. That strike, incidentally, keeps bobbing up as the starting place for a growing list of economic upheavals. Surely it must have been one of the greatest bloopers of the 20th century.

Even more interesting is the argument that welded pipe made abroad and laid down at dockside in the United States for less than it cost here represents dumping. The basis is that the price charged for the same product in the West German market is appreciably more than the price charged in the United States.

This, says the U.S. Steel complaint, is contrary to anti-dumping laws, which define dumping as getting rid of surplus production aborad for less than the cost of production. There's that ominous phrase again —"cost of production."

U.S. producers of steel fought a hostile inquiry headed by Sen. Kefauver into their own "cost of production." And what if it turns out that West German steel pipe is being sold here at a profit and the price is higher in West Germany only because it is being sold there at even greater profit?

What would happen then to the supposition that pipe is being dumped here because the price is low? In fact, what is happening to the supposition that the great benefit of international trade is competitive prices?

—But Don't Threaten Us

A report that the British-American alliance is strained because of the failure of the Skybolt missile is beyond comprehension.

This missile apparently has turned out to be one of the costly failures of a program of trying so many things simultaneously that some of them were bound to succeed. In five tests there were five failures, whereupon, the Department of Defense said it would scrap the Skybolt project.

This was a blow to U.S. taxpayers, who had spent some $650 million on it. But it was a harder blow to the British government, which had pinned the continuation of its manned bomber program to Skybolt missiles, after discontinuing its own unsuccessful Blue Streak missile.

Skybolt missiles were to have been carried in British bombers to high altitudes and fired as air to ground projectiles with a range of 1,000 miles. There is nothing in sight to take their place, and the British government is reported to be furious.

It is so furious it is grumbling about getting even, perhaps kicking the United States out of the Holy Loch Polaris base, or doing some other drastic thing to show the undependable Americans they can't fool around with the lion and come off with a whole skin.

Does this kind of outburst justify appeasement? What would happen if the United States just once would respond stiffly to a studied insult that it has no desire to stay where it isn't wanted and would start to pull out of the United Kingdom as soon as it could crate up all its belongings, including those lovely objects every Briton admires—dollar bills?

Cotton Corners

By Truman Twill

Dear Nephew: As to what you are going to get me for Christmas, let's play no cute games this year. Do not try to be clever.

I do not want a little brush for getting rid of fuzz in my fuse box, or even a chain to tell me which bottle I am holding by the throat. I have enough mufflers to make drapes for a public library and I do not wear mufflers anyway.

My bureau holds boxes of neckties I've never opened and, as you know, I buy my gloves at the filling station and they have writing on them. I do not need gadgets to tend bar with nor any haberdashery.

I am the man who has nothing. But there are several things I want desperately and never get around to purchasing for myself.

If you want to be a good kid this Christmas and make your old uncle as happy as a clam in food time, buy me 10 pounds of assorted nails at a hardware store. If you want to pile it up high and make this a Christmas never to be forgotten, throw in five pounds of assorted screws, three pounds of assorted washers and a set of faucet washers.

That is my idea of Christmas—even for men and women who have everything. Pick out something they have that is going to be used up and give them a replacement.

For example, can you think of anything you'd appreciate more than a couple of new tires for your car—just to pick out something at random?

Or can you think of anything I'd appreciate more than a couple of first-class replacements for dead soldiers that have died in the line of duty fighting snakes, common colds and ennui here at Cotton Corners?

Not that I want to knock Ye Gifte Shoppe merchandise, which is fine for those who like it—not that at all. I just want to get things squared away in time for the Yuletide showdown.

Like your aunt, for example. This practical woman wants nothing more than kindling. She wouldn't know what to do with an ermine wrap if she had one. But she has this thing going about kindling, which represents security and luxury to her.

It's one of a few things we never could agree on. I am not a kindling addict.

I had no searing experiences in my childhood because kindling represents nothing to me. I do not crave it.

She does. So I am going to give her kindling for Christmas and if she will heed me I will get bags of concrete mix in return. Me, I want to have plenty of concrete mix handy at all times. If I were a pipe smoker, I expect I'd feel the same way about tobacco and matches. I'd live in fear of running out.

Do we understand each other? Do not try to be clever about buying me a Christmas present. Don't try to be clever about your aunt either. She wouldn't say boo, but anything except kindling would be a waste of money and solicitude.

When your family gets back together, convey our regards to one and all. Next thing we know it will be Happy New Year.

Communism's 2 Roads

By Edward Crankshaw

LONDON

The text of Mr. Khrushchev's final speech to the plenum of the Central Committee of the Soviet Communist party, which ended a week ago, still has not become public.

But even without that speech, which evidently carried the process of de-Stalinization farther than ever before, enough already has come out of that meeting to indicate it marked another turning point in the post-Stalin development of Soviet Russia.

The outstanding feature was the almost casual shift of emphasis in the functions of the Communist party, which is to be split into two distinct steams, the industrialists and the agriculturists.

FROM NOW on, the Communist elite will not consist of a group of functionaries exercising over - all supervision, at all levels of central and local government, of economic, social and cultural life of the country. Instead, we have the beginning of two great pressure groups within the party, each concerned with making one branch of the economy work and fighting the other for priorities and money for investment.

It is hard to believe that the new devisive tendency will stop at an "A" stream and a "B" stream. Mr. Khrushchev went out of his way to indicate that this enhanced preoccupation with production will not in any way detract from the ideological and cultural work of the party, which, he said, will continue undiminished.

Perhaps it will. But as the existing party secretaries at every level are drawn more deeply into the specialized orbits of industry and agriculture, Mr. Khruschev will have to create a special force to supervise the intellectual or social life of the country, a kind of ideoligical elite within the party, which will sooner or later find itself in conflict with men on the job.

Mr. Khrushchev rose to power by basing himself on the party apparatus in opposition to the vested interests of the huge bureaucratic structures of the production ministries.

On the face of it he stood for the ideological as opposed to the managerial interest. But his actions, those of an extremely practical man, have often belied his words.

I have suggested more than once that what he was setting out to do was to create a new and streamlined government machine run by men who owed everything to him and on whose loyalty he could count — in short, that in building up the party Mr. Khrushchev was in the process of changing its nature.

THE EXPANSION of the secretariat of the Central Committee, hitherto the stamping ground of the pure party devotees, to include new men who will be concerned above all with productive aspects of the economy, confirms this view.

This heavy shift of emphasis, together with the changes in the planning structure, the new opportunities for initiative now conceded to the factory directorates (all under the supervision of Khrushchev's men), and the new expedients adopted to increase and rationalize production by giving greater attention to costing and accounting, is only a logical development (but still far from the logical climax) of an old process.

The process is two-fold: One aspect is summarized in Mr. Khrushchev's repeated statements that Communism is concerned with production and prosperity — as opposed to political manipulation; the other is to draw increasing numbers of gifted, non-political Russians into active participation in the development of the economy; less and less tentatively they are to be guided rather than ordered about. Less and less tentatively they will make their voices heard.

America Must Save Right To Know

Administration News Policy Causes Concern

The American Society of Newspaper Editors freedom of information chairman has made a report of deep concern for the American people.

The report leads to the conclusion that evidence is mounting that the Kennedy administration is attempting to clamp down censorship on the nation.

Worse yet, in the course of attempting to propagandize the public by manipulating news, there has been evidence of outright falsehood on the part of federal officials.

It is one thing to cover up such details as troop movements and attack or defense plans. It is another to try to conceal from the American public information it must have in order to form an intelligent collective opinion as to whether the administration is operating under proper policy.

JOHN H. COLBURN, managing editor of the Richmond (Va.) Times-Dispatch, chairman of the American Society of Newspaper Editors freedom of information committee, states the facts by date:

JUST THREE DAYS before President Kennedy revealed on Oct. 22 in his address to the nation that Russian missiles and offensive weapons had been stockpiled in Cuba, the Defense Department denied it had any information indicating the presence of offensive weapons in Cuba. President Kennedy's address revealed the lie in that denial.

THE PENTAGON informed newsmen, and through them the country, that any ships which failed to observe the Cuban blockade would be shot out of the water. It was a tough statement. Yet American newsmen have learned in the meantime that the blockade was selective, that some ships (especially Scandinavian) ignored the blockade, that the Navy's interception of several ships was staged, though the public was led to believe it was real.

DIRECTIVES were issued to Defense and State department personnel to answer no questions.

THE INFORMATION OFFICIAL for the Defense Department, Arthur Sylvester, defined the attempts to manipulate the news as "part of the arsenal of weaponry" a U.S. president has to help him solve military or political problems and apply international pressures.

There are many details of the Cuban affair that Americans should know but still do not know.

"The results," Mr. Sylvester confessed, "in my opinion, justify the methods we used."

THAT IS THE shocking part of the whole sordid business: that responsible American public officials really should think they have a mission to conceal facts the public should know in order to achieve results they want to achieve.

That is the way it is done in the dictator countries. The American people will not long stand for being deceived or even kept in ignorance of information they must have for reaching sound judgments about their country's policies and its public officials.

Continuation of such a policy cannot help but result in the long run to the detriment of the very public officials who claim they are acting in what they believe are the best interests of the public.

Once it discovers it has been deceived, the public cannot help but develop suspicion where it should have confidence, disbelief even though it finally might be told the truth.

REP. JOHN E. MOSS, D-Calif., chairman of the House Special Subcommittee on Government Information, already has been heard from in this matter. He protested:

"To imply that the entire government information process is part of the maneuvers of international relations is to ignore the workings of our democratic system."

In times of crisis, he admitted, greater control of government information most certainly is required. But, he added:

"It is imperative that the American public be given every possible item of information consistent with our real security needs so that it will be prepared for the role it must play in the nation's defense."

Rep. Moss' committee is preparing to investigate early in 1963 the adequacy of government information plans in emergency situations.

The investigation should rouse the interest of every congressman. The fate of American freedom could depend on it.

Ellender's Service

By Raymond Moley

Before the one-world zealots go much further in denouncing Sen. Allen J. Ellender, the great services of this Louisianian should be considered.

It seems that a number of comic - opera governments have closed the gates of their jungles against the senator. Their potentates say that he said that so far as he had been able to determine, they have made no progress toward self-government since they hoisted the flags of independence. And so, instead of welcoming him and showing evidence that he might be wrong, a number of them decided to keep him out.

Unnamed spokesmen in Washington have declared themselves to be "deeply disturbed." What they ought to be disturbed about is their own irresponsible action in ordering Michel Streulens, an official representative of Katanga, out of the United States.

They ought to be disturbed also by the unbelievable waste of American money in our aid to emergent and incompetent nations in Asia and Africa.

Perhaps such a judgment of the African states is a violation of the niceties of diplomacy. For despite their own doubts, diplomatic spokesmen must hail these dictatorships as wonderful examples of free institutions at work.

But Sen. Ellender is no diplomat. As a senator he conceives himself to be responsible for the money of American taxpayers. And over the years he has met that responsibility better than any of his colleagues.

HIS TIME and energy have been spent, whenever his duties in Washington have permitted, in visiting the countries of the world. His reports of what he has seen have been most illuminating and helpful to our taxpayers and to Congress.

Mr. Bell, our new distributor of aid, would profit by a study of the Ellender reports. This senator, well past the age of 65, has visited scores of countries, braving the perils of climate, food and disease in pursuit of his duty.

For example, on one of his visits to Korea he found that our almsgiver there had built certain flour mills.

When Ellender questioned this man, he found that the Koreans raised no wheat, and that he was urging them to export their rice and import wheat. This was in the interest of his theories about the Korean diet.

That Ellender's warning about such nonsense was ignored is now demonstrated by a recent two-volume report by Comptroller General Campbell. It shows that from 1957 to 1961 the United States spent $1.2 billion which Korea was too incompetent to use.

Poor planning and administration were quite general. Monumental waste and blunders were common. More than $250 million went into the importation of fertilizer.

Human Restraint

By David Lawrence

Newspaper Strike Shows Need For Understanding

"Human welfare"—the boasted slogan of the liberal and the proclaimed objective of the politically minded in public office—has a strange and ironic sound today.

David Lawrence

For in the biggest city of the nation, 20,000 human beings are forced out of work and tens of thousands of others are idle because of a shutdown of the newspapers. Millions of persons are deprived of their primary source of daily information.

Stores which depend on large advertisements to attract business during the Christmas season are being badly hurt in two cities—New York and Cleveland. Commercial losses run up to millions of dollars a day—all because of the stoppage of nine daily newspapers in New York and vicinity and of the daily papers in Cleveland.

Who is to blame? The answer is that human beings themselves are to blame. It's a kind of war. There's aggression and cruelty in it. Acquisitiveness is exaulted. Extortion is openly condoned as employers are threatened with ruin unless union demands are met. The labor union's goal is to get what it demands, irrespective of whether the jobs of the strikers themselves become imperiled just as similar jobs have, indeed, been ended for all time in many cities in the country.

High production expenses—due chiefly to rising labor costs—have deprived four-fifths of the cities of the United States of a rival newspaper in the afternoon and morning fields. The principle that nobody could interfere with a free press in America has been repeatedly violated, and countless numbers of workers have paid the penalty of an irresponsible unionism.

IN NEW YORK CITY, for instance, the leaders of the 3,000 members of the International Typographical Union there have precipitated a strike. All the other unions—also composed of human beings with an obligation to judge their fellow men fairly — are schooled to be indifferent to the merits of the dispute by agreeing not to cross the picket lines of a striking union.

The employers are compelled to negotiate contract after contract with the individual unions —teamsters, news handlers, delivery men, reporters and others. Any one of the unions thus can bring about a tie-up of the whole plant.

Are the printers underpaid? Everyone naturally wants more wages. The newspaper publishers in New York City announced their willingness to pay $7,500 a year to their printers. The union demands more than $8,000 a year. The present salary is $7,330, apart from fringe benefits.

These are relatively big salary figures—and perhaps more than is being earned nowadays by many people in America with a daily output of much more physical energy. Granting that it is a desirable scale, is a war the only way to achieve such an objective? Do the employers hold out just because they are selfish? Or are they perhaps right when they say some of them will go bankrupt if they have to pay higher wages?

MANY NEWSPAPERS are known to be operating at a deficit. One of the bigger publishing companies in New York operates at a narrower margin of profit than most newspapers in other big cities. But the union insists on uniformity of wage scales. Wages must be the same for all newspapers in New York City, no matter what the financial condition of one or more of the publishing companies happens to be—that's the prevailing concept among the unions.

This is an inhumane attitude but union leaders don't feel that they are obliged to take into account the plight of the employer. If he goes out of business and workers are thrown out of their jobs, it is just too bad, say the leaders. Unfortunately, the major part of the unemployment in America today is directly or indirectly due to irresponsible drives of the labor unions themselves for higher pay. In some cases, they have forced automation that might never have come if there had been tolerable wage rises based on some formula that would have given both sides a chance to improve their positions gradually.

Labor should be paid progressively a better and better wage right along. But employers should have a chance to earn a fair profit.

Who will regulate all this—the government? The government is run by politicians, who know there are many more labor votes than employer votes. Government is one-sided.

SO THE ANSWER doesn't like in letting the government handle the problem. The solution has to come from individual human beings as they learn something about self - restraint. Maybe if those preachers in New York City who talk so much politics in their pulpits would join with the worshipers in the pews and begin to pray for guidance, a solution might be found. Most human beings in America, when confronted with all the facts, are fair and can settle their differences without holding a gun at each other's heads.

Too many labor leaders go to extremes in their demands because they think it popularizes them with the members and gets them the votes to stay in power at big salaries. There are no better persons than the rank and file of American workers. It should be their task to convert their leaders to the simple precepts of mutual restraint and a tolerance of the other fellow's problems as he tries hard to operate a business at a profit so as to earn a return on other people's money invested in his business, and at the same time provide jobs for the workers.

Letter To Editor

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

In regards to Mr. Red Cartwright's letter in last night's Review about the cross on the hill overlooking the cities of East Liverpool and Wellsville.

Mr. Cartwright said it was a symbol of Christ's resurrection. We will agree with that, but we disagree with him that it is out of place at this time. To the people of this world it means hope, peace and goodwill to fellow men.

We hope this symbol of Christ's death and hope will be put up again next year and for many years to come, as it shows we the people of the tri-state district look upon it with joy and compassion for all men.

Out Of Step

Americans are a country mile out of step with much of the world when it comes to measuring.

The United States, Canada, Australia and New Zealand are the only nations still using Fahrenheit instead of the Centigrade or Celsius scale to gauge temperature. Britain changed to Centigrade in 1961.

Almost 90 per cent of the world's population uses the metric system of measures and weights. The simple decimal system recognizes natural relationships. It measures length by centimeters, area by square centimeters and volume by cubic centimeters.

Americans, in practice, use the metric scale in such fields as research science and the pharmaceutical industry. Camera film comes in millimeters — 8, 16 and 35. The United States Army will convert all its weapon measurements to meters by 1966.

In daily life, however, Americans employ at least 85 different weights and measures. Length comes by the inch, foot, yard, chain, rod, furlong, league and mile. Area may be in square miles or acres. Volumes and weights are stated in teaspoons, quarts, pecks, gallons, barrels, bushels, drams, gills and cords.

Circumstantial Evidence Of Dumping

United States Steel Corp., probably reflecting the feelings of other producers here, has aimed a poke at steel producers in West Germany, Great Britain and Belgium-Luxembourg.

It accuses them in a complaint to the commissioner of customs in Washington of "dumping" steel pipe in the United States, to the detriment of pipe made by the National Tube Division of U.S. Steel.

The bill of complaint makes interesting reading.

It points out, among other things, that welded standard steel pipe made abroad takes about 20 per cent of the total market in this country and that this began during the steel strike of 1959. That strike, incidentally, keeps bobbing up as the starting place for a growing list of economic upheavals. Surely it must have been one of the greatest bloopers of the 20th century.

Even more interesting is the argument that welded pipe made abroad and laid down at dockside in the United States for less than it cost here represents dumping. The basis is that the price charged for the same product in the West German market is appreciably more than the price charged in the United States.

This, says the U.S. Steel complaint, is contrary to anti-dumping laws, which define dumping as getting rid of surplus production aborad for less than the cost of production. There's that ominous phrase again —"cost of production."

U.S. producers of steel fought a hostile inquiry headed by Sen. Kefauver into their own "cost of production." And what if it turns out that West German steel pipe is being sold here at a profit and the price is higher in West Germany only because it is being sold there at even greater profit?

What would happen then to the supposition that pipe is being dumped here because the price is low? In fact, what is happening to the supposition that the great benefit of international trade is competitive prices?

—But Don't Threaten Us

A report that the British-American alliance is strained because of the failure of the Skybolt missile is beyond comprehension.

This missile apparently has turned out to be one of the costly failures of a program of trying so many things simultaneously that some of them were bound to succeed. In five tests there were five failures, whereupon, the Department of Defense said it would scrap the Skybolt project.

This was a blow to U.S. taxpayers, who had spent some $650 million on it. But it was a harder blow to the British government, which had pinned the continuation of its manned bomber program to Skybolt missiles, after discontinuing its own unsuccessful Blue Streak missile.

Skybolt missiles were to have been carried in British bombers to high altitudes and fired as air to ground projectiles with a range of 1,000 miles. There is nothing in sight to take their place, and the British government is reported to be furious.

It is so furious it is grumbling about getting even, perhaps kicking the United States out of the Holy Loch Polaris base, or doing some other drastic thing to show the undependable Americans they can't fool around with the lion and come off with a whole skin.

Does this kind of outburst justify appeasement? What would happen if the United States just once would respond stiffly to a studied insult that it has no desire to stay where it isn't wanted and would start to pull out of the United Kingdom as soon as it could crate up all its belongings, including those lovely objects every Briton admires—dollar bills?

Cotton Corners

By Truman Twill

Dear Nephew: As to what you are going to get me for Christmas, let's play no cute games this year. Do not try to be clever.

I do not want a little brush for getting rid of fuzz in my fuse box, or even a chain to tell me which bottle I am holding by the throat. I have enough mufflers to make drapes for a public library and I do not wear mufflers anyway.

My bureau holds boxes of neckties I've never opened and, as you know, I buy my gloves at the filling station and they have writing on them. I do not need gadgets to tend bar with nor any haberdashery.

I am the man who has nothing. But there are several things I want desperately and never get around to purchasing for myself.

If you want to be a good kid this Christmas and make your old uncle as happy as a clam in food time, buy me 10 pounds of assorted nails at a hardware store. If you want to pile it up high and make this a Christmas never to be forgotten, throw in five pounds of assorted screws, three pounds of assorted washers and a set of faucet washers.

That is my idea of Christmas—even for men and women who have everything. Pick out something they have that is going to be used up and give them a replacement.

For example, can you think of anything you'd appreciate more than a couple of new tires for your car—just to pick out something at random?

Or can you think of anything I'd appreciate more than a couple of first-class replacements for dead soldiers that have died in the line of duty fighting snakes, common colds and ennui here at Cotton Corners?

Not that I want to knock Ye Gifte Shoppe merchandise, which is fine for those who like it—not that at all. I just want to get things squared away in time for the Yuletide showdown.

Like your aunt, for example. This practical woman wants nothing more than kindling. She wouldn't know what to do with an ermine wrap if she had one. But she has this thing going about kindling, which represents security and luxury to her.

It's one of a few things we never could agree on. I am not a kindling addict.

I had no searing experiences in my childhood because kindling represents nothing to me. I do not crave it.

She does. So I am going to give her kindling for Christmas and if she will heed me I will get bags of concrete mix in return. Me, I want to have plenty of concrete mix handy at all times. If I were a pipe smoker, I expect I'd feel the same way about tobacco and matches. I'd live in fear of running out.

Do we understand each other? Do not try to be clever about buying me a Christmas present. Don't try to be clever about your aunt either. She wouldn't say boo, but anything except kindling would be a waste of money and solicitude.

When your family gets back together, convey our regards to one and all. Next thing we know it will be Happy New Year.

Communism's 2 Roads

By Edward Crankshaw

LONDON

The text of Mr. Khrushchev's final speech to the plenum of the Central Committee of the Soviet Communist party, which ended a week ago, still has not become public.

But even without that speech, which evidently carried the process of de-Stalinization farther than ever before, enough already has come out of that meeting to indicate it marked another turning point in the post-Stalin development of Soviet Russia.

The outstanding feature was the almost casual shift of emphasis in the functions of the Communist party, which is to be split into two distinct steams, the industrialists and the agriculturists.

FROM NOW on, the Communist elite will not consist of a group of functionaries exercising over - all supervision, at all levels of central and local government, of economic, social and cultural life of the country. Instead, we have the beginning of two great pressure groups within the party, each concerned with making one branch of the economy work and fighting the other for priorities and money for investment.

It is hard to believe that the new devisive tendency will stop at an "A" stream and a "B" stream. Mr. Khrushchev went out of his way to indicate that this enhanced preoccupation with production will not in any way detract from the ideological and cultural work of the party, which, he said, will continue undiminished.

Perhaps it will. But as the existing party secretaries at every level are drawn more deeply into the specialized orbits of industry and agriculture, Mr. Khruschev will have to create a special force to supervise the intellectual or social life of the country, a kind of ideoligical elite within the party, which will sooner or later find itself in conflict with men on the job.

Mr. Khrushchev rose to power by basing himself on the party apparatus in opposition to the vested interests of the huge bureaucratic structures of the production ministries.

On the face of it he stood for the ideological as opposed to the managerial interest. But his actions, those of an extremely practical man, have often belied his words.

I have suggested more than once that what he was setting out to do was to create a new and streamlined government machine run by men who owed everything to him and on whose loyalty he could count — in short, that in building up the party Mr. Khrushchev was in the process of changing its nature.

THE EXPANSION of the secretariat of the Central Committee, hitherto the stamping ground of the pure party devotees, to include new men who will be concerned above all with productive aspects of the economy, confirms this view.

This heavy shift of emphasis, together with the changes in the planning structure, the new opportunities for initiative now conceded to the factory directorates (all under the supervision of Khrushchev's men), and the new expedients adopted to increase and rationalize production by giving greater attention to costing and accounting, is only a logical development (but still far from the logical climax) of an old process.

The process is two-fold: One aspect is summarized in Mr. Khrushchev's repeated statements that Communism is concerned with production and prosperity — as opposed to political manipulation; the other is to draw increasing numbers of gifted, non-political Russians into active participation in the development of the economy; less and less tentatively they are to be guided rather than ordered about. Less and less tentatively they will make their voices heard.

America Must Save Right To Know

Administration News Policy Causes Concern

The American Society of Newspaper Editors freedom of information chairman has made a report of deep concern for the American people.

The report leads to the conclusion that evidence is mounting that the Kennedy administration is attempting to clamp down censorship on the nation.

Worse yet, in the course of attempting to propagandize the public by manipulating news, there has been evidence of outright falsehood on the part of federal officials.

It is one thing to cover up such details as troop movements and attack or defense plans. It is another to try to conceal from the American public information it must have in order to form an intelligent collective opinion as to whether the administration is operating under proper policy.

JOHN H. COLBURN, managing editor of the Richmond (Va.) Times-Dispatch, chairman of the American Society of Newspaper Editors freedom of information committee, states the facts by date:

JUST THREE DAYS before President Kennedy revealed on Oct. 22 in his address to the nation that Russian missiles and offensive weapons had been stockpiled in Cuba, the Defense Department denied it had any information indicating the presence of offensive weapons in Cuba. President Kennedy's address revealed the lie in that denial.

THE PENTAGON informed newsmen, and through them the country, that any ships which failed to observe the Cuban blockade would be shot out of the water. It was a tough statement. Yet American newsmen have learned in the meantime that the blockade was selective, that some ships (especially Scandinavian) ignored the blockade, that the Navy's interception of several ships was staged, though the public was led to believe it was real.

DIRECTIVES were issued to Defense and State department personnel to answer no questions.

THE INFORMATION OFFICIAL for the Defense Department, Arthur Sylvester, defined the attempts to manipulate the news as "part of the arsenal of weaponry" a U.S. president has to help him solve military or political problems and apply international pressures.

There are many details of the Cuban affair that Americans should know but still do not know.

"The results," Mr. Sylvester confessed, "in my opinion, justify the methods we used."

THAT IS THE shocking part of the whole sordid business: that responsible American public officials really should think they have a mission to conceal facts the public should know in order to achieve results they want to achieve.

That is the way it is done in the dictator countries. The American people will not long stand for being deceived or even kept in ignorance of information they must have for reaching sound judgments about their country's policies and its public officials.

Continuation of such a policy cannot help but result in the long run to the detriment of the very public officials who claim they are acting in what they believe are the best interests of the public.

Once it discovers it has been deceived, the public cannot help but develop suspicion where it should have confidence, disbelief even though it finally might be told the truth.

REP. JOHN E. MOSS, D-Calif., chairman of the House Special Subcommittee on Government Information, already has been heard from in this matter. He protested:

"To imply that the entire government information process is part of the maneuvers of international relations is to ignore the workings of our democratic system."

In times of crisis, he admitted, greater control of government information most certainly is required. But, he added:

"It is imperative that the American public be given every possible item of information consistent with our real security needs so that it will be prepared for the role it must play in the nation's defense."

Rep. Moss' committee is preparing to investigate early in 1963 the adequacy of government information plans in emergency situations.

The investigation should rouse the interest of every congressman. The fate of American freedom could depend on it.

Ellender's Service

By Raymond Moley

Before the one-world zealots go much further in denouncing Sen. Allen J. Ellender, the great services of this Louisianian should be considered.

It seems that a number of comic - opera governments have closed the gates of their jungles against the senator. Their potentates say that he said that so far as he had been able to determine, they have made no progress toward self-government since they hoisted the flags of independence. And so, instead of welcoming him and showing evidence that he might be wrong, a number of them decided to keep him out.

Unnamed spokesmen in Washington have declared themselves to be "deeply disturbed." What they ought to be disturbed about is their own irresponsible action in ordering Michel Streulens, an official representative of Katanga, out of the United States.

They ought to be disturbed also by the unbelievable waste of American money in our aid to emergent and incompetent nations in Asia and Africa.

Perhaps such a judgment of the African states is a violation of the niceties of diplomacy. For despite their own doubts, diplomatic spokesmen must hail these dictatorships as wonderful examples of free institutions at work.

But Sen. Ellender is no diplomat. As a senator he conceives himself to be responsible for the money of American taxpayers. And over the years he has met that responsibility better than any of his colleagues.

HIS TIME and energy have been spent, whenever his duties in Washington have permitted, in visiting the countries of the world. His reports of what he has seen have been most illuminating and helpful to our taxpayers and to Congress.

Mr. Bell, our new distributor of aid, would profit by a study of the Ellender reports. This senator, well past the age of 65, has visited scores of countries, braving the perils of climate, food and disease in pursuit of his duty.

For example, on one of his visits to Korea he found that our almsgiver there had built certain flour mills.

When Ellender questioned this man, he found that the Koreans raised no wheat, and that he was urging them to export their rice and import wheat. This was in the interest of his theories about the Korean diet.

That Ellender's warning about such nonsense was ignored is now demonstrated by a recent two-volume report by Comptroller General Campbell. It shows that from 1957 to 1961 the United States spent $1.2 billion which Korea was too incompetent to use.

Poor planning and administration were quite general. Monumental waste and blunders were common. More than $250 million went into the importation of fertilizer.

Human Restraint

By David Lawrence

Newspaper Strike Shows Need For Understanding

"Human welfare"—the boasted slogan of the liberal and the proclaimed objective of the politically minded in public office—has a strange and ironic sound today.

David Lawrence

For in the biggest city of the nation, 20,000 human beings are forced out of work and tens of thousands of others are idle because of a shutdown of the newspapers. Millions of persons are deprived of their primary source of daily information.

Stores which depend on large advertisements to attract business during the Christmas season are being badly hurt in two cities—New York and Cleveland. Commercial losses run up to millions of dollars a day—all because of the stoppage of nine daily newspapers in New York and vicinity and of the daily papers in Cleveland.

Who is to blame? The answer is that human beings themselves are to blame. It's a kind of war. There's aggression and cruelty in it. Acquisitiveness is exaulted. Extortion is openly condoned as employers are threatened with ruin unless union demands are met. The labor union's goal is to get what it demands, irrespective of whether the jobs of the strikers themselves become imperiled just as similar jobs have, indeed, been ended for all time in many cities in the country.

High production expenses—due chiefly to rising labor costs—have deprived four-fifths of the cities of the United States of a rival newspaper in the afternoon and morning fields. The principle that nobody could interfere with a free press in America has been repeatedly violated, and countless numbers of workers have paid the penalty of an irresponsible unionism.

IN NEW YORK CITY, for instance, the leaders of the 3,000 members of the International Typographical Union there have precipitated a strike. All the other unions—also composed of human beings with an obligation to judge their fellow men fairly — are schooled to be indifferent to the merits of the dispute by agreeing not to cross the picket lines of a striking union.

The employers are compelled to negotiate contract after contract with the individual unions —teamsters, news handlers, delivery men, reporters and others. Any one of the unions thus can bring about a tie-up of the whole plant.

Are the printers underpaid? Everyone naturally wants more wages. The newspaper publishers in New York City announced their willingness to pay $7,500 a year to their printers. The union demands more than $8,000 a year. The present salary is $7,330, apart from fringe benefits.

These are relatively big salary figures—and perhaps more than is being earned nowadays by many people in America with a daily output of much more physical energy. Granting that it is a desirable scale, is a war the only way to achieve such an objective? Do the employers hold out just because they are selfish? Or are they perhaps right when they say some of them will go bankrupt if they have to pay higher wages?

MANY NEWSPAPERS are known to be operating at a deficit. One of the bigger publishing companies in New York operates at a narrower margin of profit than most newspapers in other big cities. But the union insists on uniformity of wage scales. Wages must be the same for all newspapers in New York City, no matter what the financial condition of one or more of the publishing companies happens to be—that's the prevailing concept among the unions.

This is an inhumane attitude but union leaders don't feel that they are obliged to take into account the plight of the employer. If he goes out of business and workers are thrown out of their jobs, it is just too bad, say the leaders. Unfortunately, the major part of the unemployment in America today is directly or indirectly due to irresponsible drives of the labor unions themselves for higher pay. In some cases, they have forced automation that might never have come if there had been tolerable wage rises based on some formula that would have given both sides a chance to improve their positions gradually.

Labor should be paid progressively a better and better wage right along. But employers should have a chance to earn a fair profit.

Who will regulate all this—the government? The government is run by politicians, who know there are many more labor votes than employer votes. Government is one-sided.

SO THE ANSWER doesn't like in letting the government handle the problem. The solution has to come from individual human beings as they learn something about self - restraint. Maybe if those preachers in New York City who talk so much politics in their pulpits would join with the worshipers in the pews and begin to pray for guidance, a solution might be found. Most human beings in America, when confronted with all the facts, are fair and can settle their differences without holding a gun at each other's heads.

Too many labor leaders go to extremes in their demands because they think it popularizes them with the members and gets them the votes to stay in power at big salaries. There are no better persons than the rank and file of American workers. It should be their task to convert their leaders to the simple precepts of mutual restraint and a tolerance of the other fellow's problems as he tries hard to operate a business at a profit so as to earn a return on other people's money invested in his business, and at the same time provide jobs for the workers.

Letter To Editor

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

In regards to Mr. Red Cartwright's letter in last night's Review about the cross on the hill overlooking the cities of East Liverpool and Wellsville.

Mr. Cartwright said it was a symbol of Christ's resurrection. We will agree with that, but we disagree with him that it is out of place at this time. To the people of this world it means hope, peace and goodwill to fellow men.

We hope this symbol of Christ's death and hope will be put up again next year and for many years to come, as it shows we the people of the tri-state district look upon it with joy and compassion for all men.

Out Of Step

Americans are a country mile out of step with much of the world when it comes to measuring.

The United States, Canada, Australia and New Zealand are the only nations still using Fahrenheit instead of the Centigrade or Celsius scale to gauge temperature. Britain changed to Centigrade in 1961.

Almost 90 per cent of the world's population uses the metric system of measures and weights. The simple decimal system recognizes natural relationships. It measures length by centimeters, area by square centimeters and volume by cubic centimeters.

Americans, in practice, use the metric scale in such fields as research science and the pharmaceutical industry. Camera film comes in millimeters — 8, 16 and 35. The United States Army will convert all its weapon measurements to meters by 1966.

In daily life, however, Americans employ at least 85 different weights and measures. Length comes by the inch, foot, yard, chain, rod, furlong, league and mile. Area may be in square miles or acres. Volumes and weights are stated in teaspoons, quarts, pecks, gallons, barrels, bushels, drams, gills and cords.

Industry Man Suffers Burns

An Industry father of two children was hospitalized with burns suffered early this morning in an accident at the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co., and two fellow workers were burned slightly in tearing off his flaming clothing.

Virgil Backus, 25, a millwright, of Meadowbrook Estates was in "fair" condition at Rochester General Hospital with third, second and first degree burns of the back.

Joe Ammon of Wellsville, a millwright helper, and Charles Firle of Ohio View, a welder repairman, suffered minor burns in extinguishing the fire and pulling off Backus' burning clothing, a Crucible spokesman said. They were treated at the plant hospital.

The mishap occurred at 2:45 a.m. as the men were removing a valve from a hydraulic system.

The valve had been partially removed when oil sprayed out and was ignited by an open flame heater, setting fire to Backus' clothing. The spokesman said. Backus has been employed at Crucible seven years.

Weather

by 8 a.m. Normally, the temperature rises after dawn.

But comfortable relief from the bitter cold remains a few days away. The five-day forecast indicates temperatures will continue 10 to 15 degrees below normal, with some moderation tomorrow through Monday then a colder turn Tuesday and Wednesday.

The long-range forecast indicates some snow beginning late tomorrow and continuing Sunday, with flurries for the remainder of the period.

The forecast for the immediate area is for a few flurries tonight then clearing when the mercury drops, with some snow by tomorrow afternoon.

The State Highway Department said only three trucks were on duty last night after the light snow that accumulated from steady flurries.

The County Highway Department reported some drifting last night as the result of light winds, and the roads were being plowed today. Slippery spots were being cindered.

Main roads in the county remained slippery in places today, according to the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon, and secondary roads were hazardous due to ice and snow.

The small accumulation did not cause any further trouble for Columbiana County rural schools, some of which suspended classes Wednesday, resuming Thursday.

In East Liverpool, two trucks and crews were called out last night to scatter ashes and salt on main thoroughfares, including the freeway.

Asst. Supt. Ed Bowersock said one crew worked from 6 to 11 p. m. and another was called out 5:30 and quit at midnight.

The light snow packed into a thin coat of ice under traffic, making driving hazardous, he said. Trucks are cindering today on secondary streets, he said.

Crews from the Pughtown Garage of the West Virginia State Road Commission began ashing roads in Hancock County when the first flurries started yesterday and worked throughout the night, Julian Wilson, supervisor, reported.

After cindering the main traffic arteries, the eight ash trucks started work on the secondary roads. Wilson said the roads are now in "good shape" but caution was advised.

Pennsylvania State Police at Beaver Falls said highways were slippery in places. Chains are not necessary but motorists should use caution, the barracks said.

Woman Given Jail Term As Drunk Driver

A 48-year-old East Liverpool woman was given a three - day term in city jail, fined $200 and costs and her operator's permit was suspended for 90 days when she pleaded guilty before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff today on a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol.

She is Mrs. Mary S. Dunn, 746 St. Clair Ave., one of the few women ever brought into the local court on the charge since state law and city ordinances were revised a few years ago to make it mandatory for a court of record to impose at least a three-day term for such an offense.

Mrs. Dunn was taken into custody Thursday at 4:39 p.m. on Pennsylvania Ave. at Turner Alley by Patrolman Samuel E. Hayes, police reported.

In an unsworn statement to the court, the arresting officer said East Liverpool police were alerted by the Midland department, which said "a possible drunken driver" was headed west in a red and white Buick.

Officer Hayes said he spotted Mrs. Dunn "weaving all over the street" and trailed by a line of nine or 10 cars whose drivers were reluctant to attempt to pass her. He said he trailed her a short distance, then halted her.

Queried by the judge, Mrs Dunn declined to make a statement or give an explanation.

Snow Fought On Fire Run

Glenmoor and Calcutta volunteer firemen battled through deep snowdrifts to a house trailer on Echo Dell Rd. at midnight Thursday and found a small fire had been nearly quelled by the time they arrived.

The blaze started in an oil furnace in the trailer and spread to a nearby wall, causing slight damage.

Firemen said several youngsters were rushed from the trailer by their mother and taken to another trailer nearby. A neighbor helped extinguish the fire, which may have started from leaking oil ignited by an electrical short.

Glenmoor Fire Chief Harry Reckner said the department responded with a pumper truck and emergency car. "The snowdrifts were deep, the worse we have run into this year, in fact it was like driving through a tunnel," Reckner said.

Calcutta volunteer firemen also responded with two vehicles. Firemen did not know the name of the occupants of the trailer.

The annual Christmas dinner of the Jolly Eight Club was held at the Hotel Wick at Lisbon Wednesday night, followed by a gift exchange and cards with Mrs. Bruce Sullivan of Lisbon.

Industry Man Suffers Burns

An Industry father of two children was hospitalized with burns suffered early this morning in an accident at the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co., and two fellow workers were burned slightly in tearing off his flaming clothing.

Virgil Backus, 25, a millwright, of Meadowbrook Estates was in "fair" condition at Rochester General Hospital with third, second and first degree burns of the back.

Joe Ammon of Wellsville, a millwright helper, and Charles Firle of Ohio View, a welder repairman, suffered minor burns in extinguishing the fire and pulling off Backus' burning clothing, a Crucible spokesman said. They were treated at the plant hospital.

The mishap occurred at 2:45 a.m. as the men were removing a valve from a hydraulic system.

The valve had been partially removed when oil sprayed out and was ignited by an open flame heater, setting fire to Backus' clothing. The spokesman said. Backus has been employed at Crucible seven years.

Weather

by 8 a.m. Normally, the temperature rises after dawn.

But comfortable relief from the bitter cold remains a few days away. The five-day forecast indicates temperatures will continue 10 to 15 degrees below normal, with some moderation tomorrow through Monday then a colder turn Tuesday and Wednesday.

The long-range forecast indicates some snow beginning late tomorrow and continuing Sunday, with flurries for the remainder of the period.

The forecast for the immediate area is for a few flurries tonight then clearing when the mercury drops, with some snow by tomorrow afternoon.

The State Highway Department said only three trucks were on duty last night after the light snow that accumulated from steady flurries.

The County Highway Department reported some drifting last night as the result of light winds, and the roads were being plowed today. Slippery spots were being cindered.

Main roads in the county remained slippery in places today, according to the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon, and secondary roads were hazardous due to ice and snow.

The small accumulation did not cause any further trouble for Columbiana County rural schools, some of which suspended classes Wednesday, resuming Thursday.

In East Liverpool, two trucks and crews were called out last night to scatter ashes and salt on main thoroughfares, including the freeway.

Asst. Supt. Ed Bowersock said one crew worked from 6 to 11 p. m. and another was called out 5:30 and quit at midnight.

The light snow packed into a thin coat of ice under traffic, making driving hazardous, he said. Trucks are cindering today on secondary streets, he said.

Crews from the Pughtown Garage of the West Virginia State Road Commission began ashing roads in Hancock County when the first flurries started yesterday and worked throughout the night, Julian Wilson, supervisor, reported.

After cindering the main traffic arteries, the eight ash trucks started work on the secondary roads. Wilson said the roads are now in "good shape" but caution was advised.

Pennsylvania State Police at Beaver Falls said highways were slippery in places. Chains are not necessary but motorists should use caution, the barracks said.

Woman Given Jail Term As Drunk Driver

A 48-year-old East Liverpool woman was given a three - day term in city jail, fined $200 and costs and her operator's permit was suspended for 90 days when she pleaded guilty before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff today on a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol.

She is Mrs. Mary S. Dunn, 746 St. Clair Ave., one of the few women ever brought into the local court on the charge since state law and city ordinances were revised a few years ago to make it mandatory for a court of record to impose at least a three-day term for such an offense.

Mrs. Dunn was taken into custody Thursday at 4:39 p.m. on Pennsylvania Ave. at Turner Alley by Patrolman Samuel E. Hayes, police reported.

In an unsworn statement to the court, the arresting officer said East Liverpool police were alerted by the Midland department, which said "a possible drunken driver" was headed west in a red and white Buick.

Officer Hayes said he spotted Mrs. Dunn "weaving all over the street" and trailed by a line of nine or 10 cars whose drivers were reluctant to attempt to pass her. He said he trailed her a short distance, then halted her.

Queried by the judge, Mrs Dunn declined to make a statement or give an explanation.

Snow Fought On Fire Run

Glenmoor and Calcutta volunteer firemen battled through deep snowdrifts to a house trailer on Echo Dell Rd. at midnight Thursday and found a small fire had been nearly quelled by the time they arrived.

The blaze started in an oil furnace in the trailer and spread to a nearby wall, causing slight damage.

Firemen said several youngsters were rushed from the trailer by their mother and taken to another trailer nearby. A neighbor helped extinguish the fire, which may have started from leaking oil ignited by an electrical short.

Glenmoor Fire Chief Harry Reckner said the department responded with a pumper truck and emergency car. "The snowdrifts were deep, the worse we have run into this year, in fact it was like driving through a tunnel," Reckner said.

Calcutta volunteer firemen also responded with two vehicles. Firemen did not know the name of the occupants of the trailer.

Facts You Should Know About Septic Tanks

A Septic Tank is actually the "stomach" of the disposal system, its purpose being to digest and liquefy the solids entering it, discharging liquids to the disposal area.

In general, Septic Tanks are constructed of steel or concrete, varying size from 500 to 10,000 gallon capacities. Correctly made and installed, they form an air-tight and watertight chamber.

The inlet carries the raw sewage into the first chamber of the tank. Most of the solids will settle to the bottom of this chamber, developing bacterial colonies which "feed" on these solids. This bottom layer is termed, "sludge". A crust or "mat" will usually form on the top, this being composed mainly of greases and fatty substances which have a tendency to float. The second chamber enables further clarification of the water prior to passing out to the drainage area. Water leaving a Septic Tank is referred to as "effluent."

Septic Tanks will operate satisfactorily as long as the "mat" and "sludge" do not build up to the point where they start feeding through into the second chamber, and then out to the drainage area. Unfortunately, most people wait until the system "backs-up", which means that the tank is completely clogged and that large amounts of solids have passed through with the effluent.

Most Septic Tank failures are caused by (1) introduction of chemicals which destroy the bacteria life, (2) overloading, i.e., putting more into the tank in any 24-hour period than its designed capacity, (3) temperature changes which slow down the bacterial digestion, and (4) excessive use of greases and fats.

Regular use of "SEA-CAL" preferably combined with an initial "seeding" of the tank with "SEA-CAL" will usually eliminate all of the problems by introducing powerful glandular enzymes which accelerate the digestive action and prevent the passage of solids to the drainage area. Enzymes, such as are used in "SEA-CAL", are also extremely resistant to temperature and all changes, and the addition of millions of bacterial cultures (80,000,000 per gram) in SEA-CAL replaces the bacterial colonies that may have been destroyed.

It would be untrue to state that a Septic Tank need never be pumped, since sewage can only be digested to a point of "ash" and the introduction of inorganic materials such as sand, grit, metal, and glass, will create a build-up over a period of time that will have to be removed. However, with regular monthly treatments of SEA-CAL these pumpings should occur only at ten or twenty-year intervals.

Relay's power supply was designed to permit communications tests for 1 hour, 40 minutes each day. Its designers predicted it would operate at maximum efficiency for the first 30 days in orbit, and render useful data for one year.

It is geared to relay television, radio, teletype, telephone, and high-speed data signals between Andover, Goonhilly Downs and Pleumeurboudou, France. A station at Funcino, Italy, not yet completed, will be able to receive its signals.

Stations at Nutley, N.J., and Rio de Janeiro were designed to exchange voice and teletype tests, with the Brazilian station also passing along these tests to the Italian station.

The Saturday schedule calls for news stories to be exchanged between the United States and Europe. Similar transmissions are planned Monday between the United States and South America.

If all goes well, the public will witness an intercontinental Christmas program Wednesday televised through Relay. The program, carried by all three U.S. television networks, will feature yuletide preparations in 11 nations on the North American and European continents.

Relay is kin to Telstar, the orbiting switchboard which went dead in late November after four highly successful months of transmitting television pictures, radio and telephone conversations between the United States and Europe. But its parentage is different.

Telstar was privately built and financed by American Telephone and Telegraph Co. Relay was a NASA satellite, built under government contract by Radio Corporation of America.

Rotarians At Midland Will Treat Children

The meeting was conducted by Raymond Stowitzky, vice president, in the absence of Sal Glorioso, president. Group singing was led by William Moll. Leo Curto gave the invocation.

Hearing Set Today In Hancock Dispute

A hearing is scheduled this afternoon in Hancock County Circuit Court in New Cumberland in the feud of three Hancock County Commissioners over the purchase of two cruisers for the office of Sheriff Joseph H. Manypenny.

Judge Ralph E. Pryor will be asked by Lyle F. Virden and James Finley to issue a writ of mandamus that would compel William C. Graham to authorize payment on the two vehicles from Hilltop Motors of Weirton.

Newell Civic Group Elects

Mrs. Sadye Nally was elected as president of the Newell Civic Council at a meeting Thursday night in the American Legion Post 114 home.

She fills a vacancy created by the resignation of Mrs. George Cawthon, who served in 1962. Other officers will continue in 1963.

They are Arch Coen, vice president; Mrs. Gertrude Stephens, treasurer; Miss Martha Troop, corresponding, secretary, and Miss Betty Buben, recording secretary.

Ten members, representing eight civic organizations in the community, attended. Meditations on Christmas were given by Mrs. Ruth Sprouse. The Rev. Charles Haddock offered prayer.

The council realized about $74 in sponsoring a public spaghetti dinner in October, it was reported. Several needy families have been aided by the group recently. Plans were approved to continue sponsoring teen-age dances.

Rev. Haddock, Miss Buben and Mrs. Cawthon were named as a committee to audit the books by the end of the year. Mrs. Martha Hapach of the Panhandle Business & Professional Women's Club was welcomed as a new representative.

Next meeting is March 14.

Jury Disagreement Ends Officer's Trial

The Mercer County Criminal Court jury deliberated four hours, then told Judge Howard M. Jarrett they could not reach a verdict.

It was the fourth case of jury disagreement in the four cases tried thus far in Bluefield's police scandal of last summer. Land, 50, was charged with a 1949 supermarket burglary, and was indicted jointly with former Lt. Charles H. Fox, the state's principal witness.

Earlier, trials of suspended Patrolman Roby Brown and suspended Sgt. Eugene Kirk also ended without a verdict. In all, seven officers were indicted in charges dating back to 1946.

Land's case was reset for the January term of court.

But the London Daily Mail said British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan has agreed to give up the Skybolt and to accept McNamara's offer of Polaris missiles instead. The Mail said a $700-million crash program would be launched in British shipyards to build a fleet of nuclear submarines for the American missiles. Britain will supply the warheads, as she planned to do for the Skybolt.

Completion of development of the Skybolt, President Kennedy has estimated, would cost at least $2 billion more. The United States, after five failures in firing tests and nearly $500 million spent on the missile, was reported to have offered to turn the project over to Britain for completion.

Mrs. Sadye Nally was elected as president of the Newell Civic Council at a meeting Thursday night in the American Legion Post 114 home.

She fills a vacancy created by the resignation of Mrs. George Cawthon, who served in 1962. Other officers will continue in 1963.

They are Arch Coen, vice president; Mrs. Gertrude Stephens, treasurer; Miss Martha Troop, corresponding, secretary, and Miss Betty Buben, recording secretary.

Ten members, representing eight civic organizations in the community, attended. Meditations on Christmas were given by Mrs. Ruth Sprouse. The Rev. Charles Haddock offered prayer.

Jury Disagreement Ends Officer's Trial

The Mercer County Criminal Court jury deliberated four hours, then told Judge Howard M. Jarrett they could not reach a verdict.

It was the fourth case of jury disagreement in the four cases tried thus far in Bluefield's police scandal of last summer. Land, 50, was charged with a 1949 supermarket burglary, and was indicted jointly with former Lt. Charles H. Fox, the state's principal witness.

Earlier, trials of suspended Patrolman Roby Brown and suspended Sgt. Eugene Kirk also ended without a verdict. In all, seven officers were indicted in charges dating back to 1946.

Land's case was reset for the January term of court.

But the London Daily Mail said British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan has agreed to give up the Skybolt and to accept McNamara's offer of Polaris missiles instead. The Mail said a $700-million crash program would be launched in British shipyards to build a fleet of nuclear submarines for the American missiles. Britain will supply the warheads, as she planned to do for the Skybolt.

Completion of development of the Skybolt, President Kennedy has estimated, would cost at least $2 billion more. The United States, after five failures in firing tests and nearly $500 million spent on the missile, was reported to have offered to turn the project over to Britain for completion.

Relay's power supply was designed to permit communications tests for 1 hour, 40 minutes each day. Its designers predicted it would operate at maximum efficiency for the first 30 days in orbit, and render useful data for one year.

It is geared to relay television, radio, teletype, telephone, and high-speed data signals between Andover, Goonhilly Downs and Pleumeurboudou, France. A station at Funcino, Italy, not yet completed, will be able to receive its signals.

Stations at Nutley, N.J., and Rio de Janeiro were designed to exchange voice and teletype tests, with the Brazilian station also passing along these tests to the Italian station.

The Saturday schedule calls for news stories to be exchanged between the United States and Europe. Similar transmissions are planned Monday between the United States and South America.

If all goes well, the public will witness an intercontinental Christmas program Wednesday televised through Relay. The program, carried by all three U.S. television networks, will feature yuletide preparations in 11 nations on the North American and European continents.

Relay is kin to Telstar, the orbiting switchboard which went dead in late November after four highly successful months of transmitting television pictures, radio and telephone conversations between the United States and Europe. But its parentage is different.

Telstar was privately built and financed by American Telephone and Telegraph Co. Relay was a NASA satellite, built under government contract by Radio Corporation of America.

Groundshell Of Resistance

Potential Racial Upheaval Threatens Alabama Again

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Dark clouds of poential racial upheaval are gathering again on Alabama's horizon, but this time there is a groundswell of public resistance to violence.

Responsible groups and high state officials, shaken by the bloodshed and disorder at the University of Mississippi, are making public proclamations for law and order.

Focal point of the current threat is the University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa where three Negroes have applied for admission. Whether they will attend classes is problematical, but the prospect of desegregating the white institution has engendered a host of "law and order" resolutions.

Heretofore, it has been political suicide in Alabama even to suggest that the state yield to integration edicts, either by law or court order.

This doesn't mean that Alabama has surrendered. The No. 1 man, Gov.-elect George C. Wallace, pledged that he will prevent integration by whatever means necessary. It has been reported reliably that as one measure, the incoming governor will recruit a citizen's army—apart from the National Guard—and arm it "to protect states' rights."

In a speech in Birmingham, Wallace said he intended to test certain laws, indicating he would go to jail if necessary.

Alabama's modern history of integration attempts is replete with violence, ranging from burning a "Freedom Riders" bus to an attack on two Negroes who sat in a section usually reserved for white persons in Birmingham's Legion Field at the Georgia-Alabama football game.

There have been—and still are—peaceful integration attempts. Few have succeeded. Birmingham closed most of its public recreational facilities in the face of a federal court order to desegregate.

But since James H. Meredith entered the University of Mississippi, there have been signs in Alabama that the people are willing to fight the battle in the courts.

The Birmingham News, Alabama's largest newspaper, was the first to speak out editorially after the Mississippi riots. The News deplored the violence and called on state officials to prevent it in Alabama.

Since then, there have been these developments:

Oct. 20: The Decatur Daily ask Wallace supporters to urge him to change his plans to follow Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett's course.

Oct. 23: The Tuscaloosa News reported a group of businessmen resolved to seek law and order and leave the integration fight to the courts.

Oct. 31: Frank A. Rose, president of the University of Alabama, said he had assurance from Gov. John Patterson and Wallace for state help in maintaining law and order.

Nov. 6: University trustees expressed determination that law and order must be maintained.

Nov. 10: University Alumni Council, official voice of 60,000 University of Alabama alumni, supported the trustees.

Dec. 3: State Democratic Chairman Roya Mayall told Birmingham Young Men's Business Club that he favors enforcing the law even if it means integration. He called for "a calm, restrained leadership."

Dec. 7: University of Alabama student legislature unanimously announced support of the trustees and school officials in their stand for law and order.

Fourth U.S. Aide Cited By Soviet As Spy Departs

He is the assistant agricultural attache, Rodney W. Carlson, 30, of Alcester, S.D.

The Soviet government had not demanded his departure. It was understood the embassy felt his effectiveness as a diplomat in Moscow had been impaired. The embassy also reportedly felt he was in danger of arrest.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, accused Carlson; Richard Carl Jacob, 26, U.S. Embassy staff member expelled last month, and a British businessman now under arrest of buying or receiving secret information from O. V. Penkovsky, a Soviet scientific worker.

An embassy spokesman told newsmen today Carlson had not engaged in any improper activities. It was the first official American comment on the Tass charge.

Tass said Penkovsky had been arrested and that he had been working for British and American intelligence since last year.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Hughey and they resided with her grandparents, Mrs. Sophia Myers, 1839 Ohio Ave., and the late Thomas Myers. Her husband's parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Wayne Stoneking of Silvis, Ill.

Her elbow-length veil of silk illusion was held in place by a tiara of seed pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with an arrangement of gardenias and satin streamers. It was a high school graduation gift of the WSCS of the Boyce Methodist Church.

Observing the traditions, she wore an antique brooch and gold chain, brought from Germany over 200 years ago and belonging to her great-great-grandmother, Mrs. Catherine Mautz. Her blue Bible book marker was the gift of Rev. Myers. She had a silver coin in her shoe.

Airman 2C Margaret Delancey was maid of honor and wore a ballerina-length gown of white nylon and lace. She had a white satin headpiece trimmed with pearls and a flutter veil.

Engineering Aid Outlined At Pughtown

The Pughtown Water Service District Board interviewed a representative of a Columbus engineering firm at its meeting Wednesday night in the Presbyterian Church.

The citizens' group is seeking to have central water and sewage systems installed in the village.

Paul Covert of the Alden E. Stilson Engineering Co. reviewed the qualifications and experience of his firm in such projects.

Covert explained that the American Society of Civil Engineers schedule fee would apply to work done in West Virginia by his firm for a project the size of one apparently needed in Pughtown, or a fee of 10 per cent of the construction costs.

He discussed possible federal funds available for assistance and added a feasibility report of the project would cost about $1,500. This charge would be credited in the percentage fee in case of construction by his firm of both sewage and water facilities, Covert explained.

He estimated that Pughtown uses 40,000 gallons of water daily, and a storage tank of 150,000 to 200,000-gallon capacity may be needed.

Residents Adopted Good Neighbor Policy

PONTIAC, Ill. (AP) — Jose Benavidez, 21, of Santa Fe, Argentina, doesn't understand much English, but he had a wonderful time at a surprise party in his honor.

Jose, who bicycled to the United States, was struck by a hit and run driver, breaking one of his legs.

Pontiac residents, the Chamber of Commerce and the hospital staff members combined to give the young man among other things a leather jacket. The one he wore when struck on Route 66 had the sleeve ripped from it in the collision.

Welfare Children Assured Of Gifts

LISBON — Columbiana County Welfare Department children will receive the Christmas gifts they wished for most.

County residents contributed almost $1,600 for the children's Christmas fund, according to Robert Bycroft, county welfare director.

Bycroft said that those who desire to contribute may still do so although the goal of $1,500 was exceeded. Excess amounts will be used for school trips for the children, or for presents for those who will be graduating from high school, as welfare funds cannot be used in this manner.

Presents are now being wrapped by welfare department workers and will be distributed to all the children before Christmas.

Bycroft thanked the many individuals, organizations and clubs for helping make a happy Christmas for the welfare children "whose parents should be doing this but are not."

It was a little mixup in the office of the Trans - World Airlines that gave the calendar its Latin accent.

For many years, TWA has sent the Chamber a new calendar each December. This year, somebody in the home ofice got his wires crossed and mailed one of the Spanish language calendars intended for patrons south of the border or in South America.

The Return Of William Saroyan No. 1

Alan Gill

For the fellow who's been the daring young man on the flying trapeze of American literature for a quarter of a century, it was a harsh awakening. "The other day," William Saroyan said, "I was shaving and it suddenly dawned on me. I'm 55. I'm not 28 any more.

Saroyan has been in semi-exile. In recent years, he has kept the Atlantic Ocean between himself and the U.S. Internal Revenue Service. But the tax people and he have come to an understanding, so the middle-aged upstart is back in New York.

Even his complaints are spoken with great gusto: "I've had so much failure lately, I'm beginning to feel scarcely worthy of it."

He was talking about his plays —they haven't had a successful production in this country in years — and then he was carrying on about TV a moment later.

"Did you see? They're going to make a series out of 'The Human Comedy.' They're crazy. How can they make it without me? But that's what they're doing.

"I'm not getting much out of the thing, but that seems to be the way with me. I lack follow-through, the business skill. I don't seek out those brilliant literary agents who make the big sales for a fellow. I'm my own agent.

"I LIKE television. Too many people belittle it. I've had some luck with it, in the 'Omnibus' days.

"Robert Saudek gave a good hearing to the poets and dramatists and artists and musicians. He had a good feeling for the chat and the story and his rating went from 25 down to 6.

"Everybody hollered. But that little rating was a vital 6. And, if it had only 50 viewers — 50 good viewers — those 50 would be worth while and terrific.

"Not long ago, a script of mine got onto the "theater" program and I saw it and it was quite bad. What had been a Saroyan play was made into a TV play. Unless you direct your own stuff, that's what'll happen.

ANOTHER FELLOW imposes a quality that's alien to the spirit of the thing. What was vigorous comes out soft, gooey.

"Whenever my work has had a success, I've done the direction. I directed 'The Time of Your Life,' not Eddie Dowling; he had it going as a mystical fantasy and I had to salvage it.

"In 'The Cave Dwellers,' which I saw after it had been on the stage for seven weeks, I thought only the bear was right, and maybe the way the milkman moved around the stage. I liked the way that actor walked.

"No, the success of my stuff seems to hinge on my own participation. It's got to be a Saroyan theater. And I've got a theory I'll be back in the theater soon on my own terms.

"Things will be going good now. The government's taken off the lien they've been clamping on my earnings. The lien didn't do me much good. It scared CBS off from a project we were talking about, for one thing.

"BUT NOW I'm back, and if there's a reason to stay, I'll stay.

"Everyone's saying hello. I was on the Merv Griffin program the other day, and normally I don't like to do something for just a few dollars. If they can't pay, don't do anything: that's good advice.

"Griffin sent over a limousine to get me. I did it, and did a show with Johnny Carson, too.

"This kind of television program is important, and for two reasons. No. 1, it can be fun, if you're lucky, even with that big camera eye looking at you. No. 2, you learn the speechways of our country. That's where the talk is. Television.

"It's not in saloons any more. The barrooms have gotten classy and boring. In Izzy's, on Pacific st in San Francisco — well, there we had a good men's bar. Good painters, good writers, good poets and publishers all got together in Izzy's. The bar was a place where we entertained each other, it was a living theater.

"But it's gone. You have to be rich now to go to a barroom. And that's no good."

Cost Of $484 Seen On Levy Vote Appeals

The Citizens Committee for Better Schools spent $484.62 campaigning for support of two school levies that were approved at the Nov. 6 general election, it said in a sworn statement of campaign expenses filed Thursday afternoon with the County Election Board.

Signed by Edwin Maloney, chairman, the report showed contributions of $545.06. The balance of $60.44 will be "used in any future levy or bond issue campaign," the report said.

The committee supported a new 2-mill levy and renewal of a 3-mill levy, both approved by East Liverpool School District voters.

Meanwhile, State Sen. Edmund A. Sargus of St. Clairsville reported his personal campaign for re-election in the 20th-22nd District cost $543.73. He reported contributions of $90.

A committee that supported Sen. Sargus filed a separate report earlier yesterday, showing expenditures of $500.

Frank R. O'Hanlon, Election Board clerk, reminded today that Dec. 21 at 4 p. m. is the deadline for filing the reports.

They are required under the "Corrupt Practices Act," which puts a ceiling on campaign expenditures. Law says the reports must be filed by all candidates, whether or not they were successful, and by individuals or groups which supported or opposed any candidate or issue.

O'Hanlon said virtually all successful candidates have filed the statements. The board is not permitted to issue a certificate of election until the report is filed.

Court sources said if the report shows Dipiazzi is too ill to stand trial he will be granted a severance and the other nine defendants will be tried.

The citizens' group is seeking to have central water and sewage systems installed in the village.

Paul Covert of the Alden E. Stilson Engineering Co. reviewed the qualifications and experience of his firm in such projects.

Covert explained that the American Society of Civil Engineers schedule fee would apply to work done in West Virginia by his firm for a project the size of one apparently needed in Pughtown, or a fee of 10 per cent of the construction costs.

He discussed possible federal funds available for assistance and added a feasibility report of the project would cost about $1,500. This charge would be credited in the percentage fee in case of construction by his firm of both sewage and water facilities, Covert explained.

He estimated that Pughtown uses 40,000 gallons of water daily, and a storage tank of 150,000 to 200,000-gallon capacity may be needed.

Band Entertains Lions At Midland

Selections of Christmas carols by the Midland High School Brass Band, under the direction of Dominic DiVecchio, highlighted the dinner meeting of the Midland Lions Club Thursday evening at Deramo's restaurant. About 35 attended, including wives of members.

A quartet of members, Truman Rodfong, Paul McGeehan, Nicholas Deramo and Harry Hulton, gave selections, and there was group singing of carols.

Leslie B. Roach, president, presided and Richard McDonald gave the invocation. Walter Huhn was in charge of arrangements.

Members donated gifts for the orphanage in New Brighton. They will be delivered Monday, Roach said.

Next meeting is Dec. 27.

Residents Adopted Good Neighbor Policy

PONTIAC, Ill. (AP) — Jose Benavidez, 21, of Santa Fe, Argentina, doesn't understand much English, but he had a wonderful time at a surprise party in his honor.

Jose, who bicycled to the United States, was struck by a hit and run driver, breaking one of his legs.

Pontiac residents, the Chamber of Commerce and the hospital staff members combined to give the young man among other things a leather jacket. The one he wore when struck on Route 66 had the sleeve ripped from it in the collision.

Comedian Ben Blue To Close Supper Club

Blue opened his club here five years ago. He said Thursday it will close next Sunday. Like Romanoff, he blamed in part the government's crackdown on expense accounts.

Romanoff said earlier that his plush restaurant will shut down Dec. 31 after a money-losing year.

Pageant Given At Christmas Party For Salineville Circles

A pageant, "The Story of the Star," was presented at a Christmas party sponsored at the Calvary United Presbyterian Church of Salineville Wednesday night by the Ruth, Rebekah and Rachel Circles.

Thirty attended the event at which the pageant, with Mrs. Maude Haverfield as narrator, was presented by Janice Blackburn, Ann Johnson, Janie Allmon, Bea Hazlett, Nelle Daley and Vivan Cole. A quartet, Mrs. Mildred Hart, Mrs. Vickie Hart, Mrs. Louise Johnson and Mrs. Janie Smith, sang.

Mrs. Wilda Allmon led devotions and Mrs. Ruth Webb directed games. Mrs. Hazlett was in charge of the Christmas decorations.

A gift exchange was held, and refreshments were served. The circles made plans to send cards to a home for aged.

The annual holiday party of Cable Rebekah Lodge was held at the Church of Christ, following a business session at the IOOF Hall Tuesday night.

Birthday anniversaries of members were observed. An aluminum tree and colored lights served as Christmas decorations, and paperweight favors were given.

Welfare Children Assured Of Gifts

LISBON — Columbiana County Welfare Department children will receive the Christmas gifts they wished for most.

County residents contributed almost $1,600 for the children's Christmas fund, according to Robert Bycroft, county welfare director.

Bycroft said that those who desire to contribute may still do so although the goal of $1,500 was exceeded. Excess amounts will be used for school trips for the children, or for presents for those who will be graduating from high school, as welfare funds cannot be used in this manner.

Presents are now being wrapped by welfare department workers and will be distributed to all the children before Christmas.

Bycroft thanked the many individuals, organizations and clubs for helping make a happy Christmas for the welfare children "whose parents should be doing this but are not."

It was a little mixup in the office of the Trans-World Airlines that gave the calendar its Latin accent.

For many years, TWA has sent the Chamber a new calendar each December. This year, somebody in the home ofice got his wires crossed and mailed one of the Spanish language calendars intended for patrons south of the border or in South America.

Democrats Report 75 Dinner Reservations

Seventy-five have made reservations for the Christmas party of the Grant District Democrat Club Sunday afternoon at 2:30 in the Chester VFW Hall.

A free turkey dinner will be served and a $1 gift exchange is also planned. Chefs are Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Orenzuk and Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Higgs.

William C. Graham is president.

This Clumsy Kitty Isn't Welcome Here

McALESTER, Okla. (AP)—The family cats at the William H. Kroeger home have a private swinging door through which they wander at will.

What Mrs. Kroeger thought was an unusually clumsy cat coming through the entrance woke her one night. It was a baby possum investigating the house.

She promptly shooed it outside.

Dinner Will Highlight Party For City Local

A turkey dinner will highlight a Christmas party of Local 677, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, Saturday night at 6 at the home of American Legion Post 374 in East End.

The local represents city workers in most departments. Husbands and wives of members will be guests. The program will include carol singing. Fred Kane, president, will preside.

The local's next regular meeting will be Monday night at Carpenters Hall.

Shortage Of Water Closes Eaton Schools

City Manager Virgil Barnett said the closing of the schools will ease the drain on the town's dwindling water supply by about one-third. This town of 5,034 has had water difficulties for several weeks since its well field failed.

Yule Concert Set Tuesday Night At Salineville High

SALINEVILLE — The annual Christmas concert of Salineville students will be presented Tuesday night at 8 at the high school auditorium under the direction of Charles Temple, director, and Oscar Gartrell, assistant.

Some 150 students will take part in the program, which was postponed Wednesday because of weather conditions.

Groups participating will be the junior choir, training band, senior band and senior chorus.

The annual band banquet will be held Saturday night at 6 at the high school with Jerd Bayles, band director at Canton Lincoln High School, as guest speaker.

The Sandy Valley Orchestra will play for dancing afterward. The dinner will be served by the Band Boosters.

Banks May Sell Auto Tags In West Virginia

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — West Virginians may be able to buy license plates for cars and auto-trailers at banks in their home towns next year.

Motor Vehicles Commissioner Jack A. Nuckols said yesterday he has proposed to the West Virginia Bankers Association that tags be sold through banks during May and June, in addition to his agency here.

He said a reply is expected from the bankers in January.

Man Found Frozen To Death In Ironton

IRONTON, Ohio (AP) — A man found frozen to death on the Ohio River bank near Ironton's business district Thursday was identified today as Arbie Yates, 58, an Ashland, Ky., house painter.

Police said Yates' body, when found, appeared to have been on the bank two or three days before it was discovered. The coroner's office said the victim froze to death, and that there were no indications of foul play.

While using an elevator to lift the lumber to an upstairs room, a pin sheared off and caused the elevator to drop about 20 feet, resulting in shock, personal injury and loss of work to the plaintiff, the petition asserts.

By ALAN GILL

The Return Of William Saroyan No. 1

Alan Gill

For the fellow who's been the daring young man on the flying trapeze of American literature for a quarter of a century, it was a harsh awakening. "The other day," William Saroyan said, "I was shaving and it suddenly dawned on me. I'm 55. I'm not 28 any more.

Saroyan has been in semi-exile. In recent years, he has kept the Atlantic Ocean between himself and the U.S. Internal Revenue Service. But the tax people and he have come to an understanding, so the middle-aged upstart is back in New York.

Even his complaints are spoken with great gusto: "I've had so much failure lately, I'm beginning to feel scarcely worthy of it."

He was talking about his plays —they haven't had a successful production in this country in years — and then he was carrying on about TV a moment later.

"Did you see? They're going to make a series out of 'The Human Comedy.' They're crazy. How can they make it without me? But that's what they're doing.

"I'm not getting much out of the thing, but that seems to be the way with me. I lack follow-through, the business skill. I don't seek out those brilliant literary agents who make the big sales for a fellow. I'm my own agent.

"I LIKE television. Too many people belittle it. I've had some luck with it, in the 'Omnibus' days.

"Robert Saudek gave a good hearing to the poets and dramatists and artists and musicians. He had a good feeling for the chat and the story and his rating went from 25 down to 6.

"Everybody hollered. But that little rating was a vital 6. And, if it had only 50 viewers — 50 good viewers — those 50 would be worth while and terrific.

"Not long ago, a script of mine got onto the "theater" program and I saw it and it was quite bad. What had been a Saroyan play was made into a TV play. Unless you direct your own stuff, that's what'll happen.

ANOTHER FELLOW imposes a quality that's alien to the spirit of the thing. What was vigorous comes out soft, gooey.

"Whenever my work has had a success, I've done the direction. I directed 'The Time of Your Life,' not Eddie Dowling; he had it going as a mystical fantasy and I had to salvage it.

"In 'The Cave Dwellers,' which I saw after it had been on the stage for seven weeks, I thought only the bear was right, and maybe the way the milkman moved around the stage. I liked the way that actor walked.

"No, the success of my stuff seems to hinge on my own participation. It's got to be a Saroyan theater. And I've got a theory I'll be back in the theater soon on my own terms.

"Things will be going good now. The government's taken off the lien they've been clamping on my earnings. The lien didn't do me much good. It scared CBS off from a project we were talking about, for one thing.

"BUT NOW I'm back, and if there's a reason to stay, I'll stay.

"Everyone's saying hello. I was on the Merv Griffin program the other day, and normally I don't like to do something for just a few dollars. If they can't pay, don't do anything: that's good advice.

"Griffin sent over a limousine to get me. I did it, and did a show with Johnny Carson, too.

"This kind of television program is important, and for two reasons. No. 1, it can be fun, if you're lucky, even with that big camera eye looking at you. No. 2, you learn the speechways of our country. That's where the talk is. Television.

"It's not in saloons any more. The barrooms have gotten classy and boring. In Izzy's, on Pacific st in San Francisco — well, there we had a good men's bar. Good painters, good writers, good poets and publishers all got together in Izzy's. The bar was a place where we entertained each other, it was a living theater.

"But it's gone. You have to be rich now to go to a barroom. And that's no good."

Cost Of $484 Seen On Levy Vote Appeals

The Citizens Committee for Better Schools spent $484.62 campaigning for support of two school levies that were approved at the Nov. 6 general election, it said in a sworn statement of campaign expenses filed Thursday afternoon with the County Election Board.

Signed by Edwin Maloney, chairman, the report showed contributions of $545.06. The balance of $60.44 will be "used in any future levy or bond issue campaign," the report said.

The committee supported a new 2-mill levy and renewal of a 3-mill levy, both approved by East Liverpool School District voters.

Meanwhile, State Sen. Edmund A. Sargus of St. Clairsville reported his personal campaign for re-election in the 20th-22nd District cost $543.73. He reported contributions of $90.

A committee that supported Sen. Sargus filed a separate report earlier yesterday, showing expenditures of $500.

Frank R. O'Hanlon, Election Board clerk, reminded today that Dec. 21 at 4 p. m. is the deadline for filing the reports.

They are required under the "Corrupt Practices Act," which puts a ceiling on campaign expenditures. Law says the reports must be filed by all candidates, whether or not they were successful, and by individuals or groups which supported or opposed any candidate or issue.

O'Hanlon said virtually all successful candidates have filed the statements. The board is not permitted to issue a certificate of election until the report is filed.

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The oft-delayed trial of 10 men charged with the unauthorized use of long distance telephone lines to operate a nationwide gambling syndicate begins in Federal Court today.

Selection of the 12-man jury and four alternates was completed Wednesday.

U. S. District Court Judge Herbert W. Christenberry delayed start of the trial Thursday to receive a medical report on Sam Dipiazzi, of Arebi, La., one of the defendants, who suffered a heart attack last weekend and is hospitalized.

Court sources said if the report shows Dipiazzi is too ill to stand trial he will be granted a severance and the other nine defendants will be tried.

The other defendants include Robert and Banjamin Lassoff and Myron Decklebaum of Cincinnati.

West Virginia Launches Centennial Queen Show

The first elimination contest will leave 15 entrants from the field of 55 — one girl for each of the state's counties.

Tomorrow night, five finalists will be chosen from the 15. The Centennial Queen will be chosen later. The four remaining finalists will serve as her court throughout the centennial year celebration.

Judges for the pageant are Dr. Fannin Belcher, head of the West Virginia State College drama department; Mrs. Margot Coley, public relations director for The Greenbrier; Sister M. Harriet, principal of Charleston Catholic High School; Weston State Hospital business manager John Cranford and Jim Comstock, editor of The Hillbilly.

Recording artist Jennie Smith, a Charleston native whose real name is Jo Ann Kristof, will serve as honorary judge. Masters of ceremonies will be Pittsburgh radio personality John Reed King and Ernie Saunders of WCHS, WCHS-TV Charleston.

The contestants will be entertained by Gov. and Mrs. Barron Saturday morning at the executive mansion.

The five finalists will ride the West Virginia float in the Rose Bowl parade at Pasadena, Calif., on New Year's Day. The queen will be crowned next April at a Centennial Ball in Charleston.

But half a dozen of the candidates may be starting to wonder if the whole thing is worth while.

Cleveland Paper Strike Still On; More Talks Set

Representatives of the morning Plain Dealer and the afternoon Press and News were to meet again this afternoon with negotiators for the striking Cleveland Newspaper Guild.

A 2½ - hour meeting Thursday ended apparently without progress. A Guild spokesman said that in the wake of Wednesday's negotiations, in which executives of the two newspapers joined the talks, "we had high hopes a new proposal would be presented by the publishers' representatives . . These hopes did not materialize, he added.

Sidney Jackson, an attorney representing the publishers, discounted the optimistic predictions that came from some quarters prior to Thursday's session. He framed his answer in betting terms when he answered a newsman's query with "I understand book is being made, but I'm not making any bets myself."

Some progress had been reported in recent negotiations on the job security issue. Also at issue are union security and wages.

Youth Sent To Pen, Threatened Kennedy

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—An Alabama youth accused of making threats against President Kennedy has been ordered to a federal mental institution.

The youth, James B. Hubka, 20, of Ensley, was termed mentally incompetent to stand trial by a psychiatrist, Dr. Howard B. Stevens, and a federal judge ordered him sent to an institution at Springfield, Mo.

Hubka, arrested several weeks ago by Secret Service agents, was charged with sending a letter to a high Justice Department official which allegedly contained a threat against the life of President Kennedy and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Community Project

Pughtown Gets Brighter Lights

Installation of 12 new mercury vapor street lights in Pughtown, replacing former incandescent lights, was completed Thursday by power firm crews in a community project.

Walter Jordan, Chester manager of the utility, said the community's 12 and 100 - candlepower lights, first installed in 1953, were replaced Wednesday and yesterday by the new 700-candlepower lights.

The $576 annual cost of the new lights is paid by all residents of the community with the exception of a few elderly persons. Plans for the project were launched at meetings held in early September.

NEW YORK (AP) — Wealthy Texan John D. Murchison Jr. has given up the presidency of a $7-billion holding company 18 months after winning control in an epic proxy battle.

He stepped aside Thursday as head of Alleghany Corp., which controls Investors Diversified Services, a Minneapolis-based investment company complex, and the New York Central Railroad. He will remain as a director.

Murchison had taken over the presidency after he and his brother, Clint W. Jr., overthrew Allan P. Kirby, wealthy New Yorker, as chairman.

Elected by the Murchison-dominated board to succeed John was Bertin C. Gable, Minneapolis businessman-financier.

Gamble two months ago bought nearly one-half of the Murchison group's holdings and has an option to buy more — perhaps all their remaining shares.

An enigma in the new alignment is Kirby, shy and stubborn at 70, who is Alleghany's largest single stockholder. He owns roughly one-third of the 9.8 million outstanding shares of common stock.

Spurned by the Murchisons when they took over in May 1961, Kirby later refused offers of representation on the board, and feuding ensued, paralyzing corporate affairs.

Gamble, 64, is president of Gamble-Skogmo Inc., operator of 380 auto accessory stores and other enterprises, including General Outdoor Advertising Co.

Highlandtown Grange Holds Yule Program

There was group singing of carols and reading of Yule poems. Robert McPherson, master, presided.

Another Christmas program will be held at the meeting Thursday at 8 p. m. at the Grange Hall.

Each family is to bring a half-dozen sandwiches and a coverdish dinner will be served. Santa Claus will distribute treats and there will be a 50-cent gift exchange.

Ohio's Supreme Court Intervenes In Legal Fight

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's Supreme Court has intervened in a legal controversy involving a $350,000 state contract for legislative printing.

The high court Thursday gave Franklin County Common Pleas Court until Dec. 22 to say why an alternative writ granted in the case should not be made permanent.

F. J. Heer Printing Co., Columbus, is seeking a permanent writ to prevent the trial court from signing a journal entry on a decision by Judge George Marshall.

His recent decision held that the State Controlling Board lacked authority to waive competitive bidding which permitted the contract to be awarded to the Heer firm.

Marshall said the contract should have been awarded to another Columbus firm which submitted a lower bid.

The Supreme Court said Herr would have 15 days to reply to the trial court's answer.

The world's largest natural amphitheater, the Hollywood Bowl in Los Angeles, has such superb acoustics that performers hardly need microphones to be heard in the farthest rows.

Remember to Pay Him on Time!

★ IN THE HECTIC days of this Holiday Season, it's often easy to overlook a little matter like paying your newspaper carrier-boy on time. But to him, prompt collections are more important than ever right now—for two reasons!

FIRST, he's counting on 100% collections in order to pay his route bills when due, and provide his full profit in cash for Christmas expenses. SECOND, he's in business for himself, and eager to close the year with all accounts collected and bills paid—a record he can point to with pride!

HAVING THE money ready whenever he's due to collect, is the best way to show your appreciation for his faithful service. It will assure him of a Merry Christmas and a Prosperous New Year!

$25,000 Claim Filed In Elevator Accident

LISBON — Harold G. McLemore of Leetonia filed a $25,000 civil action Thursday in Common Pleas Court as an aftermath of an alleged elevator accident, naming as the defendants John G. and Elsie M. Woods, also of Leetonia.

McLemore's petition claims that on Dec. 7, 1961, he was employed by the Mellinger Lumber Co. and that he delivered a shipment of lumber to the Woods funeral home.

While using an elevator to lift the lumber to an upstairs room, a pin sheared off and caused the elevator to drop about 20 feet, resulting in shock, personal injury and loss of work to the plaintiff, the petition asserts.

United Funds Head Named

Richard A. Fusco of Aliquippa has been named executive director of the United Funds of Beaver County, according to A. C. Keller of Aliquippa, president.

Fusco has been affiliated with the United Fundssince the inception of the county organization in 1959 and has been serving as acting executive director since June.

Karl Grau of Beaver Falls was named assistant executive director, a position that he has held since June. Grau has been active in the United Fund movement as a volunteer for over 25 years.

Edward A. Sahli, 1962 campaign chairman, along with his co-chairmen, Michael Baker Jr. and A. C. Keller, reportedthat $773,028 or 101 per cent of the 1962 campaign goal was achieved. This represents a 7 per cent increase over the 1961 campaign result.

Some $710,464, or 92.5 per cent of campaign proceeds, were appropriated for 1963 allocations to the 42 agencies deriving support from the United Funds. Individual agency allocations will be made public following notification to each agency.

The sum of $19,965, or 2.5 per cent of the amount raised, was approved as expenses for 1962 campaign supplies and supervision. This represents one of the lowest fund-raising costs in the United States

The sum of $39,100, or 5 per cent of total appropriations, is budgeted for 1963 year-round local and county United Fund administration. Again this amount represents the lowest United Fund administrative costs in both Beaver County and the United States.

The annual meeting of the United Funds is scheduled Feb. 13. A committee composed of Harold F. Reed Jr., chairman, S. W. Boone and Paul Marshall, will make arrangements.

Ten directors will be elected for three-year terms from nominations by a committee composed of Joseph N. Tosh, chairman, Oren Todd and Robert E. Shoup.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: We are deaf parents of two growing children who have normal hearing. My husband and I lip-read.

Since we have both been totally deaf all our lives we are not able to pronounce all words correctly because we have never heard them. Our children have no trouble understanding us, however, and we all get along well.

The youngsters who come to our house to play with the children are afraid of us because we speak differently than their parents. One youngster told our son that his father said we should be sent away to a school and learn to speak properly.

We speak as well as we can under the circumstances, Ann, and naturally such remarks hurt our children's feelings.

Our children's friends call us "deaf and dumb," not knowing the difference between dumb and mute. The word "dumb" to children means stupid. We are neither dumb nor stupid, and I wish you'd help us by putting this in your wonderful column. Thank you.—M.P.H.

Dear M.P.H.: It is a serious sin of omission when parents fail to teach their children how to behave with handicapped people.

Parents should explain early on the nature of various handicaps and how they came about. They should teach their children to be compassionate, helpful and understanding. The best weapon against ignorance is education.

Mixed-Up World

Dear Ann: For quite some time I have suspected that the human race is having a nervous breakdown. There is increasing evidence of mass insanity but something I read last night convinced me that civilization has had it.

A news story reported that millions of dollars are being spent on a campaign to put clothing on animals seen in public.

This notion is so sick that I do not wish to dignify it with a comment. I would, however, like to urge these people who have great sums to spend to concentrate on PEOPLE — and leave the poor animals alone.

Women in America shop in bathing suits and halter bras. Males, naked from the waist up, drive convertibles all over the city. High school boys appear on the streets shirtless and in jeans so low on the hips that appendectomy scars can be seen.

I think we may be heading toward the day when the animals will be clothed and the humans will be naked. Comment please. —NORTH CAROLINA.

Dear N.C.: At the very beginning man WAS naked and perhaps in 5,000 years history may repeat. But animals in bikinis?!!! To repeat your phrase —the notion is so sick I do not wish to dignify it with a comment.

Nagging Problems

Dear Ann: The big problems I can handle. It's the little ones that drive me nuts. Like my husband using my face and bath towels.

In our family everyone had his own towels — labeled with name tapes. There was no mixing them up. My husband's family had a different system. A few towels hung in the bathroom and everybody used them all. This seems unsanitary to me but my husband says nobody ever died from it.

I've labeled his towels but he uses mine anyway. When I catch him I'm furious. He claims I'm making a big fuss over nothing. What's the solution?—SEPARATE BUT EQUAL.

Dear Separate: Keep his towels in the bathroom. Hang yours in the clothes closet, behind the kitchen door or where he will not have easy access to them. It's a bit of a nuisance, granted, but worth the bother.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Old Hancock Burial Sites To Be Listed

A survey of Hancock County cemeteries is under way to locate the graves of prominent early settlers and those who fought in the Civil War.

The information is being gathered by the Key Club of Weir High School at Weirton and will be used in connection with the 1963 Centennial observance.

Martin F. Fahey, county centennial chairman, said the Key Club members have surveyed Three Springs Cemetery and will check others in the near future.

Local residents knowing of private burial grounds in the county or anyone with information about Civil War veterans should contact him.

Fahey's committee is collecting as much historical data as possible for use in a history of the county now being written. In addition, many displays and exhibits of a historical nature are being planned during the centennial year.

Fahey said plans for the county's observance are nearing completion and that many local events are scheduled. The Special Exhibits Train, which will tour the state, will be in Weirton July 3 and 4 in conjunction with the annual Fourth of July parade, which will have a centennial theme.

Hancock County's centennial queen, Miss Myrna McSwegin of New Cumberland, will compete in Charleston this weekend for the title of state centennial queen. The five finalists in the contest will ride on the West Virginia float in the Tournament of Roses parade on New Year's Day in Pasadena, Calif.

Columbus Fire Bug Burns More Garages

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A firebug, who investigators say operates like a phantom seemingly without pattern, has burned three more North Side garages and now is blamed with setting 99 similar blazes since the first of the year.

Arson investigators say they have received a variety of descriptions of possible suspects and have intensified their search since the latest fires.

The fire Wednesday night destroyed three garages and an auto valued at an estimated $3,325. Officials estimate the loss for all 99 fires at $35,000.

Newborn Twins Due Separate Birthdays

CIRCLEVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Twins born to Mrs. Bruce Rice of Laurelville will be surprised when they grow older to learn that their birthdays will be celebrated separately.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: When I hang out my wash, I hang my pillow cases with the open end up.

When I bring the clothes in, I put all of the little things such as socks, wash cloths and handkerchiefs in the pillow cases. I don't have to worry about making a trail of clothes into the house! This is especially handy in case of a sudden shower.

I had a hard time getting my 8-year-old to brush his teeth, until I put a small mirror over the sink just for him. Now he brushes his teeth without coaxing.

The medicine chest mirror (which is adult height) was much too high for him, but now that he can see what he's doing, he's more interested in his appearance. I bought a small mirror about 9x12 inches and it rests on the sink with clamps at the top. This way we can raise the height of the mirror as he grows taller!

JO PAYNE

DEAR HELOISE: My husband gave me an old roll of nylon fishing line to sew the buttons on my children's clothes. He said at the time he did not believe the kids could pull off the buttons if they were sewn on with this. He was so right.

For two years I've not had to sew on buttons and it looks like the fishing line will outlive the coats.

MRS. CHARLES HALL

Tip For Typists

DEAR HELOISE: Here is a terrific tip for tired typists:

If you have a typewriter at home, and need type cleaner in a hurry . . . just wad up a piece of ordinary bread and use it on the keys just as you would any commercial putty-type of cleaner.

Just press it on the keys, then fold it over the used part of bread and press on again and so forth. It works every bit as well as the commercial "dough."

If the type is extra dirty, a little plain rubbing alcohol applied first will help.

AUDREY MERITH

Dear Gals: I did try cleaning my typewriter with rubbing alcohol and a piece of bread. It worked like magic.

I used a piece of fresh, soft, white bread and mashed it in my fingers until it looked like a hard ball of dough.

I then dabbed a piece of cotton with some rubbing alcohol, applied it to the keys, and immediately mashed the bread into the letters on the type. This wasn't a sloppy job either. Real tricky.

HELOISE

DEAR HELOISE: Laundered dish towels seems to get a peculiar smell after they stay in a drawer for a while. How does one get rid of this odor?

MARIE LASKOWSKI

Anyone got the answer? If so, write to Heloise, in care of The Review. Letters do not have to be signed to appear.

DEAR HELOISE: I use my husband's aerosol can of shaving cream to remove grease from and that's it.

my hands. It leaves a nice smell, too. Just rinse with warm water

Keep In Trim

By 'DA JEAN KAIN

Vice President's Wife Stays Enthusiastic

Nature had put on a full dress-parade, the morning I interviewed Mrs. Lyndon Johnson, wife of our Vice President. Snow flurries vied with red and gold leaves still on the trees and the effect was sheer enchantment.

Ida Jean Kain

"Isn't it glorious! When I no longer thrill to the first snow of the season I'll know I'm growing old," is the way Mrs. Johnson greeted me.

Enthusiasm is a genuine energizer, so I asked if this were the secret of her vitality — for she has new frontier vigor.

—:—

"I DON'T SEE how one could be less than enthusiastic and excited in the world we live in today. To be a part of all this in a small way — an observer with a seat close to the action front really is exciting," was her response.

The Second Lady of our land is quite an active observer! I asked how she managed to fit into her busy schedule all those official functions that would leave a lesser woman limp.

"Oh, it's not so much really, Ida Jean," she told me, minimizing her part. "Of course if I didn't like my life I'd get weary, but I do like it, all of it," she added.

There is another very real source of her energy, she doesn't waste it by resenting anything connected with her life. "Disliking what we are called upon to do is a peculiar sort of drain on one's energy," the vice President's wife philosophized.

"By understanding all his crowded schedule contains," was the prompt reply. This insight came from first - hand experience. During the war years while her husband was overseas, Mrs. Johnson worked in his office, in a non-salary capacity.

This experience she would recommend for every wife, if it could be managed, for it can give a wife real understanding.

"MAYBE WE'D better talk about calories," your dietitian interjected.

"We're a calorie - conscious family," she smiled. This friendly Texan even has a friendly feeling toward calories! Instead of taking the attitude that keeping tab on calories takes the joy out of eating, she believes that food should be delicious, particularly when calories are curbed.

But what sleight - of - calorie technique is used at official affairs?

"The trick is to take small servings, skip rich sauces and only sample the dessert. I know there will be many courses, so I have only a little of each. I like to sample the typical foods of a country, and this small portion plan is perfect," she concluded.

West Virginia Launches Centennial Queen Show

The first elimination contest will leave 15 entrants from the field of 55 — one girl for each of the state's counties.

Tomorrow night, five finalists will be chosen from the 15. The Centennial Queen will be chosen later. The four remaining finalists will serve as her court throughout the centennial year celebration.

Judges for the pageant are Dr. Fannin Belcher, head of the West Virginia State College drama department; Mrs. Margot Coley, public relations director for The Greenbrier; Sister M. Harriet, principal of Charleston Catholic High School; Weston State Hospital business manager John Cranford and Jim Comstock, editor of The Hillbilly.

Recording artist Jennie Smith, a Charleston native whose real name is Jo Ann Kristof, will serve as honorary judge. Masters of ceremonies will be Pittsburgh radio personality John Reed King and Ernie Saunders of WCHS, WCHS-TV Charleston.

The contestants will be entertained by Gov. and Mrs. Barron Saturday morning at the executive mansion.

The five finalists will ride the West Virginia float in the Rose Bowl parade at Pasadena, Calif., on New Year's Day. The queen will be crowned next April at a Centennial Ball in Charleston.

But half a dozen of the candidates may be starting to wonder if the whole thing is worth while.

Georgetown Guild Meets

Mrs. Curtis Finley was assistant hostess. Guests were Mrs. William Reckner, Flora Nash, Jo Ann and Deborah McHaffie and Mrs. Louis Wagner.

Mrs. Finley led devotions and presided for business. Members participated in the devotions with Christmas readings and poems.

Mrs. Finley reported on the regional Christian social relations meeting held Nov. 15 at Aliquippa in All-Saints Episcopal Church.

The Rev. Russell Turner, rector, who will leave in January, was presented with a Christmas and farewell gift of money. Pastor of the Aliquippa and Georgetown churches, three and a half years, he has accepted a pastorate at St. Peter's Episcopal Church at Uniontown.

A Christmas party will be held Dec. 28 from 7 to 9 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Allison for the Sunday School. Next meeting of the guild is Jan. 8 at the home of Mrs. Charles Finley. Mrs. John Finley will be cohostess.

Cleveland Paper Strike Still On; More Talks Set

Representatives of the morning Plain Dealer and the afternoon Press and News were to meet again this afternoon with negotiators for the striking Cleveland Newspaper Guild.

A 2½ - hour meeting Thursday ended apparently without progress. A Guild spokesman said that in the wake of Wednesday's negotiations, in which executives of the two newspapers joined the talks, "we had high hopes a new proposal would be presented by the publishers' representatives . . These hopes did not materialize, he added.

Sidney Jackson, an attorney representing the publishers, discounted the optimistic predictions that came from some quarters prior to Thursday's session. He framed his answer in betting terms when he answered a newsman's query with "I understand book is being made, but I'm not making any bets myself."

Some progress had been reported in recent negotiations on the job security issue. Also at issue are union security and wages.

Youth Sent To Pen, Threatened Kennedy

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—An Alabama youth accused of making threats against President Kennedy has been ordered to a federal mental institution.

The youth, James B. Hubka, 20, of Ensley, was termed mentally incompetent to stand trial by a psychiatrist, Dr. Howard B. Stevens, and a federal judge ordered him sent to an institution at Springfield, Mo.

Hubka, arrested several weeks ago by Secret Service agents, was charged with sending a letter to a high Justice Department official which allegedly contained a threat against the life of President Kennedy and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Community Project

Pughtown Gets Brighter Lights

Installation of 12 new mercury vapor street lights in Pughtown, replacing former incandescent lights, was completed Thursday by power firm crews in a community project.

Walter Jordan, Chester manager of the utility, said the community's 12 and 100 - candlepower lights, first installed in 1953, were replaced Wednesday and yesterday by the new 700-candlepower lights.

The $576 annual cost of the new lights is paid by all residents of the community with the exception of a few elderly persons. Plans for the project were launched at meetings held in early September.

NEW YORK (AP) — Wealthy Texan John D. Murchison Jr. has given up the presidency of a $7-billion holding company 18 months after winning control in an epic proxy battle.

He stepped aside Thursday as head of Alleghany Corp., which controls Investors Diversified Services, a Minneapolis-based investment company complex, and the New York Central Railroad. He will remain as a director.

Murchison had taken over the presidency after he and his brother, Clint W. Jr., overthrew Allan P. Kirby, wealthy New Yorker, as chairman.

Elected by the Murchison-dominated board to succeed John was Bertin C. Gable, Minneapolis businessman-financier.

Gamble two months ago bought nearly one-half of the Murchison group's holdings and has an option to buy more — perhaps all their remaining shares.

An enigma in the new alignment is Kirby, shy and stubborn at 70, who is Alleghany's largest single stockholder. He owns roughly one-third of the 9.8 million outstanding shares of common stock.

Spurned by the Murchisons when they took over in May 1961, Kirby later refused offers of representation on the board, and feuding ensued, paralyzing corporate affairs.

Gamble, 64, is president of Gamble-Skogmo Inc., operator of 380 auto accessory stores and other enterprises, including General Outdoor Advertising Co.

Highlandtown Grange Holds Yule Program

There was group singing of carols and reading of Yule poems. Robert McPherson, master, presided.

Another Christmas program will be held at the meeting Thursday at 8 p. m. at the Grange Hall.

Each family is to bring a half-dozen sandwiches and a coverdish dinner will be served. Santa Claus will distribute treats and there will be a 50-cent gift exchange.

Ohio's Supreme Court Intervenes In Legal Fight

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's Supreme Court has intervened in a legal controversy involving a $350,000 state contract for legislative printing.

The high court Thursday gave Franklin County Common Pleas Court until Dec. 22 to say why an alternative writ granted in the case should not be made permanent.

F. J. Heer Printing Co., Columbus, is seeking a permanent writ to prevent the trial court from signing a journal entry on a decision by Judge George Marshall.

His recent decision held that the State Controlling Board lacked authority to waive competitive bidding which permitted the contract to be awarded to the Heer firm.

Marshall said the contract should have been awarded to another Columbus firm which submitted a lower bid.

The Supreme Court said Herr would have 15 days to reply to the trial court's answer.

The world's largest natural amphitheater, the Hollywood Bowl in Los Angeles, has such superb acoustics that performers hardly need microphones to be heard in the farthest rows.

25 Attend Chester Group's Meeting

Twenty - five attended a meeting of the Washington Home and School Association Thursday night at the Chester school.

Brownie Troop 82 presented a puppet show, directed by Mrs. Kenneth Brookes, troop leader.

Mrs. Paul Milby, program chairman, introduced the groups. The attendance banner was won by the fourth grade taught by Miss Helen Allison, principal.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Ray Register and committee. Mrs. Richard Milner, president, was in charge. The group will meet Jan. 10.

Midland Council Assails Pollution

Midland Council Thursday night took further action concerning air pollution and also voted to pay $4,000 as the borough's share on the reconstruction of Route 168.

On motion of Councilman Joseph D'Alesio, who complained of continued air pollution by the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co., Council decided to write the company, requesting that representatives be present at the meeting Jan. 10 to explain plans for a solution of the problem.

COUNCIL also voted to join the newly - formed Air Pollution Committee of Beaver County on a motion by Councilman Raymond Presutti. It was suggested that Council also ask a representative of the committee to attend the meeting.

Florec J. Aquino of Ambridge, who heads the county committee, has been recommended to the state by Beaver County Commissioner Eli Corak, also mayor of Midland, for appointment to the Air Pollution Commission of Region III, which includes Midland.

D'Alesio's suggestion was approved for Mayor Corak and interested councilmen to attend a citizens' conference Feb. 20-22 at Harrisburg and find out "what teeth" are in the 1961 air pollution law.

ON A MOTION by Councilman Steve Germusa, Council approved an agreement with the state for the borough pay $4,000 over a three-year period for its share of the reconstruction of Route 168 in Midland and Ohioville. The state asked immediate approval of the agreement.

Mayor Corak said the borough could pay the money from its share of liquid fuel tax funds.

According to information from the State Highway Department, the project will cost $260,000, and cover a distance of 2.61 miles, beginning at the intersection of Route 168 and Midland Heights homes and ending at the intersection with Route 278 or Tuscarawas Rd. in Ohioville. The road will be widened to 22 feet and given a bituminous surfacing.

THE department earlier announced that bids for the project would be opened Dec. 28 at Harrisburg. Work is expected to begin in the spring.

Council named the Midland branch of the Beaver Trust Co. as depository on motion of Councilman Presutti, who asked that all of the borough tax funds be placed in the bank effective Jan. 1.

The motion came after Rudolph Presutti, chief clerk of the Midland Income Tax Bureau, reported that a wage tax distribution fund must be set up to refund money to Pennsylvania communities which also have a wage tax and whose residents employed in Midland have not filed and exemption certificate.

Presutti, tax collector, said communities must request a refund from the Midland tax office.

CONCERNING an ice skating rink for 1st St. playground, requested by residents of the West End, Council appointed a special committee and asked immediate action.

Councilman Joseph Hibbard, vice president who presided, appointed members of the planning committee, plus Councilman William Shovlin, to work with R. E. Steebner, borough engineer, and the Board of Education.

The board Wednesday night turned it down after a survey indicated that a rink at the playground would be impractical.

STEEBNER said the rink might cost $120 in materials, not counting labor.

Corak brought up the request for the rink, pointing out that the rink at 7th St. School is too far away for residents of the West End.

Approval was given a request of Samuel Rosatone to cut curbing at 560 Ohio Ave. for a driveway.

Because of the holidays, Council canceled its next meeting Dec. 27, unless there is an emergency, and will meet on Jan. 10.

Borough officers' reports were accepted as submitted and bills were ordered paid.

Chester Club To Sell Trees

The annual Christmas tree sale of the Chester Lions Club will begin Saturday, it was announced at a meeting of the club Thursday night at the Chester City Park community building.

Jerry D'Angelo said the trees will be sold at a vacant lot at Carolina Ave. and 4th St.

Plans were made to spend about $150 for Christmas baskets for needy families in the community.

D'Angelo reported $325 was netted from a minstrel show sponsored by the club Nov. 17 as a benefit for the City Park.

Sayre Graham reported $325 was obtained from the club's annual light bulb sale last month, to be used for sight conservation work.

Robert Gray, district Boy Scout executive, announced Boy's Life, a scout magazine, is available in Braille for any blind boys in the area. Anyone interested may notify him.

A discussion was held on purchasing benches to be placed along Carolina Ave.

Dino Rossi reported the club has erected a Nativity scene at Carolina Ave. and 4th St. Charles Mansfield, president, conducted business. The club will meet Jan. 10.

Kiwanis Treats 40 Youngsters At Annual Party

Clothing, a toy, fruit and candy were given the youngsters, who heard a Christmas talk by the Rev. James Hunton of the First Church of the Nazarene.

John Mostoller, minister of the First Church of Christ, led group singing. The Key Club committee was in charge of the tree decoration.

Assisting were Mrs. Edna Jones, school nurse, along with Mrs. James Reaney, Mrs. Charles Waggoner, Mrs. Ralph Betts, Mrs. Roland Stover and Mrs. Glenn Hall.

On the car committee were Bill Webber, Atty. Robert Kapp, George, Bill Mayers, Fred Stevens, Fred Simmen, Jud English, Larry Black, William Porter and Roy Cooper.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: We are deaf parents of two growing children who have normal hearing. My husband and I lip-read.

Since we have both been totally deaf all our lives we are not able to pronounce all words correctly because we have never heard them. Our children have no trouble understanding us, however, and we all get along well.

The youngsters who come to our house to play with the children are afraid of us because we speak differently than their parents. One youngster told our son that his father said we should be sent away to a school and learn to speak properly.

We speak as well as we can under the circumstances, Ann, and naturally such remarks hurt our children's feelings.

Our children's friends call us "deaf and dumb," not knowing the difference between dumb and mute. The word "dumb" to children means stupid. We are neither dumb nor stupid, and I wish you'd help us by putting this in your wonderful column. Thank you.—M.P.H.

Dear M.P.H.: It is a serious sin of omission when parents fail to teach their children how to behave with handicapped people.

Parents should explain early on the nature of various handicaps and how they came about. They should teach their children to be compassionate, helpful and understanding. The best weapon against ignorance is education.

Mixed-Up World

Dear Ann: For quite some time I have suspected that the human race is having a nervous breakdown. There is increasing evidence of mass insanity but something I read last night convinced me that civilization has had it.

A news story reported that millions of dollars are being spent on a campaign to put clothing on animals seen in public.

This notion is so sick that I do not wish to dignify it with a comment. I would, however, like to urge these people who have great sums to spend to concentrate on PEOPLE — and leave the poor animals alone.

Women in America shop in bathing suits and halter bras. Males, naked from the waist up, drive convertibles all over the city. High school boys appear on the streets shirtless and in jeans so low on the hips that appendectomy scars can be seen.

I think we may be heading toward the day when the animals will be clothed and the humans will be naked. Comment please. —NORTH CAROLINA.

Dear N.C.: At the very beginning man WAS naked and perhaps in 5,000 years history may repeat. But animals in bikinis?!!! To repeat your phrase —the notion is so sick I do not wish to dignify it with a comment.

Nagging Problems

Dear Ann: The big problems I can handle. It's the little ones that drive me nuts. Like my husband using my face and bath towels.

In our family everyone had his own towels — labeled with name tapes. There was no mixing them up. My husband's family had a different system. A few towels hung in the bathroom and everybody used them all. This seems unsanitary to me but my husband says nobody ever died from it.

I've labeled his towels but he uses mine anyway. When I catch him I'm furious. He claims I'm making a big fuss over nothing. What's the solution?—SEPARATE BUT EQUAL.

Dear Separate: Keep his towels in the bathroom. Hang yours in the clothes closet, behind the kitchen door or where he will not have easy access to them. It's a bit of a nuisance, granted, but worth the bother.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Old Hancock Burial Sites To Be Listed

A survey of Hancock County cemeteries is under way to locate the graves of prominent early settlers and those who fought in the Civil War.

The information is being gathered by the Key Club of Weir High School at Weirton and will be used in connection with the 1963 Centennial observance.

Martin F. Fahey, county centennial chairman, said the Key Club members have surveyed Three Springs Cemetery and will check others in the near future.

Local residents knowing of private burial grounds in the county or anyone with information about Civil War veterans should contact him.

Fahey's committee is collecting as much historical data as possible for use in a history of the county now being written. In addition, many displays and exhibits of a historical nature are being planned during the centennial year.

Fahey said plans for the county's observance are nearing completion and that many local events are scheduled. The Special Exhibits Train, which will tour the state, will be in Weirton July 3 and 4 in conjunction with the annual Fourth of July parade, which will have a centennial theme.

Hancock County's centennial queen, Miss Myrna McSwegin of New Cumberland, will compete in Charleston this weekend for the title of state centennial queen. The five finalists in the contest will ride on the West Virginia float in the Tournament of Roses parade on New Year's Day in Pasadena, Calif.

Columbus Fire Bug Burns More Garages

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A firebug, who investigators say operates like a phantom seemingly without pattern, has burned three more North Side garages and now is blamed with setting 99 similar blazes since the first of the year.

Arson investigators say they have received a variety of descriptions of possible suspects and have intensified their search since the latest fires.

The fire Wednesday night destroyed three garages and an auto valued at an estimated $3,325. Officials estimate the loss for all 99 fires at $35,000.

Collision Injures 10

CINCINNATI (AP)—A collision between a city bus and an automobile Thursday resulted in slight injuries to 10 persons, including the bus driver. Police cited the bus driver, Harry Meyers, 38, for disregarding a traffic light.

Newborn Twins Due Separate Birthdays

CIRCLEVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Twins born to Mrs. Bruce Rice of Laurelville will be surprised when they grow older to learn that their birthdays will be celebrated separately.

Mrs. Rice gave birth to a 6-pound, 13-ounce son at 11:58 p.m. Wednesday at Berger Hospital. At 10 minutes past midnight, she became mother of a daughter, 6 pounds, 2½ ounces.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: When I hang out my wash, I hang my pillow cases with the open end up.

When I bring the clothes in, I put all of the little things such as socks, wash cloths and handkerchiefs in the pillow cases. I don't have to worry about making a trail of clothes into the house! This is especially handy in case of a sudden shower.

I had a hard time getting my 8-year-old to brush his teeth, until I put a small mirror over the sink just for him. Now he brushes his teeth without coaxing.

The medicine chest mirror (which is adult height) was much too high for him, but now that he can see what he's doing, he's more interested in his appearance. I bought a small mirror about 9x12 inches and it rests on the sink with clamps at the top. This way we can raise the height of the mirror as he grows taller!

DEAR HELOISE: My husband gave me an old roll of nylon fishing line to sew the buttons on my children's clothes. He said at the time he did not believe the kids could pull off the buttons if they were sewn on with this. He was so right.

For two years I've not had to sew on buttons and it looks like the fishing line will outlive the coats.

Tip For Typists

DEAR HELOISE: Here is a terrific tip for tired typists:

If you have a typewriter at home, and need type cleaner in a hurry . . . just wad up a piece of ordinary bread and use it on the keys just as you would any commercial putty-type of cleaner.

Just press it on the keys, then fold it over the used part of bread and press on again and so forth. It works every bit as well as the commercial "dough."

If the type is extra dirty, a little plain rubbing alcohol applied first will help.

Dear Gals: I did try cleaning my typewriter with rubbing alcohol and a piece of bread. It worked like magic.

I used a piece of fresh, soft, white bread and mashed it in my fingers until it looked like a hard ball of dough.

I then dabbed a piece of cotton with some rubbing alcohol, applied it to the keys, and immediately mashed the bread into the letters on the type. This wasn't a sloppy job either. Real tricky.

HELOISE

DEAR HELOISE: Laundered dish towels seems to get a peculiar smell after they stay in a drawer for a while. How does one get rid of this odor?

Anyone got the answer? If so, write to Heloise, in care of The Review. Letters do not have to be signed to appear.

DEAR HELOISE: I use my husband's aerosol can of shaving cream to remove grease from my hands. It leaves a nice smell, and that's it. too. Just rinse with warm water and that's it.

Vice President's Wife Stays Enthusiastic

Nature had put on a full dress-parade, the morning I interviewed Mrs. Lyndon Johnson, wife of our Vice President. Snow flurries vied with red and gold leaves still on the trees and the effect was sheer enchantment.

Ida Jean Kain

"Isn't it glorious! When I no longer thrill to the first snow of the season I'll know I'm growing old," is the way Mrs. Johnson greeted me.

Enthusiasm is a genuine energizer, so I asked if this were the secret of her vitality — for she has new frontier vigor.

—:—

"I DON'T SEE how one could be less than enthusiastic and excited in the world we live in today. To be a part of all this in a small way — an observer with a seat close to the action front really is exciting," was her response.

The Second Lady of our land is quite an active observer! I asked how she managed to fit into her busy schedule all those official functions that would leave a lesser woman limp.

"Oh, it's not so much really, Ida Jean," she told me, minimizing her part. "Of course if I didn't like my life I'd get weary, but I do like it, all of it," she added.

There is another very real source of her energy, she doesn't waste it by resenting anything connected with her life. "Disliking what we are called upon to do is a peculiar sort of drain on one's energy," the vice President's wife philosophized.

"By understanding all his crowded schedule contains," was the prompt reply. This insight came from first - hand experience. During the war years while her husband was overseas, Mrs. Johnson worked in his office, in a non-salary capacity.

This experience she would recommend for every wife, if it could be managed, for it can give a wife real understanding.

"MAYBE WE'D better talk about calories," your dietitian interjected.

"We're a calorie - conscious family," she smiled. This friendly Texan even has a friendly feeling toward calories! Instead of taking the attitude that keeping tab on calories takes the joy out of eating, she believes that food should be delicious, particularly when calories are curbed.

But what sleight - of - calorie technique is used at official affairs?

"The trick is to take small servings, skip rich sauces and only sample the dessert. I know there will be many courses, so I have only a little of each. I like to sample the typical foods of a country, and this small portion plan is perfect," she concluded.

Truce Period In New York Strike Urged

NEW YORK (AP) — The publisher of the New York Journal-American has called on striking printers to go back to work on New York's nine major dailies for a 60-day truce period while peace talks continue.

In making the proposal Thursday night, publisher J. Kingsbury-Smith said it may save some of the struck papers from going out of business. He appealed to President Kennedy, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, or Mayor Robert F. Wagner to set up the armistice in the strike, which has idled 20,000 workers.

Both the publishers and the printers were cool to the idea.

Amory H. Bradford, vice president of the New York Times and head of the publishers' negotiating committee said: "As I believe Mr. Smith indicated in introducing his statement, he was expressing his personal views. They do not represent a plan developed by the publishers association."

Bertram A. Powers, president of Local 6 of the International Typographical Union said: "If he (Kingsbury-Smith) is so concerned, it's about time he entered the negotiations."

The ITU struck four papers Saturday in their bid for an $18.45 weekly pay raise to bring the base rate of printers to $159.45 and various fringe benefits. The publishers have offered an $8 wage increase and some benefits they say would be worth an additional $1.20 a week.

The city's remaining five papers shut down in the face of the strike against the other four. The papers had a daily circulation of 5.5 million.

Challenge Filed On Election In Supreme Court

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Democrat Michael J. McCullion of Youngstown has filed a challenge in the Ohio Supreme Court to the election of James H. Grose, Hubbard Republican, as state senator in the 23rd District embracing Mahoning and part of trumbull County.

McCullion claimed the election of Grose was void on grounds that absentee ballots were not applied for properly as some were issued without being requested and that several voters marked ballots illegally.

Grose won the Nov. 6 election for state senator by 70 votes. A recount showed Grose the winner by 69 votes in the results announced Dec. 3.

McCullion asked the high court to order a trial on the election result and have him declared the winner over Grose. The contest is for the last two years of the unexpired term of former Sen. Stephen R. Olenick who resigned to become Mahoning County auditor.

Ohio Businessman's Body Found In Hotel

DETROIT (AP)—The body of an Ohio businessman was found today in the bathtub of a Sheraton-Cadillac Hotel suite, a bullet wound in his head. A revolver was in the tub.

Police said the man, Ralph Elmenthaler, 42, vice president of planning for the International Commerce Corp. of Akron, apparently took his own life.

He was last seen by a room maid Wednesday. Hotel employes sawed through the door chain lock to his room after there was no response to telephone calls.

He plays in the Eastern Territorial staff band and is attending New York University for his master's degree.

It had been planned to distribute most of the gifts later, with a sampling of toys going to each of the cottages where the 700 children are housed.

After giving out what gifts were at hand, Mrs. Kennedy told her secretary to see that there were enough gifts for all. The First Lady also went through the wards of District of Columbia Village, a home for the elderly, and chatted with a number of patients.

Midland Council Assails Pollution

Midland Council Thursday night took further action concerning air pollution and also voted to pay $4,000 as the borough's share on the reconstruction of Route 168.

On motion of Councilman Joseph D'Alesio, who complained of continued air pollution by the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co., Council decided to write the company, requesting that representatives be present at the meeting Jan. 10 to explain plans for a solution of the problem.

COUNCIL also voted to join the newly - formed Air Pollution Committee of Beaver County on a motion by Councilman Raymond Presutti. It was suggested that Council also ask a representative of the committee to attend the meeting.

Florec J. Aquino of Ambridge, who heads the county committee, has been recommended to the state by Beaver County Commissioner Eli Corak, also mayor of Midland, for appointment to the Air Pollution Commission of Region III, which includes Midland.

D'Alesio's suggestion was approved for Mayor Corak and interested councilmen to attend a citizens' conference Feb. 20-22 at Harrisburg and find out "what teeth" are in the 1961 air pollution law.

ON A MOTION by Councilman Steve Germusa, Council approved an agreement with the state for the borough pay $4,000 over a three-year period for its share of the reconstruction of Route 168 in Midland and Ohioville. The state asked immediate approval of the agreement.

Mayor Corak said the borough could pay the money from its share of liquid fuel tax funds.

According to information from the State Highway Department, the project will cost $260,000, and cover a distance of 2.61 miles, beginning at the intersection of Route 168 and Midland Heights homes and ending at the intersection with Route 278 or Tuscarawas Rd. in Ohioville. The road will be widened to 22 feet and given a bituminous surfacing.

THE department earlier announced that bids for the project would be opened Dec. 28 at Harrisburg. Work is expected to begin in the spring.

Council named the Midland branch of the Beaver Trust Co. as depository on motion of Councilman Presutti, who asked that all of the borough tax funds be placed in the bank effective Jan. 1.

The motion came after Rudolph Presutti, chief clerk of the Midland Income Tax Bureau, reported that a wage tax distribution fund must be set up to refund money to Pennsylvania communities which also have a wage tax and whose residents employed in Midland have not filed and exemption certificate.

Presutti, tax collector, said communities must request a refund from the Midland tax office.

CONCERNING an ice skating rink for 1st St. playground, requested by residents of the West End, Council appointed a special committee and asked immediate action.

Councilman Joseph Hibbard, vice president who presided, appointed members of the planning committee, plus Councilman William Shovlin, to work with R. E. Steebner, borough engineer, and the Board of Education.

The board Wednesday night turned it down after a survey indicated that a rink at the playground would be impractical.

STEEBNER said the rink might cost $120 in materials, not counting labor.

Corak brought up the request for the rink, pointing out that the rink at 7th St. School is too far away for residents of the West End.

Approval was given a request of Samuel Rosatone to cut curbing at 560 Ohio Ave. for a driveway.

Because of the holidays, Council canceled its next meeting Dec. 27, unless there is an emergency, and will meet on Jan. 10.

Borough officers' reports were accepted as submitted and bills were ordered paid.

D'Angelo reported $325 was netted from a minstrel show sponsored by the club Nov. 17 as a benefit for the City Park.

Cozy Gyms Inviting To Cage Fans; 17 Games Scheduled This Weekend

While the cold wave continues, plenty of basketball will be played in cozy gymnasiums around the district this weekend.

An early peak will be reached when 17 contests will unfold. Twelve tipoffs are set tonight, with five more rounding out the big weekend of basketball Saturday.

THE EAST Liverpool Potters are busy twice this weekend, entertaining Big 8 foe Warren tonight, then meeting Wellsville Saturday at Beacom Memorial gym.

The two hottest teams in the area at this moment — Midland and New Cumberland — will be seeking their fourth straight victories. Midland travels tonight for the first time this season to Ellwood City in another exhibition tilt.

COACH Hank Kuzma's amazing cagers have ripped through East Liverpool, Ambridge and Wellsville.

Coach John Kuzio's Blue Raiders from New Cumberland entertain South Side tonight and aren't expected to have much trouble winning their fourth in a row. Sherrard, Newell and Western Beaver have been New Cumberland's victims.

Newell, with a 3-1 record, goes to Malvern tonight, while Salineville will be looking for its first win at Springfield. Also after its first victory will be Beaver Local, which opens its home season tonight against North Lima. The Beavers dropped their opener to Wellsville last Saturday.

AN INTER-COUNTY battle finds United and Crestview hooking up in a battle of arch rivals and Western Beaver entertains a strong Northwestern five.

Tri-County action opens tonight on all fronts, with Sebring at East Palestine, Poland visiting Leetonia, Lisbon entertaining Minerva, and Louisville going to Columbiana.

Beaver Local swings back into action Saturday night in another home tilt, facing East Palestine. Sebring goes to Crestview, Leetonia to United and Carrollton to Lisbon.

6-Foot-7 Cager To Lead Warren Five To Town

Playing on foreign courts in their first two starts, the East Liverpool Potters hope to come up with a good shooting night against Warren tonight on the MA floor.

The reserve contest will get underway at 7, with the varsity tilt starting about 8:30.

Coach Jim Harris will start the same lineup that opened in the two previous games. He pointed out that even with the poor shooting of his team, the Potters were still in both contests right to the end.

At Midland, the East Liverpool cagers hit 27 per cent, losing in an overtime, 57-52. At Alliance, the percentage slipped to 24 and again the Potters lost, but only by one point, 40-39.

In the starting five for the Potters tonight will be Dean Cline, who is coming off a fine performance at Alliance last week. It was Cline's 19 points which kept the Potters in contention against the Aviators.

Rounding out the line will be Roger Lineville, Frank McComas, Ed Prentice and Dave Bowersock.

"I will start the same lineup as last week, and make some adjustments if we have to," Harris added.

Looking over the Warren club, Harris said, "We have to stop Gardner. He is a real good big man and likes to score. It will take a good effort to pull this game out."

The Potter coach was referring to Jim Gardner, Warren's 6-foot-7 pivot star, who has scored 54 points in two games. Also in the Panther lineup will be lettermen Bill Mink and Mike Richetto, both standing 5-foot-10, along with Dick Androsko, 6-foot-1, and probably Jim Chestnut, 6-foot-2.

Here's District Cage Schedule This Week

Tonight

Westgaters Rally To Win 2nd Straight

Westgate's ninth-graders stormed from behind in the second quarter and went on to whip Beaver Local, 35-25, Thursday at Westgate Junior High School.

Trailing 11-8 after the opening quarter, the Wildcats plunked in 19 points to go ahead at halftime, 27-17, and held the lead the rest of the way.

Chuck Winters led Westgate's attack with 12 points, while Mike McFarland collected double figures with 10. Lefty Jerry Vaughn had nine, while Len Walker and Bill Cunningham finished with two points each.

Race Betting Up In 1962

By The Associated Press

Attendance and wagering at the nation's thoroughbred race tracks showed another increase this season, an Associated Press survey of the 24 states with parimutuel betting disclosed Thursday.

Over-all attendance was up approximately 4 per cent over 1961, while the parimutuel turnover and revenue to the states increased about 7 per cent.

With incomplete, and in several cases estimated, totals where racing is still going on, the national gains were attributed to more racing days. There were 3,871 racing days this year, compared with 3,644 in 1961, an increase of 227.

Attendance was 34,280,991, Compared with 32,848,039 last year. The parimutuel turnover for 1962 reached $2,688,126,541, compared with $2,505,212,860 a year ago. Revenue to the states was $212,183,662 as against $198,827,958 in 1961.

Hale Was Standout At Wheeling . . .

Down Wheeling way, they speak pretty highly of George Hale, the former All-Ohio halfback from East Liverpool, who made some real contributions to the Wheeling Ironmen, 1962 champs of the United Football League.

Bill Van Horne, publicity director for the Ironmen, who witnessed about all of the Wheeling games, said "George was light for his position as defensive halfback, but he hit like a player well over 200 pounds.

"He played in all 15 of the Ironmen games and was a starter in every contest. Once during the season he was out with an injury. That came in Indianapolis when he was struck in the mouth and several stitches were required to close the wound."

Hale, who rushed for more than 1,000 yards his senior year at East Liverpool in 1957, went on to Ohio State where he was considered an outstanding freshman prospect by Woody Hayes but gave up college and returned home.

He played in the UFL last year for the Akron Pros, which disbanded. Hale's contract then was picked up by Wheeling.

George hit it lucky this year. Playing with the championship team, he picked up an extra slice of the playoff money which amounted to about $179 per player.

Toncic Key To Success . . .

ANOTHER key to the success of the Ironmen was Ivan Toncic, the former Midland High and Pitt great, who said playing for Wheeling is the best break he has had since leaving Pitt.

"Toncic was the secret to the success this year," Van Horne pointed out. Ivan was the third-ranked passer in the league and was always tough in the clutch.

THE WHEELING entry showed that a team could be successful in a professional football league of minor stature. The Ironmen almost broke even at the gate for the season.

If it hadn't been for the first season starting expenses, the Wheeling franchise could have made money this year. The Ohio Valley fans supported the team better than any other one in the league because Wheeling had the top attendance this season.

The UFL also serves as a stepping stone for bigger things in the cases of several players. Wheeling already has sold two players to teams in the Canadian League and the Baltimore Colts are interested in purchasing the contracts of three others.

Pro Grid Leagues In New War Over College Talent

BUFFALO (AP)—General Manager Dick Gallagher of the American Football League's Buffalo Bills has admitted signing West Virginia halfback Tom Woodeshick a week before he was drafted but charged this was a practice the rival National League had "done for years."

The new flare-up in the unofficial war being fought by the two pro leagues over the nation's top football talent came to a head Wednesday when it was revealed two collegiate stars had each signed a contract with both NFL and AFL teams.

Woodeshick signed with the Bills and the Philadelphia Eagles of the NFL while linebacker Jim Moss of South Carolina signed with Buffalo and the NFL's St. Louis Cardinals. Both players said they inetnded to play with the NFL teams.

Gallagher said Woodeshick was signed to a Bills' contract a week before the AFL draft, but said the contract did not become valid until the Bills officially selected him in the draft.

"The contract," said Gallagher, "was signed with the agreement that we had to draft him for the contract to be good." Gallagher said this procedure had been "done for years in the NFL" to insure that a club does not lose a drafted player.

The main point in question remains whether the AFL still is recognizing pro football's agreement with the National Collegiate Athletic Association to sign no player prior to the end of the college season. That was set as the date of the Army-Navy game each year.

Gotham Contest Will Be Played

NEW YORK (AP)—The Miami football team is in town and the Nebraska's Cornhuskers are due in today. Some 20,000 tickets reportedly have been sold. A television deal finally has been completed, albeit for a taped showing. So—it finally can be reported for certain that there will be a Gotham Bowl game Saturday at Yankee Stadium.

It took a lot of doing, too, on the part of executive director Bob Curran and his staff, with an assist from Mayor Robert Wagner, who personally guaranteed the expense money demanded by the schools before they would permit their athletes to set foot on Yankee Stadium terrain.

Miami reportedly has been guaranteed $30,000 in expense money and Nebraska $35,000. How much more each school will get may never be known. A Gotham Bowl spokesman said all the proceeds from television as well as the gate receipts, after the March of Dimes takes out its share, will be handed over to the two schools.

Truce Period In New York Strike Urged

NEW YORK (AP) — The publisher of the New York Journal-American has called on striking printers to go back to work on New York's nine major dailies for a 60-day truce period while peace talks continue.

In making the proposal Thursday night, publisher J. Kingsbury-Smith said it may save some of the struck papers from going out of business. He appealed to President Kennedy, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, or Mayor Robert F. Wagner to set up the armistice in the strike, which has idled 20,000 workers.

Both the publishers and the printers were cool to the idea.

Amory H. Bradford, vice president of the New York Times and head of the publishers' negotiating committee said: "As I believe Mr. Smith indicated in introducing his statement, he was expressing his personal views. They do not represent a plan developed by the publishers association."

Bertram A. Powers, president of Local 6 of the International Typographical Union said: "If he (Kingsbury-Smith) is so concerned, it's about time he entered the negotiations."

The ITU struck four papers Saturday in their bid for an $18.45 weekly pay raise to bring the base rate of printers to $159.45 and various fringe benefits. The publishers have offered an $8 wage increase and some benefits they say would be worth an additional $1.20 a week.

The city's remaining five papers shut down in the face of the strike against the other four. The papers had a daily circulation of 5.5 million.

Challenge Filed On Election In Supreme Court

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Democrat Michael J. McCullion of Youngstown has filed a challenge in the Ohio Supreme Court to the election of James H. Grose, Hubbard Republican, as state senator in the 23rd District embracing Mahoning and part of trumbull County.

McCullion claimed the election of Grose was void on grounds that absentee ballots were not applied for properly as some were issued without being requested and that several voters marked ballots illegally.

Grose won the Nov. 6 election for state senator by 70 votes. A recount showed Grose the winner by 69 votes in the results announced Dec. 3.

McCullion asked the high court to order a trial on the election result and have him declared the winner over Grose. The contest is for the last two years of the unexpired term of former Sen. Stephen R. Olenick who resigned to become Mahoning County auditor.

Ohio Businessman's Body Found In Hotel

DETROIT (AP)—The body of an Ohio businessman was found today in the bathtub of a Sheraton-Cadillac Hotel suite, a bullet wound in his head. A revolver was in the tub.

He was last seen by a room maid Wednesday. Hotel employes sawed through the door chain lock to his room after there was no response to telephone calls.

Myers Steals Some Thunder

Three Sophomores Figure In Top Grid Performances

By SHELDON SAKOWITZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The one-man gang displays of three sophomores and a much-honored senior comprised the most spectacular individual performances in collegiate football for 1962.

According to sports writers and sportscasters taking part in the annual year-end Associated Press poll, the "most spectacular" performers were quarterbacks — Sophs Tommy (Gun) Myers of Northwestern, gimpy Craig Morton of California and Gary Wood of Cornell, and — who else? — poised Terry Baker, the Oregon State All-America recently named Heisman and Maxwell Trophy winner and AP Back of the Year.

There were so many top performances, the pollsters decided, there could be no clear-cut winner.

Myers in his first varsity game, against South Carolina, completed 15 straight passes and wound up with 20 completions in 24 attempts in Northwestern's 37-20 victory. In a 34-22 triumph over Minnesota, he fired three fourth-quarter TD passes. Behind Myers pinpoint pitching, Northwestern overcame a 14-0 first-period deficit and went on to defeat Ohio State 18-14.

Wood was virtually a one-man show as Cornell edged Princeton 35-34, completing 13 of 16 passes for 212 yards and three touchdowns and carrying 15 times for 125 yards and two TDs.

Morton made his first appearance in California's sixth game of the season, against Penn State, recovering from a knee operation. Although his team lost 23-21, Morton completed 20 passes in 28 attempts, three for touchdowns, and gained 274 yards.

Baker was phenominal in Oregon State's 39-35 victory over Iowa State. He passed and rushed for 317 yards, throwing for three touchdowns and scoring three others.

Defense Vs. Offense In Liberty Bowl Tilt

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — If you are an old diehard who still insists a good defense is the best offense you must love underdog Villanova in its Liberty Bowl football game against Oregon State here Saturday.

Coach Alex Bell's Wildcats allowed opponents an average of 189-yards per game in posting a 7-2 record this past season and ranked eighth nationally on defense. It's doubtful, however, if the Villanovans have faced the devastating offense they must cope with at Philadelphia Stadium.

Oregon State, led by All-America quarterback Terry Baker, is the second leading offensive team in the country with 3,752 yards total, 1,801 on the ground and 1,951 passing. The Beavers scored 34 touchdowns en route to an 8-2 season and an invitation to this fourth annual Liberty Bowl game.

A.V.P., Ogilvie's, Finance Win Little Potter Openers

American Vit., Ogilvie's and Columbiana County Finance broke on top as the Little Potters Sixth Grade League opened play Thursday at the high school gym.

American Vit. led by Chambers' 10 points posted a 22-11 win over Hune Co. Wolfe topped the losers with six points.

The thriller on opening night showed Ogilvie's nipping George Bright's, 19-18 on Chuck Harpold's field goal in the last second. It was the only two-pointer of the contest for Harpold but proved the biggest. Danny Cunningham scored 14 of his team's 19 markers to pave the way while Johnson tallied six points and Flint five for Bright's.

Columbiana County Finance sparked by an 18-point performance from Rick Steffen turned in the best offense of the afternoon with a 33-7 win over Coca-Cola. Marvin Schell paced Coca-Cola with five markers.

The Sixth Grade League will not resume action now until Jan. 3.

Dayton Grid Coach Fired

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—The University of Dayton is in the market for a new football coach. School officials announced Thursday they are not renewing the contract of Stan Zajdel, whose present agreement expires Dec. 31.

Zajdel, 35, has been at Dayton since 1955 and head coach for the past three seasons. In that time his teams have won 5 games and lost 25.

There was no indication when a successor would be named, but two candidates for the job have been mentioned—Chuck Noll, former Dayton and Cleveland Browns star who is now an assistant coach of the San Diego Chargers of the American Football League, and Paul Miller, who has built an enviable record coaching at Louisville Flaget High School.

Holiday Cage Tourneys To Open Tonight

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

For the next two weeks almost the only lights on in town may be at the college gym, where the roundball experts will indulge in that annual winter wonder known as the holiday basketball tournament.

The major college cagers get underway tonight in the Steel Bowl at Pittsburgh, where Duquesne meets Boston College and William and Mary goes against Pitt, and in the Knights of Columbus Tournament at Portland, where Tennessee State takes on University of Pacific and Los Angeles Loyola plays Portland.

While those teams were standing in the wings, Notre Dame, Miami of Florida and Niagara—three clubs trying to wing into the nation's top ten—joined second-ranked Duke to bolster their prestige with convincing victories Thursday night.

The Irish won their sixth in succession by crushing Creighton 74-48, Miami remained unbeaten in five by belting Florida Southern 116-93, Niagara snapped Dayton's 4-game winning streak with 75 14-game winning streak with a 75-67 triumph and Duke beat Clemson 92-67 in an Atlantic Coast Conference clash.

Notre Dame, which had been getting 20-point performances from some heralded sophs, turned to senior John Andreoli against Creighton. Andreoli scored 20 points, pulling the Irish into a 33-21 halftime lead as he led a 16-3 burst that sent the Bluejays reeling.

Niagara failed to score a basket in the first 7½ minutes, fell behind 18-6, cut the deficit to 39-30 at halftime and finally pulled ahead of Dayton for keeps with just over 2 minutes left when Bill Kennedy sank a basket for a 62-61 lead.

Duke won its fifth in a row and third straight in the ACC as Art Heyman led the Blue Devils' three-pronged attack with 30 points.

By JACK CLARY

NEW YORK (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers and Cleveland Browns meet Saturday afternoon in San Francisco in a National Football League game that will have no bearing on any race, but which will be for the public's entertainment over national television (CBS, 1:30 p.m., PST).

Sunday, though, the Green Bay Packers, 12-1, play the Los Angeles Rams in Los Angeles, needing only a victory or tie to sew up their third straight Western Conference crown and get a second straight title game date against the New York Giants.

In the American League, Houston can nail down its third straight Eastern title Saturday in New York against the Titans. If the Oilers lose, they still could back in if the Oakland Raiders, losers of 19 straight, upset or tie the second-place Boston Patriots in Oakland.

This week's final picks:

NFL

St. Louis over Philadelphia—Cardinals awakened last week with big 52-20 win over Dallas and have easier foe in Eagles.

Baltimore over Minnesota — Colts need victory to finish at .500 but it will be an offensive battle with Johnny Unitas pitting passes against Fran Tarkenton of Vikings.

Pittsburgh over Washington — Steelers just too strong again for Redskins, are worn out and battered after surprise showing this year. Lou Michaels' toe may decide for Pittsburgh.

New York over Dallas—Giants will get a good test from Cowboys' big offense, but Ralph Guglielmi showed Eastern champions have little to worry about when Y.A. Tittle isn't running the club.

Chicago over Detroit—Lions will be playing for their lives but Bears are a sound ball club with Billy Wade in groove as passer.

AFL

Oakland over Boston — Raiders get edge on Pats with desire to win at least once during season. Boston may be down if game doesn't decide title chances.

Ohio State Continues As Attendance Leader

NEW YORK (AP) — Perennial champion Ohio State maintained its position as the biggest attraction in college football during the 1962 season but honors for the biggest proportionate gain went to the Mississippi College Choctaws.

The Buckeyes of the Big Ten Conference, who lost an average of one fan per game in 1962, finished on top by clicking 497,644 fans through the turnstiles in six games—an average of 82,941. In 1961, Ohio State drew 414,712 in five games for an average of 82,942.

The Choctaws of Clinton, Miss., quadrupled their average 1962 attendance. The boost from 3,625 a game to 13,125 was made possible by a turnout of 40,625 for an opening game international contest with the University of Mexico.

The Buckeyes headed a list of eight Big Ten teams in the top 20 with only Illinois and Indiana failing to make it. Michigan State was No. 2 with a 68,142 average—a gain of 11,868 per game. LSU was third with a 66,284 average, gaining 2,633 per game.

The gains reflected a general over-all increase as college football attendance passed the 21-million mark for the first time in 1962, an average gain of 2.66 per cent despite the fact six fewer teams played the sport.

To Receive Trophy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ed Jucker, head basketball coach of the University of Cincinnati, will receive the Touchdown Club of Columbus trophy as "basketball coach of the year" when the club holds its eighth annual sports award dinner in the Athletic Club here Friday night, Jan. 18.

Hale Was Standout At Wheeling . . .

Down Wheeling way, they speak pretty highly of George Hale, the former All-Ohio halfback from East Liverpool, who made some real contributions to the Wheeling Ironmen, 1962 champs of the United Football League.

Bill Van Horne, publicity director for the Ironmen, who witnessed about all of the Wheeling games, said "George was light for his position as defensive halfback, but he hit like a player well over 200 pounds.

"He played in all 15 of the Ironmen games and was a starter in every contest. Once during the season he was out with an injury. That came in Indianapolis when he was struck in the mouth and several stitches were required to close the wound."

Hale, who rushed for more than 1,000 yards his senior year at East Liverpool in 1957, went on to Ohio State where he was considered an outstanding freshman prospect by Woody Hayes but gave up college and returned home.

He played in the UFL last year for the Akron Pros, which disbanded. Hale's contract then was picked up by Wheeling.

George hit it lucky this year. Playing with the championship team, he picked up an extra slice of the playoff money which amounted to about $179 per player.

Toncic Key To Success . . .

ANOTHER key to the success of the Ironmen was Ivan Toncic, the former Midland High and Pitt great, who said playing for Wheeling is the best break he has had since leaving Pitt.

"Toncic was the secret to the success this year," Van Horne pointed out. Ivan was the third-ranked passer in the league and was always tough in the clutch.

THE WHEELING entry showed that a team could be successful in a professional football league of minor stature. The Ironmen almost broke even at the gate for the season.

If it hadn't been for the first season starting expenses, the Wheeling franchise could have made money this year. The Ohio Valley fans supported the team better than any other one in the league because Wheeling had the top attendance this season.

The UFL also serves as a stepping stone for bigger things in the cases of several players. Wheeling already has sold two players to teams in the Canadian League and the Baltimore Colts are interested in purchasing the contracts of three others.

Pierson Captains Kent Matmen . . .

This 'N That In Sports . . .

KENNY Cunningham, the Potters player-of-the-year in Ohio in 1961, is with the University of Cincinnati squad on its first road trip of the season out Kansas way.

Tonight the Bearcats will be in Manhattan, Kansas, to battle a strong Kansas State team and Saturday the action shifts to Lawrence for a battle with the University of Kansas.

JIM MANNING, a former Potter basketball standout, who played his last season at ELHS in 1952, is now with the Goodyear Rubber Co., in Akron following his discharge from the Navy about nine months ago.

JOHN Henry Martin, the ex-Wellsville flash, has finished a hitch in the Army and is considering enrolling in February at Virginia State College, Petersburg, Va. John starred in football and track at Kent State, then continued his athletic career in the Army where he performed for Ft. Eustis.

DAVE HUNTER, the classy little blond guard for Salem about three years ago, will be in the starting lineup for William and Mary when the Indians face Pitt in the Steel Bowl at Pittsburgh tonight.

Gotham Contest Will Be Played

NEW YORK (AP)—The Miami football team is in town and the Nebraska's Cornhuskers are due in today. Some 20,000 tickets reportedly have been sold. A television deal finally has been completed, albeit for a taped showing. So—it finally can be reported for certain that there will be a Gotham Bowl game Saturday at Yankee Stadium.

It took a lot of doing, too, on the part of executive director Bob Curran and his staff, with an assist from Mayor Robert Wagner, who personally guaranteed the expense money demanded by the schools before they would permit their athletes to set foot on Yankee Stadium terrain.

Miami reportedly has been guaranteed $30,000 in expense money and Nebraska $35,000. How much more each school will get may never be known. A Gotham Bowl spokesman said all the proceeds from television as well as the gate receipts, after the March of Dimes takes out its share, will be handed over to the two schools.

Both Jump The Gun

Pro Grid Leagues In New War Over College Talent

BUFFALO (AP)—General Manager Dick Gallagher of the American Football League's Buffalo Bills has admitted signing West Virginia halfback Tom Woodeshick a week before he was drafted but charged this was a practice the rival National League had "done for years."

The new flare-up in the unofficial war being fought by the two pro leagues over the nation's top football talent came to a head Wednesday when it was revealed two collegiate stars had each signed a contract with both NFL and AFL teams.

Woodeshick signed with the Bills and the Philadelphia Eagles of the NFL while linebacker Jim Moss of South Carolina signed with Buffalo and the NFL's St. Louis Cardinals. Both players said they inetnded to play with the NFL teams.

Gallagher said Woodeshick was signed to a Bills' contract a week before the AFL draft, but said the contract did not become valid until the Bills officially selected him in the draft.

"The contract," said Gallagher, "was signed with the agreement that we had to draft him for the contract to be good." Gallagher said this procedure had been "done for years in the NFL" to insure that a club does not lose a drafted player.

The main point in question remains whether the AFL still is recognizing pro football's agreement with the National Collegiate Athletic Association to sign no player prior to the end of the college season. That was set as the date of the Army-Navy game each year.

East Measures Westgate Eighth Graders, 40-20

6-Foot-7 Cager To Lead Warren Five To Town

Playing on foreign courts in their first two starts, the East Liverpool Potters hope to come up with a good shooting night against Warren tonight on the MA floor.

The reserve contest will get underway at 7, with the varsity tilt starting about 8:30.

Coach Jim Harris will start the same lineup that opened in the two previous games. He pointed out that even with the poor shooting of his team, the Potters were still in both contests right to the end.

At Midland, the East Liverpool cagers hit 27 per cent, losing in an overtime, 57-52. At Alliance, the percentage slipped to 24 and again the Potters lost, but only by one point, 40-39.

In the starting five for the Potters tonight will be Dean Cline, who is coming off a fine performance at Alliance last week. It was Cline's 19 points which kept the Potters in contention against the Aviators.

"I will start the same lineup as last week, and make some adjustments if we have to," Harris added.

Looking over the Warren club, Harris said, "We have to stop Gardner. He is a real good big man and likes to score. It will take a good effort to pull this game out."

The Potter coach was referring to Jim Gardner, Warren's 6-foot-7 pivot star, who has scored 54 points in two games. Also in the Panther lineup will be lettermen Bill Mink and Mike Richetto, both standing 5-foot-10, along with Dick Androsko, 6-foot-1, and probably Jim Chestnut, 6-foot-2.

Race Betting Up In 1962

By The Associated Press

Attendance and wagering at the nation's thoroughbred race tracks showed another increase this season, an Associated Press survey of the 24 states with parimutuel betting disclosed Thursday.

Over-all attendance was up approximately 4 per cent over 1961, while the parimutuel turnover and revenue to the states increased about 7 per cent.

With incomplete, and in several cases estimated, totals where racing is still going on, the national gains were attributed to more racing days. There were 3,871 racing days this year, compared with 3,644 in 1961, an increase of 227.

Attendance was 34,280,991, Compared with 32,848,039 last year. The parimutuel turnover for 1962 reached $2,688,126,541, compared with $2,505,212,860 a year ago. Revenue to the states was $212,183,662 as against $198,827,958 in 1961.

Sonic Tonic for Snowslides

PILOTS of the 498th Fighter Interceptor Squadron, Spokane, Wash., are making the sonic boom shock waves of their jet aircraft pay off in Glacier National Park, Mont.

"Operation Safeslide" was born at the Avalanche Conference in Santa Fe, N.M., in April of 1960. Prior to that time park employes had been using dynamite to create slides that would otherwise threaten the lives of tourists and Rangers alike. One problem with the dynamite was that it proved to be a favorite morsel with the park bears.

This F-106 Delta Dart makes a swing through the mountains of Glacier National Park in response to Rangers' call upon the Air Force to create a slide producing sonic boom. Planes fly in pairs.

Rotary plow piles snow into 60 foot banks along edge of "Going to the Sun" road after jet shock induced three slides that otherwise could endanger road crews. Boom also causes snow to settle.

Myers Steals Some Thunder

Three Sophomores Figure In Top Grid Performances

By SHELDON SAKOWITZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The one-man gang displays of three sophomores and a much-honored senior comprised the most spectacular individual performances in collegiate football for 1962.

According to sports writers and sportscasters taking part in the annual year-end Associated Press poll, the "most spectacular" performers were quarterbacks — Sophs Tommy (Gun) Myers of Northwestern, gimpy Craig Morton of California and Gary Wood of Cornell, and — who else? — poised Terry Baker, the Oregon State All-America recently named Heisman and Maxwell Trophy winner and AP Back of the Year.

There were so many top performances, the pollsters decided, there could be no clear-cut winner.

Myers in his first varsity game, against South Carolina, completed 15 straight passes and wound up with 20 completions in 24 attempts in Northwestern's 37-20 victory. In a 34-22 triumph over Minnesota, he fired three fourth-quarter TD passes. Behind Myers pinpoint pitching, Northwestern overcame a 14-0 first-period deficit and went on to defeat Ohio State 18-14.

Wood was virtually a one-man show as Cornell edged Princeton 35-34, completing 13 of 16 passes for 212 yards and three touchdowns and carrying 15 times for 125 yards and two TDs.

Morton made his first appearance in California's sixth game of the season, against Penn State, recovering from a knee operation. Although his team lost 23-21, Morton completed 20 passes in 28 attempts, three for touchdowns, and gained 274 yards.

Baker was phenominal in Oregon State's 39-35 victory over Iowa State. He passed and rushed for 317 yards, throwing for three touchdowns and scoring three others.

Defense Vs. Offense In Liberty Bowl Tilt

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — If you are an old diehard who still insists a good defense is the best offense you must love underdog Villanova in its Liberty Bowl football game against Oregon State here Saturday.

Coach Alex Bell's Wildcats allowed opponents an average of 189-yards per game in posting a 7-2 record this past season and ranked eighth nationally on defense. It's doubtful, however, if the Villanovans have faced the devastating offense they must cope with at Philadelphia Stadium.

Oregon State, led by All-America quarterback Terry Baker, is the second leading offensive team in the country with 3,752 yards total, 1,801 on the ground and 1,951 passing. The Beavers scored 34 touchdowns en route to an 8-2 season and an invitation to this fourth annual Liberty Bowl game.

A.V.P., Ogilvie's, Finance Win Little Potter Openers

American Vit., Ogilvie's and Columbiana County Finance broke on top as the Little Potters Sixth Grade League opened play Thursday at the high school gym.

American Vit. led by Chambers' 10 points posted a 22-11 win over Hune Co. Wolfe topped the losers with six points.

The thriller on opening night showed Ogilvie's nipping George Bright's, 19-18 on Chuck Harpold's field goal in the last second. It was the only two-pointer of the contest for Harpold but proved the biggest. Danny Cunningham scored 14 of his team's 19 markers to pave the way while Johnson tallied six points and Flint five for Bright's.

Columbiana County Finance sparked by an 18-point performance from Rick Steffen turned in the best offense of the afternoon with a 33-7 win over Coca-Cola. Marvin Schell paced Coca-Cola with five markers.

The Sixth Grade League will not resume action now until Jan. 3.

Dayton Grid Coach Fired

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—The University of Dayton is in the market for a new football coach. School officials announced Thursday they are not renewing the contract of Stan Zajdel, whose present agreement expires Dec. 31.

Zajdel, 35, has been at Dayton since 1955 and head coach for the past three seasons. In that time his teams have won 5 games and lost 25.

There was no indication when a successor would be named, but two candidates for the job have been mentioned—Chuck Noll, former Dayton and Cleveland Browns star who is now an assistant coach of the San Diego Chargers of the American Football League, and Paul Miller, who has built an enviable record coaching at Louisville Flaget High School.

Holiday Cage Tourneys To Open Tonight

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

For the next two weeks almost the only lights on in town may be at the college gym, where the roundball experts will indulge in that annual winter wonder known as the holiday basketball tournament.

The major college cagers get underway tonight in the Steel Bowl at Pittsburgh, where Duquesne meets Boston College and William and Mary goes against Pitt, and in the Knights of Columbus Tournament at Portland, where Tennessee State takes on University of Pacific and Los Angeles Loyola plays Portland.

While those teams were standing in the wings, Notre Dame, Miami of Florida and Niagara—three clubs trying to wing into the nation's top ten—joined second-ranked Duke to bolster their prestige with convincing victories Thursday night.

The Irish won their sixth in succession by crushing Creighton 74-48, Miami remained unbeaten in five by belting Florida Southern 116-93, Niagara snapped Dayton's 4-game winning streak with 75 14-game winning streak with a 75-67 triumph and Duke beat Clemson 92-67 in an Atlantic Coast Conference clash.

Notre Dame, which had been getting 20-point performances from some heralded sophs, turned to senior John Andreoli against Creighton. Andreoli scored 20 points, pulling the Irish into a 33-21 halftime lead as he led a 16-3 burst that sent the Bluejays reeling.

Niagara failed to score a basket in the first 7½ minutes, fell behind 18-6, cut the deficit to 39-30 at halftime and finally pulled ahead of Dayton for keeps with just over 2 minutes left when Bill Kennedy sank a basket for a 62-61 lead.

Duke won its fifth in a row and third straight in the ACC as Art Heyman led the Blue Devils' three-pronged attack with 30 points.

By JACK CLARY

NEW YORK (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers and Cleveland Browns meet Saturday afternoon in San Francisco in a National Football League game that will have no bearing on any race, but which will be for the public's entertainment over national television (CBS, 1:30 p.m., PST).

Sunday, though, the Green Bay Packers, 12-1, play the Los Angeles Rams in Los Angeles, needing only a victory or tie to sew up their third straight Western Conference crown and get a second straight title game date against the New York Giants.

In the American League, Houston can nail down its third straight Eastern title Saturday in New York against the Titans. If the Oilers lose, they still could back in if the Oakland Raiders, losers of 19 straight, upset or tie the second-place Boston Patriots in Oakland.

This week's final picks:

NFL

St. Louis over Philadelphia—Cardinals awakened last week with big 52-20 win over Dallas and have easier foe in Eagles.

Baltimore over Minnesota — Colts need victory to finish at .500 but it will be an offensive battle with Johnny Unitas pitting passes against Fran Tarkenton of Vikings.

Pittsburgh over Washington — Steelers just too strong again for Redskins, are worn out and battered after surprise showing this year. Lou Michaels' toe may decide for Pittsburgh.

New York over Dallas—Giants will get a good test from Cowboys' big offense, but Ralph Guglielmi showed Eastern champions have little to worry about when Y.A. Tittle isn't running the club.

Chicago over Detroit—Lions will be playing for their lives but Bears are a sound ball club with Billy Wade in groove as passer.

AFL

Oakland over Boston — Raiders get edge on Pats with desire to win at least once during season. Boston may be down if game doesn't decide title chances.

Ohio State Continues As Attendance Leader

NEW YORK (AP) — Perennial champion Ohio State maintained its position as the biggest attraction in college football during the 1962 season but honors for the biggest proportionate gain went to the Mississippi College Choctaws.

The Buckeyes of the Big Ten Conference, who lost an average of one fan per game in 1962, finished on top by clicking 497,644 fans through the turnstiles in six games—an average of 82,941. In 1961, Ohio State drew 414,712 in five games for an average of 82,942.

The Choctaws of Clinton, Miss., quadrupled their average 1962 attendance. The boost from 3,625 a game to 13,125 was made possible by a turnout of 40,625 for an opening game international contest with the University of Mexico.

The Buckeyes headed a list of eight Big Ten teams in the top 20 with only Illinois and Indiana failing to make it. Michigan State was No. 2 with a 68,142 average—a gain of 11,868 per game. LSU was third with a 66,284 average, gaining 2,633 per game.

The gains reflected a general over-all increase as college football attendance passed the 21-million mark for the first time in 1962, an average gain of 2.66 per cent despite the fact six fewer teams played the sport.

2 Men Named To Direct City 'Dimes' Drive

Edwin L. Martin, 817 Illinois Ave., and James W. Crooks of Sturgis Ave. will be co-chairmen of the East Liverpool March of Dimes in January, Richard G. Brian, head of the countywide drive, announced today.

Brian explained next month's drive marks the 25th anniversary of the campaign, founded originally by President Franklin D. Roosevelt to stamp out polio. Proceeds of the drive now are used mainly to finance research into the causes of birth defects, arthritis and polio.

Brian declared 250,000 children are born every year with significant birth defects — almost 700 each day. In addition, there are 11 million Americans, including thousands of children, afflicted with some form of arthritis or rheumatic disease, he said.

"Most communities just don't have the medical personnel or facilities to care adequately for persons stricken with these disabilities," Brian said.

In the 50 treatment centers, teams of medical specialists provide early diagnosis and comprehensive medical care which can cure or minimize the effects of birth defects and arthritis, he said.

Firemen Seek Cause Of Fire Fatal To 3

The $30,000 ranch-type house at outlying Remington, on which Bissantz had done much of the work himself, was damaged so badly firemen said few clues remained to tell what might have started the blaze.

Bissantz went to stay with his mother in nearby Batavia, where funeral services for his wife and children will be held at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Mr. Shnoo's Zoo

BY LUCRECE BEALE

'It's a secret I learned from a fairy queen.'

CHAPTER 11

Mr. Shnoo sniffed and all the attendants sniffed. Never in this world had they smelled so sweet a smell.

"What is it?" Mr. Shnoo asked. "What have you made?"

"Tropical incense," said Santa, watching the smoke drift from the pan. "It's a secret I learned from a fairy queen who rules the island where birds go when they die."

"It is magic!" cried Mr. Shnoo. "See what is happening!"

Truly, it was a sight to see and a sound to hear. The birds had left their nests and were darting about the cage. The songs they sang had never been so clear and lively. Even Herbert and Louise, the giraffes, were affected by it all. They swung their long necks and strange humming sounds came from their throats.

"Happy day, indeed!" agreed Mr. Shnoo. "Ah," he said, turning to Santa, "If only I had the recipe for your incense!"

"No need," said Santa. "For now I believe your birds will live forever."

Mr. Shnoo was overcome. "Because of you," said he, "Shnoo's Zoo now has flying reindeer, a bear with dinosaur teeth and birds that will never die! What a sight for the Queen!"

Santa wrapped his long wool scarf around his neck. "I hope she comes soon," he said. "For bad luck seems to plague you."

"Don't worry," said Mr. Shnoo. "I am sure our bad luck is over."

"Perhaps," said Santa. "Anyway, you know how to reach me should the need arise." With that he was out of the door and gone before Mr. Shnoo could blink his eyes.

MR. SHNOO was wrong. His bad luck was not over. The next day trouble came to the big animal house when Henrietta, the elephant, fell over on her side and could not get up again.

It happened this way:

Every night Henrietta was tied to a stake on the right side of her cage and it was her custom to lean against the big stone wall on her right while she slept.

The night before she was tied to the left side of her cage. When she dozed off she leaned over to the right as was her custom but the wall was not there and poor Henrietta went plop right over on her side.

Now an elephant can lie down by first bending his front legs under him and then kneeling down on his back legs. When he is down like this he can get back up very easily. But when an elephant is lying on his side, all four legs stick straight out and no matter how much he tries he cannot get back up on them.

THIS IS the way Henrietta was found and Mr. Shnoo was very angry.

Who else was about?"

"No one. Except Crookshank, who's always around."

Crookshank declared he'd had nothing to do with the matter and Mr. Shnoo said anyway the thing to do now was to get Henrietta back on her feet.

He called in all the men in the zoo and they all got behind Henrietta and pushed and pushed and pushed, but they could not budge her.

Mr. Shnoo had the men put a pulley at the top of the cage. He wrapped canvas around Henrietta's middle and tied it with ropes through the pulley. Then the men pulled on the ropes. Henrietta was raised two inches but, try as they would, the men could lift her no higher.

Poor Henrietta kicked her legs feebly and snorted unhappily through her trunk. She looked at Mr. Shnoo as if to say, "Hurry! I can't stay this way much longer!"

"Don't worry," said Mr. Shnoo gently. "We'll get you up." But how they were to do it, he did not know.

Tomorrow: Skating Henrietta!

Board Makes Plans

Chamber At Midland To Elect 12 Directors

Plans were made at a meeting of the Midland Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors Wednesday night for the election of 12 directors and the appointment of a committee to study the feasibility of Midland banks being open Saturdays.

The nominating committee, headed by David Schwerha, chairman, reported 24 candidates. Ballots will be mailed later this month to members and they are to be returned by Jan. 9, next regular meeting of the board.

Charles R. Schmitt, president, will appoint a committee to study the possibility of the Midland branch of the Beaver Trust Co. and the Midland First National Bank opening on Saturdays. Besides their regular hours, the banks now are open every other Tuesday until 5 p. m. and on Friday evenings. The committee will meet next week.

Howard Nophsker, Christmas activities chairman, reported on the recent parade and the lighting of street decorations. He said donations are coming in from various members to pay for the activities.

It was reported that no entry blanks will be necessary for residents of the area participating in the Chamber's Christmas home lighting contest.

The only requirement is that residents have their decorations lighted Dec. 26, 27 and 28 between 7 and 9 p. m. Prizes will be $25, $15 and $10.

Mike Hornick, member of the Chamber's public relations committee, reported on a meeting with the Midland Parent - Teacher Associations to sponsor a joint community picnic June 5 at Idora Park at Youngstown.

Anthony Martell, chairman of the school committee, said the Midland School District is in favor of joining the Western Beaver and Beaver School Districts under Act 561, the state's school district reorganization law.

The board met at the McGeehan Agency.

Castro Losing Favor: Russians Took Rum

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP)—Most Cubans who flee their homes contend that Prime Minister Fidel Castro is losing favor and often have elaborate explanations as to why.

But one of the latest group of 12 men who docked at Mastic point, Andros Island, had a simpler version. He said Castro lost half his support when the Soviet troops began arriving.

Worst Freeze Since 1889

Florida's Harvest Hands Rush To Salvage Fruit

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Harvest hands abandoned winter-killed Florida vegetable farms and streamed into the citrus groves today in a frantic effort to salvage something from the state's worst freeze since 1889.

For fruit growers, paradoxically, a prospect of rising temperatures became a threat now that cold weather has frozen their oranges and grapefruit. Their hope lay in a quick harvest of some of the citrus to convert to juice before relaxation of the cold wave deteriorated the frozen fruit.

The Florida Citrus Commission scheduled a meeting to assess damage and consider regulations on use of frost-nipped fruit. State Agriculture Commissioner Doyle E. Conner said ice had formed in 75 to 100 per cent of citrus in Florida except at Fort Pierce, Stuart and the lower East Coast.

Florida Citrus Mutual, big growers cooperative, estimated that despite smudge fires, machines to stir up the air to prevent frost and other efforts to save the citrus crop—which is central Florida's economic mainstay—more fruit was frozen than in 1957-58. That year, 30 million boxes of citrus were lost and 30,000 trees killed.

U.S. Weather Bureau and Florida Agricultural Experiment Station forecasters said that tonight would see some moderation of the cold snap that sent the mercury Thursday to 10 degrees at Tallahassee, 11 at Ocala, 12 at Jacksonville and an all-time Tampa low of 19.

They ground automobile starters and gunned engines to keep them alive for the first few blocks. Many showed up at their jobs in mothball-fragrant, out-of-style overcoats, caps and gloves which they brought south with them and hadn't used since their arrival.

Sonic Tonic for Snowslides

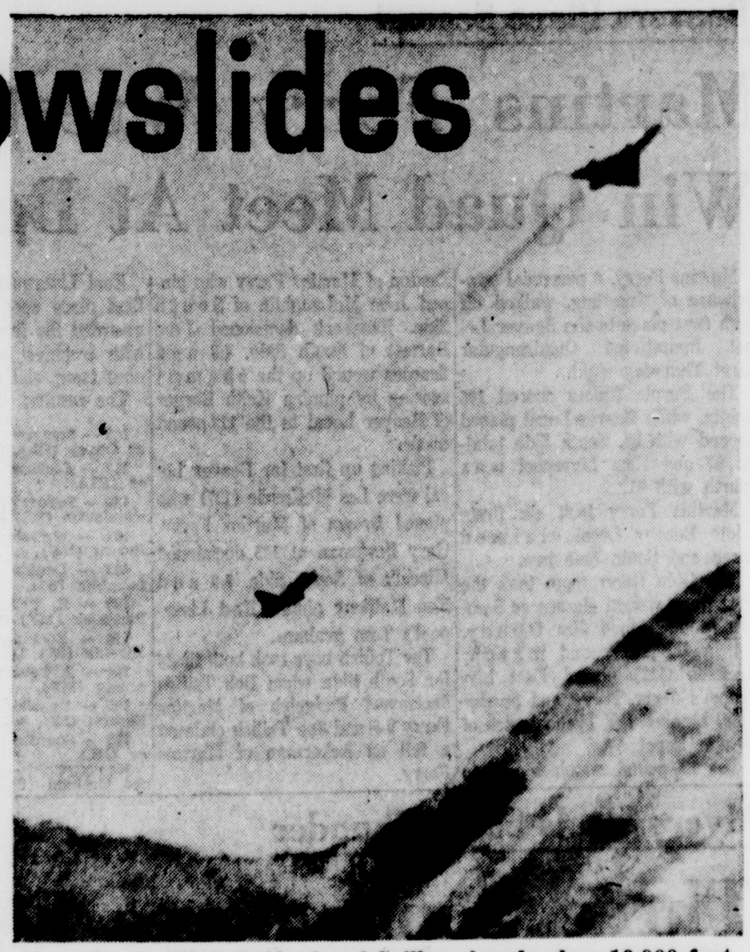
PILOTS of the 498th Fighter Interceptor Squadron, Spokane, Wash., are making the sonic boom shock waves of their jet aircraft pay off in Glacier National Park, Mont.

"Operation Safeslide" was born at the Avalanche Conference in Santa Fe, N. M., in April of 1960. Prior to that time park employes had been using dynamite to create slides that would otherwise threaten the lives of tourists and Rangers alike. One problem with the dynamite was that it proved to be a favorite morsel with the park bears.

Flying F-106 Delta Darts the U. S. avalanche hunters have come up with a sonic tonic that is the remedy for the age old problem of slides.

A prime target of "Operation Safeslide" is this winding mountain road that cuts through the snow-capped peaks of Glacier National Park, Montana. Air Force Jets create sonic booms over the area to dislodge tons of snow that could bury tourists and road crews.



Up and out. Pilots Safford and Spillane barely clear 10,000 foot peak after making a speedy pass over a potential avalanche area.

Banking sharply, pilot puts his aircraft into a steep dive as target area looms ahead. His only exit is just about straight up.

This F-106 Delta Dart makes a swing through the mountains of Glacier National Park in response to Rangers' call upon the Air Force to create a slide producing sonic boom. Planes fly in pairs.

Rotary plow piles snow into 60 foot banks along edge of "Going to the Sun" road after jet shock induced three slides that otherwise could endanger road crews. Boom also causes snow to settle.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Youths Can Be Trained To Drive Safely

Perhaps no event is so eagerly looked forward to by the child as the time when he will be allowed to drive a car. In some states, he may be allowed to drive while with his parents long before he receives a legal permit to do so. Usually he knows how to drive and may be a careful driver. Sometimes he's not. This is a strategic time. The wise parent doesn't argue and exhort. Unless the child drives carefully, he is forbidden the opportunity to drive at all.

Dr. Garry Meyers

Once the youth receives his driver's license, he will eagerly volunteer to go with the car on all sorts of errands and will often invent added occasions to use the car. If allowed, he may frequently cruise about aimlessly when the family car is available. Soon he may find excuse to drive the car to school and go to various places at night with it.

—:—

When they are with him as he drives, they keep their eyes on the speedometer and are vigilant of how well he observes traffic regulations. They don't exhort and argue.

When he clearly violates traffic regulations once or twice, they have him pull off the street or highway and they take the wheel. Thereafter he is deprived of driving at all for one or several weeks.

In cases he drives the car alone his parents, on discovering that he has been speeding or driving recklessly, should require him to hand over his driver's license to them to keep for several weeks. It's during his early months of driving that such matters should be carefully observed and strictly enforced.

THE FIRST SEVERAL weeks after your son or daughter has received a driver's license is the period when you can do most to make him a safe driver then and therafter.

Don't wait till his bad attitudes pile up and culminate in a serious accident. Act early to prevent this. Your own steadfastness and consistency during the early weeks of his driving can go far to make your son or daughter a safe driver.

If, by and by, your child is arrested for reckless driving and is hauled into court, you may be tempted to plead with the court not to penalize him or to take away his license. If you do so, you will almost surely prepare him for more accidents and trouble later.

A certain mother told me she saw her son, 12, on the way home from school, riding out recklessly into traffic, violating the simple rules of traffic safety, barely escaping alive.

SHE TOLD HOW she was breathless with fright. Then she added that she told him later how serious the matter was, but that he was not much impressed.

Why did she not deny him the use of a bicycle for at least two weeks and let him walk to and from school? Talk and explanation don't do much good. Decisive action which has forceful meaning is usually necessary to get desirable results.

My bulletins, "Early Steps in Training Tot in Safety" and "Educating Child in Responsibility", may be head by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Stargazer Balloon Pushes Back Frontiers Of Space

The balloon and its 4,800-pound gondola never reached its expected altitude of 87,000 feet. At 3 p.m. Thursday it reached its maximum—81,500 feet.

Cool night air caused the balloon to lose altitude gradually through the night. At 11 p.m. it was at 67,000 feet near the southwestern New Mexico town of Truth or Consequences.

William C. White, 40, civilian astronomer from China Lake, Calif., among other things sought to determine if stars twinkle when observed from above the earth's distorting atmosphere. The director of Project Stargazer, Dr. J. Allen Hynek of Northwestern University, thinks the twinkle is lost between 60,000 and 80,000 feet.

The balloonists also tried to record the sound of the stars, described by Dr. Hynek as sounding like an empty coal truck on a bumpy road.

OSU Board Sets Rule On Campus Speakers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An amendment to Ohio State University's rule on guest speakers was enacted by the university's board of trustees Thursday.

Trustee Jacob E. Davis of Cincinnati moved for the adoption of a resolution calling for the amendment. It had been proposed by the faculty advisory committee to the president and the board.

"Section 3: The president shall have the authority to review on his own initiative or otherwise, requests to invite guest speakers and decisions relating to invitations to guest speakers, and to take such action as, in his judgment, he deems necessary or advisable in the best and over-all interests of the university."

Appearance of some controversial speakers on the campus in past months led to the proposed amendment.

2 Held In Stabbing

CINCINNATI (AP)—Police held Jesse Bell Pope, 36, and Ben Ray, 50, for questioning today about the fatal stabbing of Mrs. Maudie Daniels, 63. Officers said Mrs. Daniels apparently was slashed Thursday night when she tried to break up a scuffle between the Pope woman and Ray.

2 Men Named To Direct City 'Dimes' Drive

Edwin L. Martin, 817 Illinois Ave., and James W. Crooks of Sturgis Ave. will be co-chairmen of the East Liverpool March of Dimes in January, Richard G. Brian, head of the countywide drive, announced today.

Brian explained next month's drive marks the 25th anniversary of the campaign, founded originally by President Franklin D. Roosevelt to stamp out polio. Proceeds of the drive now are used mainly to finance research into the causes of birth defects, arthritis and polio.

The campaign also pays for 50 treatment centers for the three types of diseases.

Brian declared 250,000 children are born every year with significant birth defects — almost 700 each day. In addition, there are 11 million Americans, including thousands of children, afflicted with some form of arthritis or rheumatic disease, he said.

"Most communities just don't have the medical personnel or facilities to care adequately for persons stricken with these disabilities," Brian said.

In the 50 treatment centers, teams of medical specialists provide early diagnosis and comprehensive medical care which can cure or minimize the effects of birth defects and arthritis, he said.

Firemen Seek Cause Of Fire Fatal To 3

The $30,000 ranch-type house at outlying Remington, on which Bissantz had done much of the work himself, was damaged so badly firemen said few clues remained to tell what might have started the blaze.

The house was two miles from the nearest fire hydrant. This, and sub-zero weather, hampered efforts to put out the fire.

Bissantz went to stay with his mother in nearby Batavia, where funeral services for his wife and children will be held at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Mr. Shnoo's Zoo

BY LUCRECE BEALE

CHAPTER 11

Mr. Shnoo sniffed and all the attendants sniffed. Never in this world had they smelled so sweet a smell.

"What is it?" Mr. Shnoo asked. "What have you made?"

"Tropical incense," said Santa, watching the smoke drift from the pan. "It's a secret I learned from a fairy queen who rules the island where birds go when they die."

"It is magic!" cried Mr. Shnoo. "See what is happening!"

Truly, it was a sight to see and a sound to hear. The birds had left their nests and were darting about the cage. The songs they sang had never been so clear and lively. Even Herbert and Louise, the giraffes, were affected by it all. They swung their long necks and strange humming sounds came from their throats.

"Happy day, indeed!" agreed Mr. Shnoo. "Ah," he said, turning to Santa, "If only I had the recipe for your incense!"

"No need," said Santa. "For now I believe your birds will live forever."

Mr. Shnoo was overcome. "Because of you," said he, "Shnoo's Zoo now has flying reindeer, a bear with dinosaur teeth and birds that will never die! What a sight for the Queen!"

Santa wrapped his long wool scarf around his neck. "I hope she comes soon," he said. "For bad luck seems to plague you."

"Don't worry," said Mr. Shnoo. "I am sure our bad luck is over."

"Perhaps," said Santa. "Anyway, you know how to reach me should the need arise." With that he was out of the door and gone before Mr. Shnoo could blink his eyes.

MR. SHNOO was wrong. His bad luck was not over. The next day trouble came to the big animal house when Henrietta, the elephant, fell over on her side and could not get up again.

'It's a secret I learned from a fairy queen.'

It happened this way:

Every night Henrietta was tied to a stake on the right side of her cage and it was her custom to lean against the big stone wall on her right while she slept.

The night before she was tied to the left side of her cage. When she dozed off she leaned over to the right as was her custom but the wall was not there and poor Henrietta went plop right over on her side.

Now an elephant can lie down by first bending his front legs under him and then kneeling down on his back legs. When he is down like this he can get back up very easily. But when an elephant is lying on his side, all four legs stick straight out and no matter how much he tries he cannot get back up on them.

THIS IS the way Henrietta was found and Mr. Shnoo was very angry.

The elephant attendant swore it had not been his fault. "She was staked on the right side. I saw it myself!"

Who else was about?"

"No one. Except Crookshank, who's always around."

Crookshank declared he'd had nothing to do with the matter and Mr. Shnoo said anyway the thing to do now was to get Henrietta back on her feet.

He called in all the men in the zoo and they all got behind Henrietta and pushed and pushed and pushed, but they could not budge her.

Mr. Shnoo had the men put a pulley at the top of the cage. He wrapped canvas around Henrietta's middle and tied it with ropes through the pulley. Then the men pulled on the ropes. Henrietta was raised two inches but, try as they would, the men could lift her no higher.

Poor Henrietta kicked her legs feebly and snorted unhappily through her trunk. She looked at Mr. Shnoo as if to say, "Hurry! I can't stay this way much longer!"

"Don't worry," said Mr. Shnoo gently. "We'll get you up." But how they were to do it, he did not know.

Tomorrow: Skating Henrietta!

Board Makes Plans

Chamber At Midland To Elect 12 Directors

Plans were made at a meeting of the Midland Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors Wednesday night for the election of 12 directors and the appointment of a committee to study the feasibility of Midland banks being open Saturdays.

The nominating committee, headed by David Schwerha, chairman, reported 24 candidates. Ballots will be mailed later this month to members and they are to be returned by Jan. 9, next regular meeting of the board.

Officers will be elected at a reorganization meeting Jan. 16. The annual meeting will be Jan. 23 with William Robertson in charge of plans.

Besides directors, several other members of the Chamber attended and inquired if Midland banks might open on Saturdays.

Charles R. Schmitt, president, will appoint a committee to study the possibility of the Midland branch of the Beaver Trust Co. and the Midland First National Bank opening on Saturdays. Besides their regular hours, the banks now are open every other Tuesday until 5 p. m. and on Friday evenings. The committee will meet next week.

Howard Nophsker, Christmas activities chairman, reported on the recent parade and the lighting of street decorations. He said donations are coming in from various members to pay for the activities.

It was reported that no entry blanks will be necessary for residents of the area participating in the Chamber's Christmas home lighting contest.

The only requirement is that residents have their decorations lighted Dec. 26, 27 and 28 between 7 and 9 p. m. Prizes will be $25, $15 and $10.

Mike Hornick, member of the Chamber's public relations committee, reported on a meeting with the Midland Parent - Teacher Associations to sponsor a joint community picnic June 5 at Idora Park at Youngstown.

Anthony Martell, chairman of the school committee, said the Midland School District is in favor of joining the Western Beaver and Beaver School Districts under Act 561, the state's school district reorganization law.

The board met at the McGeehan Agency.

20 At Christmas Tea Of Calcutta Mothers

Worst Freeze Since 1889

Florida's Harvest Hands Rush To Salvage Fruit

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Harvest hands abandoned winter-killed Florida vegetable farms and streamed into the citrus groves today in a frantic effort to salvage something from the state's worst freeze since 1889.

For fruit growers, paradoxically, a prospect of rising temperatures became a threat now that cold weather has frozen their oranges and grapefruit. Their hope lay in a quick harvest of some of the citrus to convert to juice before relaxation of the cold wave deteriorated the frozen fruit.

Temperatures were expected to go as low as 17 degrees today, with warming forecast tonight.

The Florida Citrus Commission scheduled a meeting to assess damage and consider regulations on use of frost-nipped fruit. State Agriculture Commissioner Doyle E. Conner said ice had formed in 75 to 100 per cent of citrus in Florida except at Fort Pierce, Stuart and the lower East Coast.

Gov. Farris Bryant planned a flight to Lakeland to look into the citrus damage situation.

Florida's rich soil and normally warm sunshine can produce another vegetable crop in about six weeks.

Florida Citrus Mutual, big growers cooperative, estimated that despite smudge fires, machines to stir up the air to prevent frost and other efforts to save the citrus crop—which is central Florida's economic mainstay—more fruit was frozen than in 1957-58. That year, 30 million boxes of citrus were lost and 30,000 trees killed.

U.S. Weather Bureau and Florida Agricultural Experiment Station forecasters said that tonight would see some moderation of the cold snap that sent the mercury Thursday to 10 degrees at Tallahassee, 11 at Ocala, 12 at Jacksonville and an all-time Tampa low of 19.

Miamians game enough to get out of a warm bed found going to work an uncomfortable and harassing experience.

They ground automobile starters and gunned engines to keep them alive for the first few blocks. Many showed up at their jobs in mothball-fragrant, out-of-style overcoats, caps and gloves which they brought south with them and hadn't used since their arrival.

Yule Event Held By Nebo Grange

The group contributed to a special aid project and to the retarded children's Christmas fund. Food and clothing were brought to the meeting for two families burned out recently.

A Christmas program was presented by Mrs. Guy Frantz, lecturer, which included a film, "How Christmas Carols Originated," shown by Ernest Tullis and readings "Let's Go Neighboring" by Mrs. Ivan Harrols and "First Christmas Stamp" by Mrs. Harold Wilhelm.

Mrs. Allen Bloor and Miss Carol Shade presented children in group singing. They included Linda Rockwell, Claudia Henry, Thomas Jones, Richard Bloor, John Bloor, Marsha Ferguson and David Wade Ferguson.

A poem on "Peace" was presented by Allen Bloor; two accordion solos were played by David Ferguson, and a tabloid on the manger scene was presented by Mr. and Mrs. Morlan.

Treats of oranges and popcorn balls were distributed and lunch was served by the social committee. Next meeting is Jan. 9.

Rural Women To Meet

LISBON — A Christmas coverdish dinner will be held at a meeting of the Fairfield Friendly Neighbors Home Demonstration Group Wednesday from 10:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. with Mrs. Alvin Carroll of Middleton Rd. Members are to bring a coverdish, cookies, white elephant Christmas item, 1963 aims and resolution and a holiday poem or thought.

Castro Losing Favor: Russians Took Rum

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP)—Most Cubans who flee their homes contend that Prime Minister Fidel Castro is losing favor and often have elaborate explanations as to why.

But one of the latest group of 12 men who docked at Mastic point, Andros Island, had a simpler version. He said Castro lost half his support when the Soviet troops began arriving.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Youths Can Be Trained To Drive Safely

Perhaps no event is so eagerly looked forward to by the child as the time when he will be allowed to drive a car. In some states, he may be allowed to drive while with his parents long before he receives a legal permit to do so. Usually he knows how to drive and may be a careful driver. Sometimes he's not. This is a strategic time. The wise parent doesn't argue and exhort. Unless the child drives carefully, he is forbidden the opportunity to drive at all.

Dr. Garry Meyers

Once the youth receives his driver's license, he will eagerly volunteer to go with the car on all sorts of errands and will often invent added occasions to use the car. If allowed, he may frequently cruise about aimlessly when the family car is available. Soon he may find excuse to drive the car to school and go to various places at night with it.

—:—

When they are with him as he drives, they keep their eyes on the speedometer and are vigilant of how well he observes traffic regulations. They don't exhort and argue.

When he clearly violates traffic regulations once or twice, they have him pull off the street or highway and they take the wheel. Thereafter he is deprived of driving at all for one or several weeks.

In cases he drives the car alone his parents, on discovering that he has been speeding or driving recklessly, should require him to hand over his driver's license to them to keep for several weeks. It's during his early months of driving that such matters should be carefully observed and strictly enforced.

THE FIRST SEVERAL weeks after your son or daughter has received a driver's license is the period when you can do most to make him a safe driver then and thereafter.

Don't wait till his bad attitudes pile up and culminate in a serious accident. Act early to prevent this. Your own steadfastness and consistency during the early weeks of his driving can go far to make your son or daughter a safe driver.

If, by and by, your child is arrested for reckless driving and is hauled into court, you may be tempted to plead with the court not to penalize him or to take away his license. If you do so, you will almost surely prepare him for more accidents and trouble later.

A related problem is with the younger child who does not observe reasonable safety rules riding a bicycle.

A certain mother told me she saw her son, 12, on the way home from school, riding out recklessly into traffic, violating the simple rules of traffic safety, barely escaping alive.

SHE TOLD HOW she was breathless with fright. Then she added that she told him later how serious the matter was, but that he was not much impressed.

Why did she not deny him the use of a bicycle for at least two weeks and let him walk to and from school? Talk and explanation don't do much good. Decisive action which has forceful meaning is usually necessary to get desirable results.

Stargazer Balloon Pushes Back Frontiers Of Space

The 200-foot diameter plastic balloon was to land at sunrise between Las Cruces and Deming about 50 miles west of its launching site here.

The balloon and its 4,800-pound gondola never reached its expected altitude of 87,000 feet. At 3 p.m. Thursday it reached its maximum—81,500 feet.

Cool night air caused the balloon to lose altitude gradually through the night. At 11 p.m. it was at 67,000 feet near the southwestern New Mexico town of Truth or Consequences.

Air Force Capt. Joe W. Kittinger Jr., 34, the pilot, reported the lower altitude apparently wasn't hampering experiments with the 12½-inch telescope mounted atop the gondola.

William C. White, 40, civilian astronomer from China Lake, Calif., among other things sought to determine if stars twinkle when observed from above the earth's distorting atmosphere. The director of Project Stargazer, Dr. J. Allen Hynek of Northwestern University, thinks the twinkle is lost between 60,000 and 80,000 feet.

The balloonists also tried to record the sound of the stars, described by Dr. Hynek as sounding like an empty coal truck on a bumpy road.

OSU Board Sets Rule On Campus Speakers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An amendment to Ohio State University's rule on guest speakers was enacted by the university's board of trustees Thursday.

Trustee Jacob E. Davis of Cincinnati moved for the adoption of a resolution calling for the amendment. It had been proposed by the faculty advisory committee to the president and the board.

"Section 3: The president shall have the authority to review on his own initiative or otherwise, requests to invite guest speakers and decisions relating to invitations to guest speakers, and to take such action as, in his judgment, he deems necessary or advisable in the best and over-all interests of the university."

Appearance of some controversial speakers on the campus in past months led to the proposed amendment.

2 Held In Stabbing

CINCINNATI (AP)—Police held Jesse Bell Pope, 36, and Ben Ray, 50, for questioning today about the fatal stabbing of Mrs. Maudie Daniels, 63. Officers said Mrs. Daniels apparently was slashed Thursday night when she tried to break up a scuffle between the Pope woman and Ray.

Junior Editors Quiz on HELICOPTERS

ANSWER: The helicopter principle of the moving wing has been known for a long time. Leonardo da Vinci made sketches along these lines 450 years ago. Edison experimented with the idea. A breakthrough came with the conception of rotating blades each of which could be given a twist or "pitch" (A). The pitch of each of the helicopter's three blades changes as it whirls around. To fly forward, the blades get a flat pitch as they come to the front; they then twist until they have a sharp pitch in the rear. To fly backwards it's just the reverse; the greatest pitch is in front, the flat pitch to the rear. Drawings to the right show how other changes in rotor pitch enable the helicopter to hover and fly directly up and down. The helicopter has proved to be of great value in many ways It can come down and land on the roof of a building in a city, hover in the air and let down a line to rescue people on sea or land, land soldiers behind battle lines, fight forest fires, spray fields and orchards with insecticides. Recently, the helicopter "rotor" has been combined with the airplane wing for faster flight. We illustrate one such "convertiplane."

FOR YOU TO DO: Look at the picture on the single-man helicopter and dream a bit. Such a job has actually been flown. Wouldn't it be fun, some day, if you could climb into your own little "egg-beater" and chug over to the store for a box of potato chips?

Junior Editors Quiz on HELICOPTERS

ANSWER: The helicopter principle of the moving wing has been known for a long time. Leonardo da Vinci made sketches along these lines 450 years ago. Edison experimented with the idea. A breakthrough came with the conception of rotating blades each of which could be given a twist or "pitch" (A). The pitch of each of the helicopter's three blades changes as it whirls around. To fly forward, the blades get a flat pitch as they come to the front; they then twist until they have a sharp pitch in the rear. To fly backwards it's just the reverse; the greatest pitch is in front, the flat pitch to the rear. Drawings to the right show how other changes in rotor pitch enable the helicopter to hover and fly directly up and down. The helicopter has proved to be of great value in many ways. It can come down and land on the roof of a building in a city, hover in the air and let down a line to rescue people on sea or land, land soldiers behind battle lines, fight forest fires, spray fields and orchards with insecticides. Recently, the helicopter "rotor" has been combined with the airplane wing for faster flight. We illustrate one such "convertiplane."

FOR YOU TO DO: Look at the picture on the single-man helicopter and dream a bit. Such a job has actually been flown. Wouldn't it be fun, some day, if you could climb into your own little "egg-beater" and chug over to the store for a box of potato chips?

Mark Beynart of North Dighton, Mass., wins $10 for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review, and you may win $10 or the weekly grand prize of a set of Britannica Junior Encyclopedias.
